Quitting Wage Stabilization Board

Postoffice Racket Is Uncovered in New England Area

Clerks Paid to Have Their Time Cards Punched; 200 Employes Involved

Boston, Feb. 17 (AP)—How can a postoffice clerk bask in sunny Florida and sort mail in frigid Boston at the same time?

That's just one of the questions puzzling postal inspectors as they dig into a payroll scheme which is said to have defrauded the government of millions of dollars.

Tennyson Jefferson, chief postal inspector for the New England region, will say only that ten members of his staff are "investigating the situation" at Boston's big south postal annex.

The probe was touched off ten days ago when Jefferson's men swooped down on the annex, sealed all exits and found—published reports said—that 28 workers whose time cards were punched were not in the building.

Method Employed

An estimated 200 employes were reported involved in a racket said to work like this:

Instead of reporting for duty, the worker would go to his other job or just loaf. His time card would be punched in by a fellow employe for $3 a day or a flat $10 per week.

If the man reported for work but wished to leave early, he just paid the time card falsifier $1 per day.

One clerk was reported vacationing in Florida while his card was being punched regularly. Another was said to have amassed a $25,000 bank account, although clerks' salaries range from $2,770 to a bit over $4,000 annually.

Had 10 Time Cards

The night the raiders arrived, they are reported to have found one clerk with time cards of 10 fellow workers in his pocket. At least one of these substitute card punchers was said to have picked up $10,000 over the past year by punching in for others.

Physically the Boston Postal District—which takes in about 20 communities—is the nation's largest. It is sixth in volume of business handled.

And the South Postal Annex—which employs 1,400 at peak hours—is the mail distributing center of the district.

Postmaster Francis A. Crowley has refused to comment on the investigation.

Will Seek Restitution

United States Attorney William Garrity says he has no official notice of the pay fraud scheme but adds that he will seek full restitution and penalties provided by law if Jefferson's probe turns up criminal offenses.

Published reports have set the cost of the racket to the government at as much as $4,000,000 since the end of World War 2, when it is said to have started.

According to some postoffice employes, the only time some of these "workers" came to the annex was on bi-weekly paydays.

A spokesman for the Boston local of the AFL Postoffice Clerks' Union said in a statement:

"The probe here reflects in no way on the overwhelming majority of regular postoffice employes."

An official who declined use of his name said:

"Those involved were younger fellows who have been in the system only since the end of the war. In all there weren't ten regular men involved. Most of the 'clipping' was done by temporary workers."

A career employe of 20 years service said of the affair:

"This will do career men more good and maybe our efforts will be appreciated."

Government Leaders Seek Ways to Bring Labor Back Into Fold

Industry Accuses Labor of Hurting Unity, While Labor Says Government Scores Big Business—Prices Go to New High 14th Straight Week

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Government leaders groped today for ways and means of bringing labor leaders back into the wage control program from which they walked in a rage.

Industry leaders accused the labor leaders of hurting national unity and seeking a new round of wage increases.

The labor leaders accused the government of serving big business and ignoring the "plain people," and they predicted "serious unrest in industry."

Meantime the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that in the week ending Feb. 13 wholesale prices rose to a new high for the 14th straight week. The average rise was one-half of one per cent. Farm products led the new advance.

The government's economic mobilization effort was in something very like a crisis.

Eric Johnston, the economic stabilizer, sat and stared at a piece of paper on his desk. It was the wage formula adopted 6-3 by the Wage Stabilization Board Thursday night, a formula that would limit group wage and salary increases to 10 per cent between Jan. 15, 1950, and next July 1.

Half No Raise At All

This would allow auto workers to get a scheduled "cost of living" wage raise March 1, but not thereafter. It would not permit any raises for most workers in steel, coal, aluminum, cotton textiles, and cotton garments. On the other hand, the great majority of American workers have not received 10 per cent since the start of 1950, and government officials said about half of them have not had any raise at all.

But Johnston's signature was needed before the formula could take effect.

Last night the industry members, Henry B. Arthur, J. Ward Keener, and Reuben Robertson,

Corcoran, Jr., 7, Mrs. Clarence S. Rowland and Martin Kelly; 8, Mrs. Frank Thompson and Henry Kelsch; 9, David Conway and Lawrence M. Jenson; 10, Mrs. William Frey; 11, Mrs. Eugene Cornwell and Mrs. Clarence S. Main; 12, James C. Plunkett; 13, Ann E. McClenahan.

The residential drive will commence on March 1.

The complete list of chairmen in the various township areas will be announced.

Saved by Negro Scout

Decatur, Ala., Feb. 17 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Brent Reece and children went to the railroad station yesterday to see relatives off on a train. The train was roaring in when Mrs. Reece saw her son, Lowell, 4, standing on the track in its path. Her heart went to her mouth; he was too far away to reach. But someone else—Nathan Tate, 12-year-old Negro boy scout—had seen Lowell a second earlier. He dashed out and swept the white tot from the wheels of the approaching train. Afterwards, Nathan commented surprisedly, "Why I saved that little boy's life."

Opens Drive Quarters

The Kingston Boys' Club finance drive committee has opened an offic at 259 Fair street, in the quarters formerly occupied by Ben Sklon. The office will be staffed each afternoon during the drive, which continues through Monday, Feb. 26. Information about the Boys' Club will be distributed from that office and donations to the drive will be received there. The office space was donated by Ruzzo Brothers, owners of the building.

Two Invited To Speak on Troop Issue

Senate G.O.P. Heads Might Split Over Problem of Sending Men to Europe

Millikin Opposed

Senate Leader Against Numerical Limit on Quotas

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Senate Republican leaders appeared on the verge of a three-way split today over the troops-to-Europe issue.

At the same time, the combined Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees awaited answers to their invitations to former President Hoover and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York to testify when they resume hearings on the issue next week.

Dewey, the 1948 Republican presidential nominee, has urged the raising of an army of 100 divisions and all-out help to western Europe to rearm. Hoover has said the United States should not send another man or dollar until Europe erects a "sure dam" against communism.

Other Differences

In the meantime other differences of opinion appeared among Senate leaders already divided over the question of whether Congress shall limit the number of American troops to serve in the North Atlantic defense setup under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Colleagues said Senator Millikin of Colorado, head of the conference of all G.O.P. senators, had told them he is opposed to any numerical limitation, but Millikin would not comment publicly.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the party's Senate Policy Committee, has called for a ceiling on ground force transfers abroad, as has Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the G.O.P. floor leader.

Has No Objection

However, Taft said he had no objection to the move announced by Secretary of Defense Marshall to send four more divisions to Europe, so long as Congress gets a chance to pass first on the apportionment of the North Atlantice defense force. Wherry, on the other hand, is author of a resolution pending before the committees to ban the transfer of troops until Congress acts on the policy involved. He called testimony by Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson and Gen. Omar N. Bradley "only generalities."

Acheson predicted to the committees yesterday that western European nations would double their forces by next year. Wherry said this didn't mean much.

"Even if they double their forces, what have you got?" Wherry demanded. "How would it compare with what Russia has?"

Will Be Given Query

Lawmakers said the chiefs of staff of the army, navy and air force, scheduled to testify Monday before the committees, probably will be asked about a statement by Premier Stalin, generally dis-

Foresees Atom Subs

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The U. S. probably will have atom-powered submarines in a few years, Commissioner Sumner T. Pike of the Atomic Energy Commission predicts. The first atomic plant for a submarine is "partly built," Pike said last night in a speech at the University of Rochester. He also said that research on the hydrogen bomb was "an important part" of the multi-billion-dollar atomic program. He did not elaborate on the H-bomb.

No Clues Found Of Red Change

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—State Department officials explored Prime Minister Stalin's new pronouncement on world problems today for possible clues to changes in Soviet foreign policy. Most believed they searched in vain.

The attitude of the administration's experts in Soviet behavior appeared to parallel that of several senators who assessed the statement as propaganda.

Considerable interest was aroused, however, by the fact that Stalin himself has now taken up and given final public sanction to a line voiced for the past year by lesser Soviet figures: That the U.N. has become an instrument of Anglo-American control dominated by what the Russian premier called the "aggressive core" of western hemisphere and Atlantic treaty nations.

Strike of 70,000 Device to Establish 'Talking Point'

Union Official Says Firm Asked for Walkout; No Disorders Reported

Boston, Feb. 17 (AP)—The strike of 70,000 CIO wool and worsted mill workers over a 15-cent an hour pay boost was spiced today with an argument over the price freeze question.

A union official said the American Woolen Company "asked for the strike so they could have a talking point with Washington to relax the price freeze."

That argument was advanced yesterday by James J. Ellis, business agent of the Massachusetts Joint Board of Textile Workers Union of America.

Robert Montgomery, counsel for the American Woolen Company, replied "the company did not want the strike and we told the union we didn't want it."

He said the strike "is not a way of bringing pressure to bear on the price freeze situation."

Union chiefs said the strike, which started yesterday and affected about half of all the woolen and worsted workers in the nation, was "universally effective."

No Disorders Reported

No disorders were reported during the first day of the strike as pickets marched peacefully around plants scattered throughout New England, in other eastern states and in the south.

The strike was launched after a breakdown of negotiations between the union and the American Woolen Company, which sets the wage pattern for the industry. The CIO-TWUA, held contracts with 20 of the firm's 25 mills.

Shortly after the strike got underway, Emil Rieve, general president of the union, telegraphed President Truman that the pay program adopted yesterday by the Wage Stabilization Board "simply will not be accepted" by striking members of the union.

He said the new wage formula

Americans Attack Red Vanguards

Troops Gain Two Miles in Some Sectors of Chechon Area; Force of Enemy Blasted

15,000 Are Massed

Chinese Are Regrouped but Not Committed to Battle

Tokyo, Feb. 17 (AP)—American infantrymen counter-attacked vanguards of three Red Korean divisions today in the hills north of Chechon where the enemy had dented allied lines 10 miles.

The American troops supported by rolling artillery barrages gained as much as two miles in some sectors.

The battle still was raging across ridges and valleys at 5 p. m. (3 a. m., EST).

One Red force drove within three miles of the Chechon road hub but South Koreans rolled the enemy back from there.

A U. S. 10th Corps officer said the Red Korean push on Chechon had not formed into a definite pattern. But the Reds had failed in the opening phases to turn the allied east flank.

Accurate artillery fire and counterattacks blunted the force of the enemy punch, shifted eastward from bloodily repulsed onslaughts at Chipyong and Wonju.

Only Serious Effort

The smash at the transport hub of Chechon, a mountain gateway to South Korea, was the only serious enemy effort. The Reds massed 15,000 or more men in the area but a late field report said only spearheads had been committed.

Eastward on the coast, South Korean troops made a deep pullback from the 38th Parallel to a new defense line but under no enemy pressure.

Westward for 70 miles to Seoul, there was scattered, small-scale fighting.

Around Wonju and Chipyong, where Chinese Reds suffered 22,128 casualties in four days but failed to break through, allied patrols ranged one to more than two miles north without finding Reds.

Remnants Pulled Back

The chewed-up Chinese 41st Corps has pulled back the remnants of four divisions for regrouping. But there were signs that upwards of 150,000 Chinese Reds still might try to smash the allied center and imperil 100,000 United Nations troops around Seoul.

Three separate battles flared Friday night and Saturday around Chechon, 14 miles southeast of Wonju. Accurate U.N. artillery quickly broke up a Red attack at 11:40 Friday night six miles northeast of Chechon.

At about the same hour, a Red regiment assaulted South Korean units 10 miles northeast of the town. By 2 a. m. Saturday, the attack subsided.

The third action was initiated nine miles northeast of Chechon by South Koreans against a southbound North Korean column.

Desmond Will Seek Fund To Build Homes for Elderly

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A Republican legislator proposed today that the state lend up to $50,000,000 for building non-profit homes for the elderly.

Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh, chairman of the joint legislative committee on problems of the aging, said he would introduce a bill Monday night to set up the new program.

The proposal was part of a 10-point program recommended by Desmond as a "new concept of help to the aged, in that it stresses preventive and rehabilitative action rather than mere hand-outs."

The major program bill would "authorize the State Housing Division to lend $50,000,000 without subsidy or grant to non-profit agencies for expansion of existing old-age home facilities, construction of apartment houses and cottages designed especially for oldsters, and nursing-home and boarding-home facilities.

"This is the first definite proposal submitted in this country for a large-scale attack upon housing for oldsters," Desmond said in a statement.

The other Desmond bills would:

Two years later she eloped with Nick Poulos, a shoe clerk. They have a 16-month-old son. (A.P. Wirephoto).

Delaware County Property Owners Seek Indemnities

About 80 Persons Claim More Than Million From New York for Damage

Margaretville, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—Did New York city's rainmaking project have something to do with the big storm last Nov. 25?

That's the contention of about 80 property owners in this resort area of Delaware county.

Attorney Herman Gottfried said last night he had filed claims totaling more than $1,000,000 against New York city on behalf of the property owners, who include hotel proprietors and the villages of Margaretville and Fleischmanns.

The claims were filed with the city's comptroller, Lazarus Joseph, the lawyer said.

Gottfried said the claim was that city rainmakers tampered with the clouds Nov. 25, the day of the near-hurricane in the northeast. Rain caused floods in this area. Hotels, roads, bridges and equipment were damaged.

New York city undertook a rainmaking project about a year ago because of a water shortage. This county is one of the city's water sources.

Hindustan Paper Says Reds Lack Gas

Hospital Facilities Also Are Affected in North China

New Delhi, India, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Hindustan Times said today China's Korean adventure has stripped North China of gasoline and strained its hospital facilities.

A dispatch from Hong Kong—datelined "at sea off the China coast," and written by Correspondent Arthur Moore—reported a visit to Peiping and said lack of gasoline is Mao Tze-tung's major headache.

"Peiping and Tientsin are gasoline-dry," Moore reported. "Only top priority military trucks and the diplomatic corps get gas. In both cities there are stray charcoal taxis and buses but men harnessed with ropes, ponies, donkeys and oxen, do all the haulage."

He said the shortage of motor fuel raised for the Chinese "an urgent practical question of supply. Without gas, communications

Soviet Says War Is Not Inevitable

Says Faith Missing

G.I.s Fight Poorly, He Says, Due to Lack of Belief in Cause

Moscow, Feb. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Stalin said last night that war is not inevitable—"at least for the present" — but charged the United States with turning the United Nations into a tool of aggression.

In his first major foreign policy statement in two years the 71-year-old Soviet leader predicted the Korean war would end in defeat of American forces, unless Washington and London accept peace terms laid down by Communist China.

He denounced the United Nations resolution labelling Communist China an aggressor as "disgraceful" and predicted the U.N.'s downfall. He declared:

"The United Nations organization is therefore taking the ingloritus road of the League of Nations. In this way it is burying its moral prestige and dooming itself to disintegration."

Organization for Americans

Stalin charged that the U.N. was not proportionally representative of world populations and had become "not as much a world organization as an organization for the Americans, an organization acting on behalf of the requirements of the American aggressors."

He said American GIs fought brilliantly and effectively in defeating Germany and Japan, but that they were losing on Korean battlefields because they had no faith in their cause.

Stalin used the Communist newspaper Pravda as the vehicle for his pronouncements adopting the familiar pattern of questions and answers in a newspaper interview.

The broadside from the Kremlin was in direct reply to a recent House of Commons statement by British Prime Minister Attlee to the effect that after the end of World War 2 the Soviet Union did not disarm. Stalin castigated the statement as "a slander against the Soviet Union."

Not in Favor of Peace

Stalin charged that the socialist government of Britain was not in favor of peace "but of unleashing a new aggressive World War" in concert with the United States.

Western observers wondered at the timing of the major policy statement which comes one day after the British House of Commons gave final approval to a $13,160,000,000 rearmament plan.

They noted also the Stalin statement was released in advance of a four-power deputies meeting in Paris to arrange a conference of foreign ministers of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France in an effort to end eastwest tensions.

Western diplomats are studying the text of the Stalin interview carefully to find any divergence from previous Soviet policy. So far they have found none.

Came in Interview

The Soviet prime minister's last previous major announcement on foreign affairs came in a question and answer interview with Kingsbury Smith of the International News Service early in 1949. A hint thrown out in that interview and seized upon by American diplomats, resulted in a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers and an end of the Berlin blockade.

In his opening reply, Prime Minister Stalin denied Attlee's assertion that Soviet forces were not demobilized at the end of the war.

"If Prime Minister Attlee were competent in financial or economic science, he would have realized without difficulty that not a single state, the Soviet Union included, could develop civilian industry to the full, launch great construction projects * * * which demand scores of hundreds of thousands

Foresees Atom Subs

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The U. S. probably will have atom-powered submarines in a few years, Commissioner Sumner T. Pike of the Atomic Energy Commission predicts. The first atomic plant for a submarine is "partly built," Pike said last night in a speech at the University of Rochester. He also said that research on the hydrogen bomb was "an important part" of the multi-billion-dollar atomic program. He did not elaborate on the H-bomb.

No Clues Found Of Red Change

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—State Department officials explored Prime Minister Stalin's new pronouncement on world problems today for possible clues to changes in Soviet foreign policy. Most believed they searched in vain.

The attitude of the administration's experts in Soviet behavior appeared to parallel that of several senators who assessed the statement as propaganda.

Considerable interest was aroused, however, by the fact that Stalin himself has now taken up and given final public sanction to a line voiced for the past year by lesser Soviet figures: That the U.N. has become an instrument of Anglo-American control dominated by what the Russian premier called the "aggressive core" of western hemisphere and Atlantic treaty nations.

Strike of 70,000 Device to Establish 'Talking Point'

Union Official Says Firm Asked for Walkout; No Disorders Reported

Boston, Feb. 17 (AP)—The strike of 70,000 CIO wool and worsted mill workers over a 15-cent an hour pay boost was spiced today with an argument over the price freeze question.

A union official said the American Woolen Company "asked for the strike so they could have a talking point with Washington to relax the price freeze."

That argument was advanced yesterday by James J. Ellis, business agent of the Massachusetts Joint Board of Textile Workers Union of America.

Robert Montgomery, counsel for the American Woolen Company, replied "the company did not want the strike and we told the union we didn't want it."

He said the strike "is not a way of bringing pressure to bear on the price freeze situation."

Union chiefs said the strike, which started yesterday and affected about half of all the woolen and worsted workers in the nation, was "universally effective."

No Disorders Reported

No disorders were reported during the first day of the strike as pickets marched peacefully around plants scattered throughout New England, in other eastern states and in the south.

The strike was launched after a breakdown of negotiations between the union and the American Woolen Company, which sets the wage pattern for the industry. The CIO-TWUA, held contracts with 20 of the firm's 25 mills.

Shortly after the strike got underway, Emil Rieve, general president of the union, telegraphed President Truman that the pay program adopted yesterday by the Wage Stabilization Board "simply will not be accepted" by striking members of the union.

He said the new wage formula

Americans Attack Red Vanguards

Chinese Are Regrouped but Not Committed to Battle

Tokyo, Feb. 17 (AP)—American infantrymen counter-attacked vanguards of three Red Korean divisions today in the hills north of Chechon where the enemy had dented allied lines 10 miles.

The American troops supported by rolling artillery barrages gained as much as two miles in some sectors.

The battle still was raging across ridges and valleys at 5 p. m. (3 a. m., EST).

One Red force drove within three miles of the Chechon road hub but South Koreans rolled the enemy back from there.

A U. S. 10th Corps officer said the Red Korean push on Chechon had not formed into a definite pattern. But the Reds had failed in the opening phases to turn the allied east flank.

Accurate artillery fire and counterattacks blunted the force of the enemy punch, shifted eastward from bloodily repulsed onslaughts at Chipyong and Wonju.

Only Serious Effort

The smash at the transport hub of Chechon, a mountain gateway to South Korea, was the only serious enemy effort. The Reds massed 15,000 or more men in the area but a late field report said only spearheads had been committed.

Eastward on the coast, South Korean troops made a deep pullback from the 38th Parallel to a new defense line but under no enemy pressure.

Westward for 70 miles to Seoul, there was scattered, small-scale fighting.

Around Wonju and Chipyong, where Chinese Reds suffered 22,128 casualties in four days but failed to break through, allied patrols ranged one to more than two miles north without finding Reds.

Remnants Pulled Back

The chewed-up Chinese 41st Corps has pulled back the remnants of four divisions for regrouping. But there were signs that upwards of 150,000 Chinese Reds still might try to smash the allied center and imperil 100,000 United Nations troops around Seoul.

Three separate battles flared Friday night and Saturday around Chechon, 14 miles southeast of Wonju. Accurate U.N. artillery quickly broke up a Red attack at 11:40 Friday night six miles northeast of Chechon.

At about the same hour, a Red regiment assaulted South Korean units 10 miles northeast of the town. By 2 a. m. Saturday, the attack subsided.

The third action was initiated nine miles northeast of Chechon by South Koreans against a southbound North Korean column.

Desmond Will Seek Fund To Build Homes for Elderly

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A Republican legislator proposed today that the state lend up to $50,000,000 for building non-profit homes for the elderly.

Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh, chairman of the joint legislative committee on problems of the aging, said he would introduce a bill Monday night to set up the new program.

The proposal was part of a 10-point program recommended by Desmond as a "new concept of help to the aged, in that it stresses preventive and rehabilitative action rather than mere hand-outs."

The major program bill would "authorize the State Housing Division to lend $50,000,000 without subsidy or grant to non-profit agencies for expansion of existing old-age home facilities, construction of apartment houses and cottages designed especially for oldsters, and nursing-home and boarding-home facilities.

"This is the first definite proposal submitted in this country for a large-scale attack upon housing for oldsters," Desmond said in a statement.

Delaware County Property Owners Seek Indemnities

About 80 Persons Claim More Than Million From New York for Damage

Margaretville, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—Did New York city's rainmaking project have something to do with the big storm last Nov. 25?

That's the contention of about 80 property owners in this resort area of Delaware county.

Attorney Herman Gottfried said last night he had filed claims totaling more than $1,000,000 against New York city on behalf of the property owners, who include hotel proprietors and the villages of Margaretville and Fleischmanns.

The claims were filed with the city's comptroller, Lazarus Joseph, the lawyer said.

Gottfried said the claim was that city rainmakers tampered with the clouds Nov. 25, the day of the near-hurricane in the northeast. Rain caused floods in this area. Hotels, roads, bridges and equipment were damaged.

New York city undertook a rainmaking project about a year ago because of a water shortage. This county is one of the city's water sources.

Soviet Says War Is Not Inevitable

Says Faith Missing

G.I.s Fight Poorly, He Says, Due to Lack of Belief in Cause

Moscow, Feb. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Stalin said last night that war is not inevitable—"at least for the present" — but charged the United States with turning the United Nations into a tool of aggression.

In his first major foreign policy statement in two years the 71-year-old Soviet leader predicted the Korean war would end in defeat of American forces, unless Washington and London accept peace terms laid down by Communist China.

He denounced the United Nations resolution labelling Communist China an aggressor as "disgraceful" and predicted the U.N.'s downfall. He declared:

"The United Nations organization is therefore taking the ingloritus road of the League of Nations. In this way it is burying its moral prestige and dooming itself to disintegration."

Organization for Americans

Stalin charged that the U.N. was not proportionally representative of world populations and had become "not as much a world organization as an organization for the Americans, an organization acting on behalf of the requirements of the American aggressors."

He said American GIs fought brilliantly and effectively in defeating Germany and Japan, but that they were losing on Korean battlefields because they had no faith in their cause.

Stalin used the Communist newspaper Pravda as the vehicle for his pronouncements adopting the familiar pattern of questions and answers in a newspaper interview.

The broadside from the Kremlin was in direct reply to a recent House of Commons statement by British Prime Minister Attlee to the effect that after the end of World War 2 the Soviet Union did not disarm. Stalin castigated the statement as "a slander against the Soviet Union."

Not in Favor of Peace

Stalin charged that the socialist government of Britain was not in favor of peace "but of unleashing a new aggressive World War" in concert with the United States.

Western observers wondered at the timing of the major policy statement which comes one day after the British House of Commons gave final approval to a $13,160,000,000 rearmament plan.

They noted also the Stalin statement was released in advance of a four-power deputies meeting in Paris to arrange a conference of foreign ministers of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France in an effort to end eastwest tensions.

Western diplomats are studying the text of the Stalin interview carefully to find any divergence from previous Soviet policy. So far they have found none.

Came in Interview

The Soviet prime minister's last previous major announcement on foreign affairs came in a question and answer interview with Kingsbury Smith of the International News Service early in 1949. A hint thrown out in that interview and seized upon by American diplomats, resulted in a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers and an end of the Berlin blockade.

In his opening reply, Prime Minister Stalin denied Attlee's assertion that Soviet forces were not demobilized at the end of the war.

"If Prime Minister Attlee were competent in financial or economic science, he would have realized without difficulty that not a single state, the Soviet Union included, could develop civilian industry to the full, launch great construction projects * * * which demand scores of hundreds of thousands

Postoffice Racket Is Uncovered in New England Area

Clerks Paid to Have Their Time Cards Punched; 200 Employes Involved

Boston, Feb. 17 (AP)—How can a postoffice clerk bask in sunny Florida and sort mail in frigid Boston at the same time?

That's just one of the questions puzzling postal inspectors as they dig into a payroll scheme which is said to have defrauded the government of millions of dollars.

Tennyson Jefferson, chief postal inspector for the New England region, will say only that ten members of his staff are "investigating the situation" at Boston's big south postal annex.

The probe was touched off ten days ago when Jefferson's men swooped down on the annex, sealed all exits and found—published reports said—that 28 workers whose time cards were punched were not in the building.

Method Employed

An estimated 200 employes were reported involved in a racket said to work like this:

Instead of reporting for duty, the worker would go to his other job or just loaf. His time card would be punched in by a fellow employe for $3 a day or a flat $10 per week.

If the man reported for work but wished to leave early, he just paid the time card falsifier $1 per day.

One clerk was reported vacationing in Florida while his card was being punched regularly. Another was said to have amassed a $25,000 bank account, although clerks' salaries range from $2,770 to a bit over $4,000 annually.

Had 10 Time Cards

The night the raiders arrived, they are reported to have found one clerk with time cards of 10 fellow workers in his pocket. At least one of these substitute card punchers was said to have picked up $10,000 over the past year by punching in for others.

Physically the Boston Postal District—which takes in about 20 communities—is the nation's largest. It is sixth in volume of business handled.

And the South Postal Annex—which employs 1,400 at peak hours—is the mail distributing center of the district.

Postmaster Francis A. Crowley has refused to comment on the investigation.

Will Seek Restitution

United States Attorney William Garrity says he has no official notice of the pay fraud scheme but adds that he will seek full restitution and penalties provided by law if Jefferson's probe turns up criminal offenses.

Published reports have set the cost of the racket to the government at as much as $4,000,000 since the end of World War 2, when it is said to have started.

According to some postoffice employes, the only time some of these "workers" came to the annex was on bi-weekly paydays.

A spokesman for the Boston local of the AFL Postoffice Clerks' Union said in a statement:

"The probe here reflects in no way on the overwhelming majority of regular postoffice employes."

An official who declined use of his name said:

"Those involved were younger fellows who have been in the system only since the end of the war. In all there weren't ten regular men involved. Most of the 'clipping' was done by temporary workers."

A career employe of 20 years service said of the affair:

"This will do career men more good and maybe our efforts will be appreciated."

Government Leaders Seek Ways to Bring Labor Back Into Fold

Industry Accuses Labor of Hurting Unity, While Labor Says Government Scores Big Business—Prices Go to New High 14th Straight Week

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Government leaders groped today for ways and means of bringing labor leaders back into the wage control program from which they walked in a rage.

Industry leaders accused the labor leaders of hurting national unity and seeking a new round of wage increases.

The labor leaders accused the government of serving big business and ignoring the "plain people," and they predicted "serious unrest in industry."

Meantime the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that in the week ending Feb. 13 wholesale prices rose to a new high for the 14th straight week. The average rise was one-half of one per cent. Farm products led the new advance.

The government's economic mobilization effort was in something very like a crisis.

Eric Johnston, the economic stabilizer, sat and stared at a piece of paper on his desk. It was the wage formula adopted 6-3 by the Wage Stabilization Board Thursday night, a formula that would limit group wage and salary increases to 10 per cent between Jan. 15, 1950, and next July 1.

Half No Raise At All

This would allow auto workers to get a scheduled "cost of living" wage raise March 1, but not thereafter. It would not permit any raises for most workers in steel, coal, aluminum, cotton textiles, and cotton garments. On the other hand, the great majority of American workers have not received 10 per cent since the start of 1950, and government officials said about half of them have not had any raise at all.

But Johnston's signature was needed before the formula could take effect.

Last night the industry members, Henry B. Arthur, J. Ward Keener, and Reuben Robertson,

Saved by Negro Scout

Decatur, Ala., Feb. 17 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Brent Reece and children went to the railroad station yesterday to see relatives off on a train. The train was roaring in when Mrs. Reece saw her son, Lowell, 4, standing on the track in its path. Her heart went to her mouth; he was too far away to reach. But someone else—Nathan Tate, 12-year-old Negro boy scout—had seen Lowell a second earlier. He dashed out and swept the white tot from the wheels of the approaching train. Afterwards, Nathan commented surprisedly, "Why I saved that little boy's life."

Two Invited To Speak on Troop Issue

Senate G.O.P. Heads Might Split Over Problem of Sending Men to Europe

Millikin Opposed

Senate Leader Against Numerical Limit on Quotas

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Senate Republican leaders appeared on the verge of a three-way split today over the troops-to-Europe issue.

At the same time, the combined Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees awaited answers to their invitations to former President Hoover and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York to testify when they resume hearings on the issue next week.

Dewey, the 1948 Republican presidential nominee, has urged the raising of an army of 100 divisions and all-out help to western Europe to rearm. Hoover has said the United States should not send another man or dollar until Europe erects a "sure dam" against communism.

Other Differences

In the meantime other differences of opinion appeared among Senate leaders already divided over the question of whether Congress shall limit the number of American troops to serve in the North Atlantic defense setup under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Colleagues said Senator Millikin of Colorado, head of the conference of all G.O.P. senators, had told them he is opposed to any numerical limitation, but Millikin would not comment publicly.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the party's Senate Policy Committee, has called for a ceiling on ground force transfers abroad, as has Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the G.O.P. floor leader.

Has No Objection

However, Taft said he had no objection to the move announced by Secretary of Defense Marshall to send four more divisions to Europe, so long as Congress gets a chance to pass first on the apportionment of the North Atlantice defense force. Wherry, on the other hand, is author of a resolution pending before the committees to ban the transfer of troops until Congress acts on the policy involved. He called testimony by Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson and Gen. Omar N. Bradley "only generalities."

Acheson predicted to the committees yesterday that western European nations would double their forces by next year. Wherry said this didn't mean much.

Stalin charged that the U.N. was not proportionally representative of world populations and had become "not as much a world organization as an organization for the Americans, an organization acting on behalf of the requirements of the American aggressors."

He said American GIs fought brilliantly and effectively in defeating Germany and Japan, but that they were losing on Korean battlefields because they had no faith in their cause.

Stalin used the Communist newspaper Pravda as the vehicle for his pronouncements adopting the familiar pattern of questions and answers in a newspaper interview.

The broadside from the Kremlin was in direct reply to a recent House of Commons statement by British Prime Minister Attlee to the effect that after the end of World War 2 the Soviet Union did not disarm. Stalin castigated the statement as "a slander against the Soviet Union."

Not in Favor of Peace

Stalin charged that the socialist government of Britain was not in favor of peace "but of unleashing a new aggressive World War" in concert with the United States.

Western observers wondered at the timing of the major policy statement which comes one day after the British House of Commons gave final approval to a $13,160,000,000 rearmament plan.

They noted also the Stalin statement was released in advance of a four-power deputies meeting in Paris to arrange a conference of foreign ministers of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France in an effort to end eastwest tensions.

Western diplomats are studying the text of the Stalin interview carefully to find any divergence from previous Soviet policy. So far they have found none.

Came in Interview

The Soviet prime minister's last previous major announcement on foreign affairs came in a question and answer interview with Kingsbury Smith of the International News Service early in 1949. A hint thrown out in that interview and seized upon by American diplomats, resulted in a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers and an end of the Berlin blockade.

In his opening reply, Prime Minister Stalin denied Attlee's assertion that Soviet forces were not demobilized at the end of the war.

"If Prime Minister Attlee were competent in financial or economic science, he would have realized without difficulty that not a single state, the Soviet Union included, could develop civilian industry to the full, launch great construction projects * * * which demand scores of hundreds of thousands

Immaculate Parish Plans Showing of 'Christ the King'

The film, "Christ the King," a story about the life, death and resurrection, will be shown in the White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue Sunday, March 11, at 3 p. m. and 8 p. m., under the auspices of the Immaculate Conception Holy Name Society.

The story of "Christ the King," is 2,000 years old, yet in this inspiring motion picture the most beautiful love story ever told is portrayed. The lifelong research of the foremost scholars of religious literature has been carefully blended into the creation of a film reverently produced.

According to reviewers of the film, it is a picture of rare spiritual beauty which has captured the true glory of the greatest sacrifice in the history of the world.

Other critics reported, "dramatically molded into a moving epic by men who diligently studied every known event in the story of our Saviour, the film has an emotional quality that will live forever in the hearts of those who see it." The same critics acclaimed it as "the religious motion picture of our age."

Tickets are now on sale and may be purchased from any member of the Immaculate Conception Holy Name Society, at the rectory or at the door on March 11.

Spiritual Program

The Daughters of Harmony quartet will present a spiritual program of songs Sunday at 8 p. m. at the Church of God in Christ, 9 Mill street. The public is invited. A silver offering will be taken.

Immaculate Parish Plans Showing of 'Christ the King'

The film, "Christ the King," a story about the life, death and resurrection, will be shown in the White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue Sunday, March 11, at 4 p. m. and 8 p. m., under the auspices of the Immaculate Conception Holy Name Society.

The story of "Christ the King," is 2,000 years old, yet in this inspiring motion picture the most beautiful love story ever told is portrayed. The lifelong research of the foremost scholars of religious literature has been carefully blended into the creation of a film reverently produced.

According to reviewers of the film, it is a picture of rare spiritual beauty which has captured the true glory of the greatest sacrifice in the history of the world.

Other critics reported, "dramatically molded into a moving epic by men who diligently studied every known event in the story of our Saviour, the film has an emotional quality that will live forever in the hearts of those who see it." The same critics acclaimed it as "the religious motion picture of our age."

Tickets are now on sale and may be purchased from any member of the Immaculate Conception Holy Name Society, at the rectory or at the door on March 11.

Spiritual Program

The Daughters of Harmony quartet will present a spiritual program of songs Sunday at 8 p. m. at the Church of God in Christ, 9 Mill street. The public is invited. A silver offering will be taken.

The story of "Christ the King," is 2,000 years old, yet in this inspiring motion picture the most beautiful love story ever told is portrayed. The lifelong research of the foremost scholars of religious literature has been carefully blended into the creation of a film reverently produced.

According to reviewers of the film, it is a picture of rare spiritual beauty which has captured the true glory of the greatest sacrifice in the history of the world.

Other critics reported, "dramatically molded into a moving epic by men who diligently studied every known event in the story of our Saviour, the film has an emotional quality that will live forever in the hearts of those who see it." The same critics acclaimed it as "the religious motion picture of our age."

Tickets are now on sale and may be purchased from any member of the Immaculate Conception Holy Name Society, at the rectory or at the door on March 11.

MODENA

Modena, Feb. 16—Firemen of Modena are attempting to render a service to the community as well as the fire department in preventing fires as well as fighting fires with a fire-extinguisher to be demonstrated in each home throughout the Modena fire district. It is their opinion that the article is one of the most efficient agents for extinguishing fires of all kinds, including gasoline and oil fires which are spread by water. It is their desire that the fireman calling to demonstrate the extinguisher be allowed to explain this investment, which means safety, and interest in life and property, lessening the danger of fires and making the firemen's job a safer one.

Will Work Without Pay

Duquoin, Ill., Feb. 17 (AP)—The mayor and four city commissioners of this southern Illinois community of 8,000 have voted to work for free for the next three and a half months. They voted not to accept their salaries the rest of the fiscal year, ending in June, to help the city's financial situation. The mayor receives $66 a month and each commissioner $50.

Says Rings Missing

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 17 (AP)—A week ago Mrs. Dorothy Hyde reported to police that four rings she valued at $1,350 were missing. She called again yesterday and told police she found the rings—in her refrigerator. But, she told police, she didn't know how they got there.

Precautions Needed For Attached Garage

Most convenient location for the garage is attached to the house with direct access to the living quarters, although this can be a dangerous location unless protected against explosion and fire.

Most building codes require that the wall between a house and attached garage be of fire-resistant construction. This is usually provided at low cost by filling the hollow space between the walls with mineral wool insulation which cannot burn and which has been given a fire-resistant rating of one to 1½ hours by the National Bureau of Standards.

A self-closing, tight-fitting, metal-clad door is another essential. Unless the connecting door is kept closed there is always the danger that gasoline fumes will enter the living quarters and ignite on reaching a pilot light. A tight door and well-ventilated garage will minimize this hazard.

Cocoa Color New Pine Panel Finish

Looking for a different finish for your pine paneling? For one wall or for accent effects, give a thought to cocoa color.

After sanding, cleaning and filling of nail holes, apply one coat of stain made with one part white shellac and three parts of alcohol tinted with fast scarlet, fast orange, fast yellow and jet black stain powders soluble in alcohol. Vary amounts to suit your taste.

When dry, rub lightly with 3/0 steel wool. Brush surface clean, apply two coats of water-clear lacquer and wax.

You'll have a dark, rich background finish to give importance to chinaware or pictures.

Requires Teetotaling

Ahmedabad, India (AP) — You must wear handwoven cloth and abstain from drinking if you belong to the Congress party, which runs India's government. Other qualifications for party membership laid down at a recent meeting here: A member should not observe or recognize untouchability in any shape or form. He should believe in equality or opportunity and status for all. He should be a believer in inter-communal unity and have respect for the faiths of others.

Islamic Representative

Cairo (AP)—Cairo newspapers report that Al Azhar University, the 1,000 year-old center of Islamic teaching, may send an official "religious-cultural" delegate to the Vatican. University leaders have already approved such a plan, according to newspaper reports, and have asked for the approval of the Egyptian Foreign Ministry and Cabinet.

Television Interference

When women hear about "venetian blind interference" in respect to their television sets, they are likely to misconstrue the phrase. Actually this interference has nothing to do with venetian blinds at the window. It merely refers to horizontal lines caused by medical, dental or unusual electrical equipment which may be operating in the neighborhood.

Small Lavatory

A new corner lavatory, 18 inches on the wall sides, has just been introduced which will prove ideal for rooms where space is at a premium. The corner lavatory takes full advantage of corner space that might otherwise be wasted, yet gives the user complete freedom of arm movement, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

For Pest Controllers

Berkeley, Calif. (AP) — A short course for agricultural pest controllers is planned at the University of California here. The course will include fundamentals of entomology, plant pathology, agricultural chemicals, and airplane spraying methods.

Interior Decoration

Each color in a room affects every other color that is there. When you place red next to a wall or an object that is painted with its complement, green, it will give greater beauty to the green. Orange, next to blue, will make the blue seem brighter.

Suppresses Periodical

Cairo (AP)—The government has suppressed the weekly newspaper Misr El Fatat (Young Egypt), organ of the Socialist party. Interior Minister Fouad Serag El Din Pasha said the paper was attempting to overthrow Egypt's social system by open advocacy of revolution.

Skiing Coach Hurt

Bozeman, Mont. (AP) — Coach Wally Eagle, skiing mentor at Bozeman High School, couldn't alibi his way out of it. He fell and broke his leg while demonstrating slalom turns to a full gallery of Bozeman High School skiers.

Cold Weather Laundry

Freezing tends to shrink woolens and to weaken cottons and linens, claim the experts. It is wise not to hang freshly laundered clothes outdoors in very cold weather.

Recipe Cards

To keep recipe file cards clean while cooking, spread a thin coat of shellac over them. The result is a smooth surface from which spilled foods or liquids can be removed easily.

Uses of Flat Enamel

Flat interior enamel produces a soft, dull finish. In addition to being used as a finish coat, it is also sometimes used as an undercoater for high gloss enamel.

What Price Lot?

Not more than 20 per cent of the total cost of a residential property should be spent for the lot.

Garage .... 6,600 feet
Dimensions .... 26' x 42'

Low slung and simple in design, "The Potsdam" contains five spacious rooms plus a porch or breezeway which could easily be converted into a sixth room, if desired. You'll like the room layout of this modified ranch house for it is designed for informal, modern living.

Narrow glass panels, each containing eight small panes, flank the front door and enhance the attractiveness of the entrance. The single glass pane in the door itself, the small lamps at either side of the door and the wrought iron grille work at either side of the single step all add to the friendly appeal of this front entrance.

"The Potsdam" alone measures 26x42 feet with additional 30 feet required for the breezeway and garage. The house has a cubage of 13,800 feet while the two-car garage has a cubage of 6600 feet. A 100-foot minimum width lot is recommended for the house and garage.

Entry Hall

The front door opens into a good sized entry hall with a spacious closet at its further end. Open archways from the entry hall connect with the dining room at the right, the living room at the left.

Occupying almost the entire width of the house, the living room is located at the left end of the house and measures 20'x11'4". The large picture window, flanked by the narrow casement windows, brings the out-of-doors into the living room, enables you to take advantage of any view, to reap extra benefits from your own yard and to plan your decorative scheme accordingly.

Two windows in the side wall and the French doors, flanked by narrow casement windows, opening on the piazza bring more light and sunshine into the living room and add further to the spacious, open and uncluttered appearance of the room. The piazza can be screened or glassed if desired.

Even with the abundance of windows there's still sufficient unbroken wall space for the convenient and attractive arrangement of large furniture pieces.

Two Bedrooms

Separated by the all-modern bath, containing both a tub and a built-in shower, both bedrooms measure 11'4"x11'. The bedroom nearest to the living room has double windows in the back wall and another window in the side wall, facing the porch. With its back to the bathroom, the spacious bedroom closet is right beside a smaller closet that opens on the central hallway and which would make an ideal linen closet.

The second bedroom has windows on two exposures to provide good cross ventilation as well as sufficient light. This room also has a spacious clothes closet which is located in back of the cellar stairway.

Forming a semi-circle in the front wall of the room, the bay window with its numerous small panes is the center of decorative attraction in the dining room. Be sure to take advantage of this unusually ornamentive window in planning both interior decoration and furniture placement in this room. You'll find that this rounded bay forms the ideal setting for your dining room table and chair set.

With every inch planned to simplify the jobs involved in serving family meals, the 12'x10' kitchen is well lighted by two windows, and by the door, which is partially glassed, leading to the porch or breezeway. Arranged in a convenient U shape the working counters, complete with cabinets above and cupboards below, are so placed that the refrigerator is located at one end of the working counters with the stove at the other end; the sink is in the middle, under the window looking out on the front yard. The breakfast nook can be located against the back wall where it is out of the working area of the kitchen yet conveniently close for serving.

Measuring 11'x9', the porch or breezeway can be glassed in or screened and forms a convenient pasageway to the garage—especially in cold and stormy weather.

Weather Stripping Cuts Heating Cost

With March winds just around the corner the time is appropriate for a checkup of windows and doors for possible cracks, and, if necessary, the application of weather stripping to cut down heat lost through these openings.

A well-constructed house should have every crack around the door and window frames sealed against leakage. In masonry homes this precaution should also be supplemented by calking at the outside edges of all frames. Calking looks like putty and is a special compound which swells when dry to fit tightly against the edges of each crack.

The inner edges of the windows and doors should be weather-stripped. To do this, strips of metal should be applied around the openings so that, when the doors and windows are shut, the edges interlock with themselves. Felt is frequently used but it is not as effective as metal. It is estimated that weather stripping cuts fuel costs from 10 to 20 per cent.

Built-in Drying Cabinet

A new built-in drying cabinet for the bathroom, for use when milady rinses out stockings and other small articles of apparel, fits into the wall directly over a hot air register and is tapped into the hot air flue through a well at the bottom of the cabinet. It is equipped with rods for hanging clothes and fits flush against the wall when closed.

Choosing Wallpaper

Plan for Play Area In Child's Bedroom

Now that very few houses or apartments are large enough to permit a separate playroom, and the living room often doubles as the dining room, it's more important than ever to plan a child's bedroom so that it will provide him with a place to play, and to keep his toys and books.

Even though the room may be small, the wall under the windows or even an empty corner may easily be utilized with low sectional bookshelves that will keep toys, crayons, comic books and other playtime paraphernalia within easy reach of the youngsters. Add a table and chair set for juvenile activities — a child-size radio or phonograph, and you've created a play-corner that your child can call his very own. And, according to psychologists, having a place for his possessions often encourages a child to keep his room in order.

Another advantage to the combination play-bedroom is that it cuts down the noise, confusion and clutter in the living room which is bound to occur when a child has no other place to play.

Essential Broom Closet

Tall narrow closets designed for the storage of brooms, mops and vacuum cleaners are becoming increasingly more common in modern homes, but the valuable service they offer need not be denied to the housewife, whose home was built a decade or more ago. It is a simple and inexpensive matter to install broom closets in existing homes, and the efficiency which they will contribute to the kitchen will more than likely repay any home owner who undertakes the job.

Specially Made Anchors

The homeowner who wants to convert his basement into a recreation room may be perplexed as to how to fasten building board to the concrete walls. This is done by attaching furring strips of 1x2-inch lumber to the walls by fiber or lead anchors. Holes are drilled three feet apart in the concrete with a star drill and the anchors lightly tapped into place. The furring strips are then attached to these anchors with long wood screws which cause the anchors to expand and hold the strips firmly in place.

Practical Curtain Idea

If your bathtub is under the window in the bathroom, a practical curtain for the window is one of oiled silk or flowered oilcloth. It comes in a lovely variety of colors and patterns and cannot be harmed in any way by splashed water.

Straight-Line Layout Improves Laundry

Straight-line arrangement of laundry equipment is the greatest labor and step-saver. Automatic washers, dryers and ironers are available in flat-topped matching units which fit together side-by-side in six feet of wall space.

Place the washer first in line, the dryer next and then the ironer so that clothes move from one unit to the next with minimum effort.

Make the laundry bright, colorful and cheerful by liberal use of attractive color on walls and ceiling; installation of fluorescent lighting. A pleasing color plan for a laundry is pale blue walls and ceiling; white woodwork, and on the floor, alternating stripes of blue, light gray and red marbleized asphalt tile.

When modernizing the laundry take advantage of the opportunity to install wall storage cabinets for soaps, brushes, electric iron and other articles near the point where they are most used.

Protect the Plumbing Against Cold Snaps

To avoid frozen water pipes and costly damages to the house, the water should be shut off at the meter if the house is to be unoccupied and the furnace shut off even for one day in cold weather. In addition, all tanks should be completely drained, as should all pipes, radiators, boiler and the traps beneath sinks and lavatories.

Water pipes in walls of uninsulated houses have frozen on unusually cold days even when the house was occupied.

Since water in motion seldom freezes, pipes can be kept from freezing on extremely cold nights by opening all faucets so that they will drip slightly.

MODENA

Modena, Feb. 16—Firemen of Modena are attempting to render a service to the community as well as the fire department in preventing fires as well as fighting fires with a fire-extinguisher to be demonstrated in each home throughout the Modena fire district. It is their opinion that the article is one of the most efficient agents for extinguishing fires of all kinds, including gasoline and oil fires which are spread by water. It is their desire that the fireman calling to demonstrate the extinguisher be allowed to explain this investment, which means safety, and interest in life and property, lessening the danger of fires and making the firemen's job a safer one.

Will Work Without Pay

Duquoin, Ill., Feb. 17 (AP)—The mayor and four city commissioners of this southern Illinois community of 8,000 have voted to work for free for the next three and a half months. They voted not to accept their salaries the rest of the fiscal year, ending in June, to help the city's financial situation. The mayor receives $66 a month and each commissioner $50.

Says Rings Missing

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 17 (AP)—A week ago Mrs. Dorothy Hyde reported to police that four rings she valued at $1,350 were missing. She called again yesterday and told police she found the rings—in her refrigerator. But, she told police, she didn't know how they got there.

Precautions Needed For Attached Garage

Most convenient location for the garage is attached to the house with direct access to the living quarters, although this can be a dangerous location unless protected against explosion and fire.

Most building codes require that the wall between a house and attached garage be of fire-resistant construction. This is usually provided at low cost by filling the hollow space between the walls with mineral wool insulation which cannot burn and which has been given a fire-resistant rating of one to 1½ hours by the National Bureau of Standards.

A self-closing, tight-fitting, metal-clad door is another essential. Unless the connecting door is kept closed there is always the danger that gasoline fumes will enter the living quarters and ignite on reaching a pilot light. A tight door and well-ventilated garage will minimize this hazard.

Cocoa Color New Pine Panel Finish

Looking for a different finish for your pine paneling? For one wall or for accent effects, give a thought to cocoa color.

After sanding, cleaning and filling of nail holes, apply one coat of stain made with one part white shellac and three parts of alcohol tinted with fast scarlet, fast orange, fast yellow and jet black stain powders soluble in alcohol. Vary amounts to suit your taste.

When dry, rub lightly with 3/0 steel wool. Brush surface clean, apply two coats of water-clear lacquer and wax.

You'll have a dark, rich background finish to give importance to chinaware or pictures.

Requires Teetotaling

Ahmedabad, India (AP) — You must wear handwoven cloth and abstain from drinking if you belong to the Congress party, which runs India's government. Other qualifications for party membership laid down at a recent meeting here: A member should not observe or recognize untouchability in any shape or form. He should believe in equality or opportunity and status for all. He should be a believer in inter-communal unity and have respect for the faiths of others.

Islamic Representative

Cairo (AP)—Cairo newspapers report that Al Azhar University, the 1,000 year-old center of Islamic teaching, may send an official "religious-cultural" delegate to the Vatican. University leaders have already approved such a plan, according to newspaper reports, and have asked for the approval of the Egyptian Foreign Ministry and Cabinet.

Television Interference

When women hear about "venetian blind interference" in respect to their television sets, they are likely to miscontrue the phrase. Actually this interference has nothing to do with venetian blinds at the window. It merely refers to horizontal lines caused by medical, dental or unusual electrical equipment which may be operating in the neighborhood.

Small Lavatory

A new corner lavatory, 18 inches on the wall sides, has just been introducd which will prove ideal for rooms where space is at a premium. The corner lavatory takes full advantage of corner space that might otherwise be wasted, yet gives the user complete freedom of arm movement, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

For Pest Controllers

Berkeley, Calif. (AP) — A short course for agricultural pest controllers is planned at the University of California here. The course will include fundamentals of entomology, plant pathology, agricultural chemicals, and airplane spraying methods.

Interior Decoration

Each color in a room affects every other color that is there. When you place red next to a wall or an object that is painted with its complement, green, it will give greater beauty to the green. Orange, next to blue, will make the blue seem brighter.

Suppresses Periodical

Cairo (AP)—The government has suppressed the weekly newspaper Misr El Fatat (Young Egypt), organ of the Socialist party. Interior Minister Fouad Serag El Din Pasha said the paper was attempting to overthrow Egypt's social system by open advocacy of revolution.

Skiing Coach Hurt

Bozeman, Mont. (AP) — Coach Wally Eagle, skiing mentor at Bozeman High School, couldn't alibi his way out of it. He fell and broke his leg while demonstrating slalom turns to a full gallery of Bozeman High School skiers.

Cold Weather Laundry

Freezing tends to shrink woolens and to weaken cottons and linens, claim the experts. It is wise not to hang freshly laundered clothes outdoors in very cold weather.

Recipe Cards

To keep recipe file cards clean while cooking, spread a thin coat of shellac over them. The result is a smooth surface from which spilled foods or liquids can be removed easily.

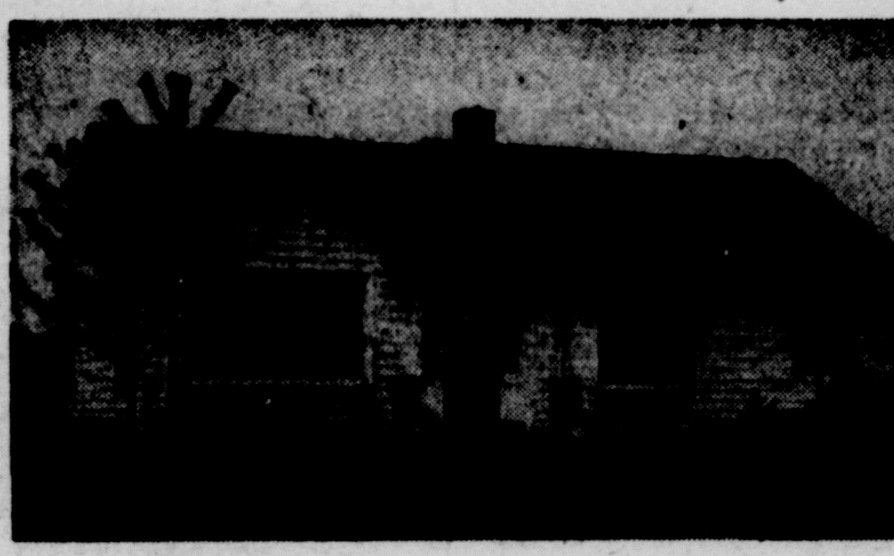
Uses of Flat Enamel

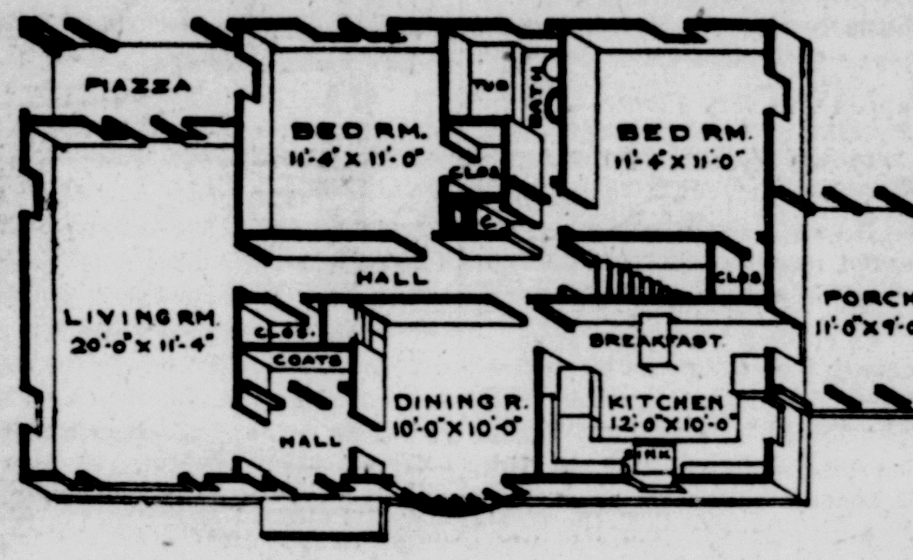
Flat interior enamel produces a soft, dull finish. In addition to being used as a finish coat, it is also sometimes used as an undercoater for high gloss enamel.

What Price Lot?

Not more than 20 per cent of the total cost of a residential property should be spent for the lot.

THE POTSDAM





A Ranch Type House Of Pleasing Originality

Bedrooms	Two
Closets	Five
Cubage
House	13,800 feet
Garage	6,600 feet
Dimensions	26' x 42'

Low slung and simple in design, "The Potsdam" contains five spacious rooms plus a porch or breezeway which could easily be converted into a sixth room, if desired. You'll like the room layout of this modified ranch house for it is designed for informal, modern living.

Narrow glass panels, each containing eight small panes, flank the front door and enhance the attractiveness of the entrance. The single glass pane in the door itself, the small lamps at either side of the door and the wrought iron grille work at either side of the single step all add to the friendly appeal of this front entrance.

"The Potsdam" alone measures 26x42 feet with additional 30 feet required for the breezeway and garage. The house has a cubage of 13,800 feet while the two-car garage has a cubage of 6600 feet. A 100-foot minimum width lot is recommended for the house and garage.

Entry Hall

The front door opens into a good sized entry hall with a spacious closet at its further end. Open archways from the entry hall connect with the dining room at the right, the living room at the left.

Occupying almost the entire width of the house, the living room is located at the left end of the house and measures 20'x11'4". The large picture window, flanked by the narrow casement windows, brings the out-of-doors into the living room, enables you to take advantage of any view, to reap extra benefits from your own yard and to plan your decorative scheme accordingly.

Two windows in the side wall and the French doors, flanked by narrow casement windows, opening on the piazza bring more light and sunshine into the living room and add further to the spacious, open and uncluttered appearance of the room. The piazza can be screened or glassed if desired.

Even with the abundance of windows there's still sufficient unbroken wall space for the convenient and attractive arrangement of large furniture pieces.

Two Bedrooms

Separated by the all-modern bath, containing both a tub and a built-in shower, both bedrooms measure 11'4"x11'. The bedroom nearest to the living room has double windows in the back wall and another window in the side wall, facing the porch. With its back to the bathroom, the spacious bedroom closet is right beside a smaller closet that opens on the central hallway and which would make an ideal linen closet.

The second bedroom has windows on two exposures to provide good cross ventilation as well as sufficient light. This room also has a spacious clothes closet which is located in back of the cellar stairway.

Forming a semi-circle in the front wall of the room, the bay window with its numerous small panes is the center of decorative attraction in the dining room. Be sure to take advantage of this unusually ornamentive window in planning both interior decoration and furniture placement in this room. You'll find that this rounded bay forms the ideal setting for your dining room table and chair set.

With every inch planned to simplify the jobs involved in serving family meals, the 12'x10' kitchen is well lighted by two windows, and by the door, which is partially glassed, leading to the porch or breezeway. Arranged in a convenient U shape the working counters, complete with cabinets above and cupboards below, are so placed that the refrigerator is located at one end of the working counters with the stove at the other end; the sink is in the middle, under the window looking out on the front yard. The breakfast nook can be located against the back wall where it is out of the working area of the kitchen yet conveniently close for serving.

Measuring 11'x9', the porch or breezeway can be glassed in or screened and forms a convenient pasageway to the garage—especially in cold and stormy weather.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Weather Stripping Cuts Heating Cost

With March winds just around the corner the time is appropriate for a checkup of windows and doors for possible cracks, and, if necessary, the application of weather stripping to cut down heat lost through these openings.

A well-constructed house should have every crack around the door and window frames sealed against leakage. In masonry homes this precaution should also be supplemented by calking at the outside edges of all frames. Calking looks like putty and is a special compound which swells when dry to fit tightly against the edges of each crack.

The inner edges of the windows and doors should be weather-stripped. To do this, strips of metal should be applied around the openings so that, when the doors and windows are shut, the edges interlock with themselves. Felt is frequently used but it is not as effective as metal. It is estimated that weather stripping cuts fuel costs from 10 to 20 per cent.

Built-in Drying Cabinet

A new built-in drying cabinet for the bathroom, for use when milady rinses out stockings and other small articles of apparel, fits into the wall directly over a hot air register and is tapped into the hot air flue through a well at the bottom of the cabinet. It is equipped with rods for hanging clothes and fits flush against the wall when closed.

Choosing Wallpaper

Plan for Play Area In Child's Bedroom

Now that very few houses or apartments are large enough to permit a separate playroom, and the living room often doubles as the dining room, it's more important than ever to plan a child's bedroom so that it will provide him with a place to play, and to keep his toys and books.

Even though the room may be small, the wall under the windows or even an empty corner may easily be utilized with low sectional bookshelves that will keep toys, crayons, comic books and other playtime paraphernalia within easy reach of the youngsters. Add a table and chair set for juvenile activities — a child-size radio or phonograph, and you've created a play-corner that your child can call his very own. And, according to psychologists, having a place for his possessions often encourages a child to keep his room in order.

Another advantage to the combination play-bedroom is that it cuts down the noise, confusion and clutter in the living room which is bound to occur when a child has no other place to play.

Essential Broom Closet

Tall narrow closets designed for the storage of brooms, mops and vacuum cleaners are becoming increasingly more common in modern homes, but the valuable service they offer need not be denied to the housewife, whose home was built a decade or more ago. It is a simple and inexpensive matter to install broom closets in existing homes, and the efficiency which they will contribute to the kitchen will more than likely repay any home owner who undertakes the job.

Specially Made Anchors

The homeowner who wants to convert his basement into a recreation room may be perplexed as to how to fasten building board to the concrete walls. This is done by attaching furring strips of 1x2-inch lumber to the walls by fiber or lead anchors. Holes are drilled three feet apart in the concrete with a star drill and the anchors lightly tapped into place. The furring strips are then attached to these anchors with long wood screws which cause the anchors to expand and hold the strips firmly in place.

Practical Curtain Idea

If your bathtub is under the window in the bathroom, a practical curtain for the window is one of oiled silk or flowered oilcloth. It comes in a lovely variety of colors and patterns and cannot be harmed in any way by splashed water.

Straight-Line Layout Improves Laundry

Straight-line arrangement of laundry equipment is the greatest labor and step-saver. Automatic washers, dryers and ironers are available in flat-topped matching units which fit together side-by-side in six feet of wall space.

Place the washer first in line, the dryer next and then the ironer so that clothes move from one unit to the next with minimum effort.

Make the laundry bright, colorful and cheerful by liberal use of attractive color on walls and ceiling; installation of fluorescent lighting. A pleasing color plan for a laundry is pale blue walls and ceiling; white woodwork, and on the floor, alternating stripes of blue, light gray and red marbleized asphalt tile.

When modernizing the laundry take advantage of the opportunity to install wall storage cabinets for soaps, brushes, electric iron and other articles near the point where they are most used.

Protect the Plumbing Against Cold Snaps

To avoid frozen water pipes and costly damages to the house, the water should be shut off at the meter if the house is to be unoccupied and the furnace shut off even for one day in cold weather. In addition, all tanks should be completely drained, as should all pipes, radiators, boiler and the traps beneath sinks and lavatories.

Water pipes in walls of uninsulated houses have frozen on unusually cold days even when the house was occupied.

Since water in motion seldom freezes, pipes can be kept from freezing on extremely cold nights by opening all faucets so that they will drip slightly.

Modena, Feb. 16—Firemen of Modena are attempting to render a service to the community as well as the fire department in preventing fires as well as fighting fires with a fire-extinguisher to be demonstrated in each home throughout the Modena fire district. It is their desire that the fireman calling to demonstrate the extinguisher be allowed to explain this investment, which means safety, and interest in life and property, lessening the danger of fires and making the firemen's job a safer one.

Precautions Needed For Attached Garage

Most convenient location for the garage is attached to the house with direct access to the living quarters, although this can be a dangerous location unless protected against explosion and fire.

Most building codes require that the wall between a house and attached garage be of fire-resistant construction. This is usually provided at low cost by filling the hollow space between the walls with mineral wool insulation which cannot burn and which has been given a fire-resistant rating of one to 1½ hours by the National Bureau of Standards.

A self-closing, tight-fitting, metal-clad door is another essential. Unless the connecting door is kept closed there is always the danger that gasoline fumes will enter the living quarters and ignite on reaching a pilot light. A tight door and well-ventilated garage will minimize this hazard.

Cocoa Color New Pine Panel Finish

Looking for a different finish for your pine paneling? For one wall or for accent effects, give a thought to cocoa color.

After sanding, cleaning and filling of nail holes, apply one coat of stain made with one part white shellac and three parts of alcohol tinted with fast scarlet, fast orange, fast yellow and jet black stain powders soluble in alcohol. Vary amounts to suit your taste.

When dry, rub lightly with 3/0 steel wool. Brush surface clean, apply two coats of water-clear lacquer and wax.

You'll have a dark, rich background finish to give importance to chinaware or pictures.

Television Interference

When women hear about "venetian blind interference" in respect to their television sets, they are likely to miscontrue the phrase. Actually this interference has nothing to do with venetian blinds at the window. It merely refers to horizontal lines caused by medical, dental or unusual electrical equipment which may be operating in the neighborhood.

Small Lavatory

A new corner lavatory, 18 inches on the wall sides, has just been introduced which will prove ideal for rooms where space is at a premium. The corner lavatory takes full advantage of corner space that might otherwise be wasted, yet gives the user complete freedom of arm movement, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

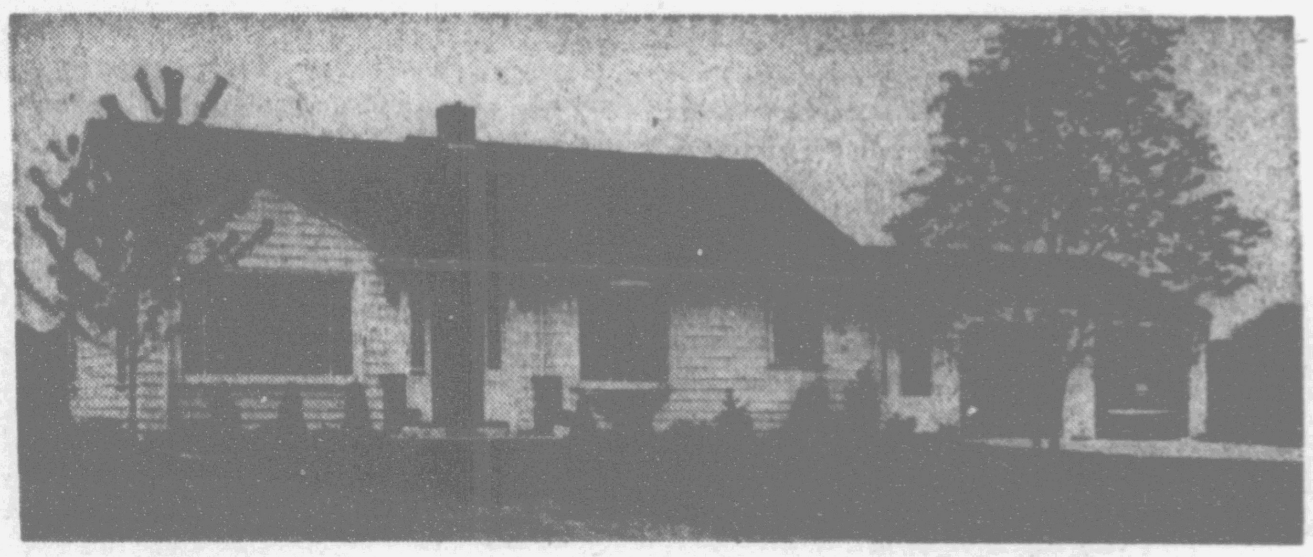
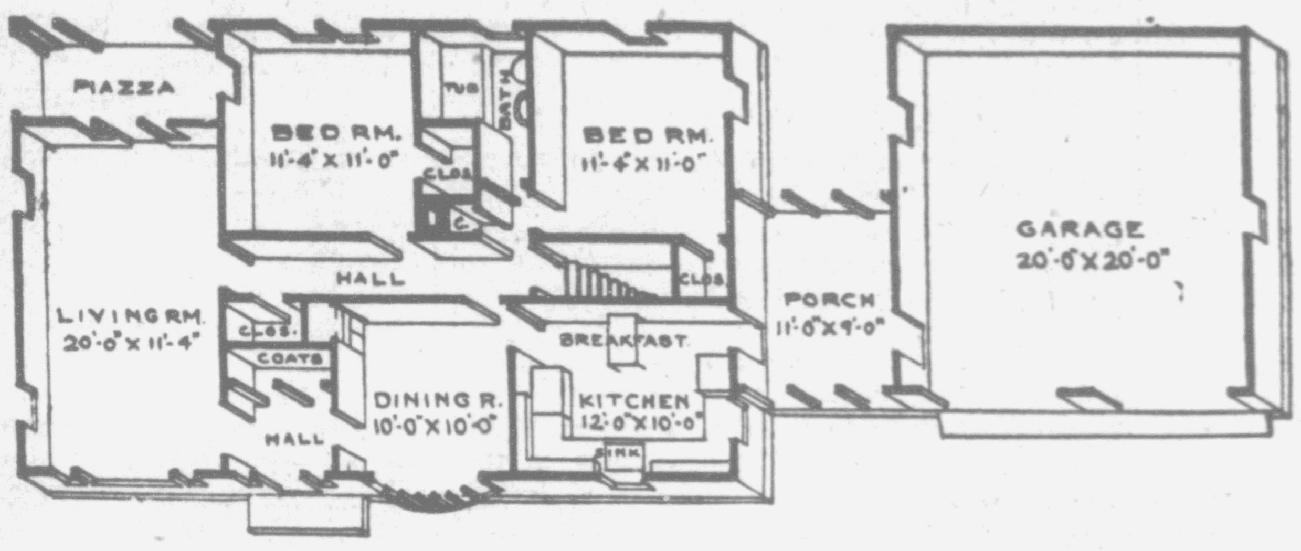
THE POTSDAM





A Ranch Type House Of Pleasing Originality

Bedrooms	Two
Closets	Five
Cubage
House	13,800 feet
Garage	6,600 feet
Dimensions	26' x 42'

Low slung and simple in design, "The Potsdam" contains five spacious rooms plus a porch or breezeway which could easily be converted into a sixth room, if desired. You'll like the room layout of this modified ranch house for it is designed for informal, modern living.

Narrow glass panels, each containing eight small panes, flank the front door and enhance the attractiveness of the entrance. The single glass pane in the door itself, the small lamps at either side of the door and the wrought iron grille work at either side of the single step all add to the friendly appeal of this front entrance.

"The Potsdam" alone measures 26x42 feet with additional 30 feet required for the breezeway and garage. The house has a cubage of 13,800 feet while the two-car garage has a cubage of 6600 feet. A 100-foot minimum width lot is recommended for the house and garage.

Entry Hall

The front door opens into a good sized entry hall with a spacious closet at its further end. Open archways from the entry hall connect with the dining room at the right, the living room at the left.

Occupying almost the entire width of the house, the living room is located at the left end of the house and measures 20'x11'4". The large picture window, flanked by the narrow casement windows, brings the out-of-doors into the living room, enables you to take advantage of any view, to reap extra benefits from your own yard and to plan your decorative scheme accordingly.

Two windows in the side wall and the French doors, flanked by narrow casement windows, opening on the piazza bring more light and sunshine into the living room and add further to the spacious, open and uncluttered appearance of the room. The piazza can be screened or glassed if desired.

Even with the abundance of windows there's still sufficient unbroken wall space for the convenient and attractive arrangement of large furniture pieces.

Two Bedrooms

Separated by the all-modern bath, containing both a tub and a built-in shower, both bedrooms measure 11'4"x11'. The bedroom nearest to the living room has double windows in the back wall and another window in the side wall, facing the porch. With its back to the bathroom, the spacious bedroom closet is right beside a smaller closet that opens on the central hallway and which would make an ideal linen closet.

The second bedroom has windows on two exposures to provide good cross ventilation as well as sufficient light. This room also has a spacious clothes closet which is located in back of the cellar stairway.

Forming a semi-circle in the front wall of the room, the bay window with its numerous small panes is the center of decorative attraction in the dining room. Be sure to take advantage of this unusually ornamentive window in planning both interior decoration and furniture placement in this room. You'll find that this rounded bay forms the ideal setting for your dining room table and chair set.

With every inch planned to simplify the jobs involved in serving family meals, the 12'x10' kitchen is well lighted by two windows, and by the door, which is partially glassed, leading to the porch or breezeway. Arranged in a convenient U shape the working counters, complete with cabinets above and cupboards below, are so placed that the refrigerator is located at one end of the working counters with the stove at the other end; the sink is in the middle, under the window looking out on the front yard. The breakfast nook can be located against the back wall where it is out of the working area of the kitchen yet conveniently close for serving.

Measuring 11'x9', the porch or breezeway can be glassed in or screened and forms a convenient pasageway to the garage—especially in cold and stormy weather.

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Weather Stripping Cuts Heating Cost

With March winds just around the corner the time is appropriate for a checkup of windows and doors for possible cracks, and, if necessary, the application of weather stripping to cut down heat lost through these openings.

A well-constructed house should have every crack around the door and window frames sealed against leakage. In masonry homes this precaution should also be supplemented by calking at the outside edges of all frames. Calking looks like putty and is a special compound which swells when dry to fit tightly against the edges of each crack.

The inner edges of the windows and doors should be weather-stripped. To do this, strips of metal should be applied around the openings so that, when the doors and windows are shut, the edges interlock with themselves. Felt is frequently used but it is not as effective as metal. It is estimated that weather stripping cuts fuel costs from 10 to 20 per cent.

Built-in Drying Cabinet

A new built-in drying cabinet for the bathroom, for use when milady rinses out stockings and other small articles of apparel, fits into the wall directly over a hot air register and is tapped into the hot air flue through a well at the bottom of the cabinet. It is equipped with rods for hanging clothes and fits flush against the wall when closed.

Choosing Wallpaper

Plan for Play Area In Child's Bedroom

Now that very few houses or apartments are large enough to permit a separate playroom, and the living room often doubles as the dining room, it's more important than ever to plan a child's bedroom so that it will provide him with a place to play, and to keep his toys and books.

Even though the room may be small, the wall under the windows or even an empty corner may easily be utilized with low sectional bookshelves that will keep toys, crayons, comic books and other playtime paraphernalia within easy reach of the youngsters. Add a table and chair set for juvenile activities — a child-size radio or phonograph, and you've created a play-corner that your child can call his very own. And, according to psychologists, having a place for his possessions often encourages a child to keep his room in order.

Another advantage to the combination play-bedroom is that it cuts down the noise, confusion and clutter in the living room which is bound to occur when a child has no other place to play.

Essential Broom Closet

Tall narrow closets designed for the storage of brooms, mops and vacuum cleaners are becoming increasingly more common in modern homes, but the valuable service they offer need not be denied to the housewife, whose home was built a decade or more ago. It is a simple and inexpensive matter to install broom closets in existing homes, and the efficiency which they will contribute to the kitchen will more than likely repay any home owner who undertakes the job.

Specially Made Anchors

The homeowner who wants to convert his basement into a recreation room may be perplexed as to how to fasten building board to the concrete walls. This is done by attaching furring strips of 1x2-inch lumber to the walls by fiber or lead anchors. Holes are drilled three feet apart in the concrete with a star drill and the anchors lightly tapped into place. The furring strips are then attached to these anchors with long wood screws which cause the anchors to expand and hold the strips firmly in place.

Straight-Line Layout Improves Laundry

Straight-line arrangement of laundry equipment is the greatest labor and step-saver. Automatic washers, dryers and ironers are available in flat-topped matching units which fit together side-by-side in six feet of wall space.

Place the washer first in line, the dryer next and then the ironer so that clothes move from one unit to the next with minimum effort.

Make the laundry bright, colorful and cheerful by liberal use of attractive color on walls and ceiling; installation of fluorescent lighting. A pleasing color plan for a laundry is pale blue walls and ceiling; white woodwork, and on the floor, alternating stripes of blue, light gray and red marbleized asphalt tile.

When modernizing the laundry take advantage of the opportunity to install wall storage cabinets for soaps, brushes, electric iron and other articles near the point where they are most used.

CONGRESSMEN WON'T SWING AXES

As in former years, some Washington lawmakers are saying no new taxes should be voted until substantial cuts are made in President Truman's $71.6 billion budget. But the sad fact is that then there'd be no new taxes. For Congress always talks of real economy but never votes it.

There is nothing new in this threadbare old story. The average congressman or senator shouts for budget reductions until they threaten to become a reality. Thereupon he moves to block them, for fear that his own state or district will somehow suffer from the pruning.

There is supposed to be political advantage in going through these foolish motions. But it's a great mystery how there can be any vote-getting value in a transparent performance that has been exposed again and again as completely insincere.

The other day Frederick Lawton, director of the Budget Bureau, discussed this business with the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee. He told the group frankly that he gets much more pressure from lawmakers to increase budget items than to cut them.

In one three-month period, he said, he had received requests from 200 congressmen to put new projects into the budget or boost existing items. That means nearly forty per cent of all members of Congress were heard from in this fashion.

When former defense secretary Louis Johnson wielded the axe in his department to slice away 135,000 civilian jobs, the lawmakers were horrified. But their concern was not for the effect this might have on the national security. It was for the fact that many of those jobs were scattered about the nation in their own districts.

Once a federal program is established, it is extremely difficult to abolish it. It spells money and jobs, and no one closely tied to those benefits will yield them easily.

So about the only way we can have genuine economy now is for the President and his budget officials to exercise strict restraint in the launching of new programs. If programs are needed, they should not be padded in the expectation that Congress will trim them.

It will probably always be thus until the lawmakers become convinced that they are not cutting their own throats by voting economies which specifically affect their own areas.

Here and there signs have developed which may lead in that direction. Some House members are getting mail from people who urge an end to benefits they now personally receive. But it's hardly a trend yet.

Meantime, the biggest savings for the public might result from Congress resolving not to waste its time and energy debating economy that it doesn't intend to practice.

We like people who think the United States is the best copntry there is, but deliver us from thinking that it is as good as it could be.

WARNING TO GERMANY

The last chance for harmony between East Germany, controlled by the Russians, and West Germany, ruled by the Allies, may have gone. The East Germans have signed an agreement with the Russian satellite state, Poland, whereby the line of the Oder and Neisse rivers is accepted as a permanent boundary between the two countries. Everything east of this line is abandoned by the East Germans as territory in which they no longer have a claim.

This pact will shock all non-Communist Germans. It surrenders forever the German "lost provinces" of East Prussia and Silesia, including such cities as Koenigsberg and Stettin. Most Germans had hoped some amicable arrangement might occur whereby these lands might be restored to the Fatherland. The East German leaders now make it plain that in any controversy they are on the Polish, that is to say the Russian, side.

It must now be clear to the dullest that Russia is out to get all she can, in Germany as elsewhere. Annexation of the region east of the Oder and the Neisse must be interpreted as only a preliminary to the eventual swallowing up of East Germany, and perhaps later of the western part of the country. Wise Germans must now realize who are their real enemies, and whose friendship they must cultivate if they hope to save what is left.

"JOTHAM VALLEY"

We were discussing plays and the question naturally arose as to what plays could youngsters of 10 and 14 be taken. Not being converted speakeasy sophisticates, we were weary of discovering that the playwright suffered the tortures of the damned seeking for a curtain line and finally came up with the novelty of a foul word, spoken by an apparently innocent ingenue. That always gets a laugh!

Also we wanted the children to feel that because they went to the theatre, they were not being influenced to believe that sex is all there is to American life; that life has some finer aspects, some very decent moments, a moral side, if you please.

So we went to see "Jotham Valley," a play put on with all the skill of professional showmanship by a group who call themselves Moral Re-armament. This is a musical, with songs occasionally comparable to "Oklahoma!" And with a story that is so real that it does happen in every home. A very good time was had by all.

The essence of "Jotham Valley" is the melodrama of two quarreling brothers, whose hatred brings misery to all their neighbors, particularly when one brother deprives the valley of water, because he, legally but not morally, controls the water rights. Here is a struggle that is universal, for legal rights do not suffice in a world that requires constructive living. Law passed by legislators is often not only inadequate but, being the product of man, unsound. We have to live by the laws of man, but natural law, the law of God, transcends the laws of man.

So, in the end, in this play, the key of truth opens the hardened heart of the brother and he permits the water to gush forth, so that the cattle drink of God's bounty, and life is good. Also the brothers make up.

This plot is as simple as "Romeo and Juliet," which is the simplest and most usual of stories, being nothing more than that boy loves girl, but the parents say no. Most really important plots are simple, just as great symphonies are written around little tunes. (To wit: Those notes in Beethoven's Fifth which Winston Churchill turned into a V for victory.)

Simplicity, of itself, may not only be truth but interesting and even exciting. What is more simple than a single tree, growing out of a rock along a granite seashore, standing proudly in a gale. All the smudge that a modernist can hurl at canvas cannot equal the majesty of that one object against a barren sky. And yet, as the poet said, only God can make a tree.

So in "Jotham Valley," it is the simplicity of plot, in a musical and engaging setting, which opens the mind to the truth that man can and does change his nature through the humility of faith.

It is not surprising that this play has encountered the opposition of the Communists and the homosexuals in the theatre, the former because they do not want men to think that the nature of man can be elevated by his own will, and the homosexuals because they excuse their indecencies on the ground that they cannot help themselves. They say that they are not evil but just that way because they are just that way.

"Jotham Valley" is a good play for adults, but it is important that children and youth should see it. With grace and ease, it projects the idea that life can be made worth living once the human wants to live a worth-while life.

This idea is not novel, but it needs to be constantly reiterated. Men live by hate because they like to hate. When they cease to like to hate, they will cease to hate. The causes for hatred are often so trivial, so unimportant as to be ridiculous when analyzed. I know of groups of men who hate each other with violence. Knowing both sides, I also know that these hatreds are the product not of conviction but of suspicion and habit. Reconciliation is difficult because who is the first to say: "I have been wrong and a fool," when both have been wrong and both are fools?

So goes the world and in the end comes war and death. If children and young people could see "Jotham Valley," maybe they, too, might find the key to better living.

That Body of Yours

CANCER OF THE TONGUE

When a small sore occurs on the tongue, little is thought of it unless it becomes painful or increases in size. As some of these sores cause little or no pain, it may remain for weeks and unless a little lump occurs in the neck (an enlarged gland), the physician is not consulted. What many fail to realize is that a sore that does not heal may be malignant (cancer). As in every form of cancer, tongue cancer is curable if early treatment is given.

In Western Journal of Surgery, Obstetrics and Gynecology, Portland, Ore., Drs. G. S. Sharp, E. W. Demaree and R. E. Pugh, Jr., report their experience in the treatment of 84 patients with cancer of the tongue, observed between 1932 and 1944. They found that cancer of the tongue is more malignant than other growths in the mouth; therefore no time should be lost before start of the treatment. They believe that recognizing sores or growths of the tongue that are likely to develop into cancer and giving them early treatment would prevent 30 to 40 per cent of tongue cancers. These "innocent" conditions, such as a white spot, a tiny wart, burns, fissures and scars from continuous irritation of dental plates can be forerunners of cancer.

These research workers on cancer suggest the following classifications of tongue cancer. The first stage includes growths that, when they first appear (primary growths), are less than 1.5 cm. (about 1/3 inch) in diameter; the second state, less than 3 cm. (almost 2/3 inch); the third stage (of first growth) of any size but with enlarged glands in neck permitting surgical removal; he fourth stage with enlarged glands in neck which cannot undergo removal by surgery.

According to this grouping, about one-third of their 84 patients were in stages 1 and 2, and 70 per cent of these cases, 1 and 2, represented 70 per cent of the five-year cures.

Chance of cure is about four times as good for a growth in stages 1 and 2 as for one in stages 3 to 4. Once the lymph nodes (glands) in the neck become involved or spread from the cancer on the tongue, the cure rate is only 17 per cent.

In regard to treatment; surgery or radium is used in stages 1 and 2, radium and X-ray in stage 3, but in stage 4, tongue cancers which have spread to the glands in the neck, surgical removal of part of the tongue, jaw, and neck glands is required.

Don't neglect any sore of tongue or mouth. Early cancer, stages 1, 2, or 3, readily reached, can usually be cured.

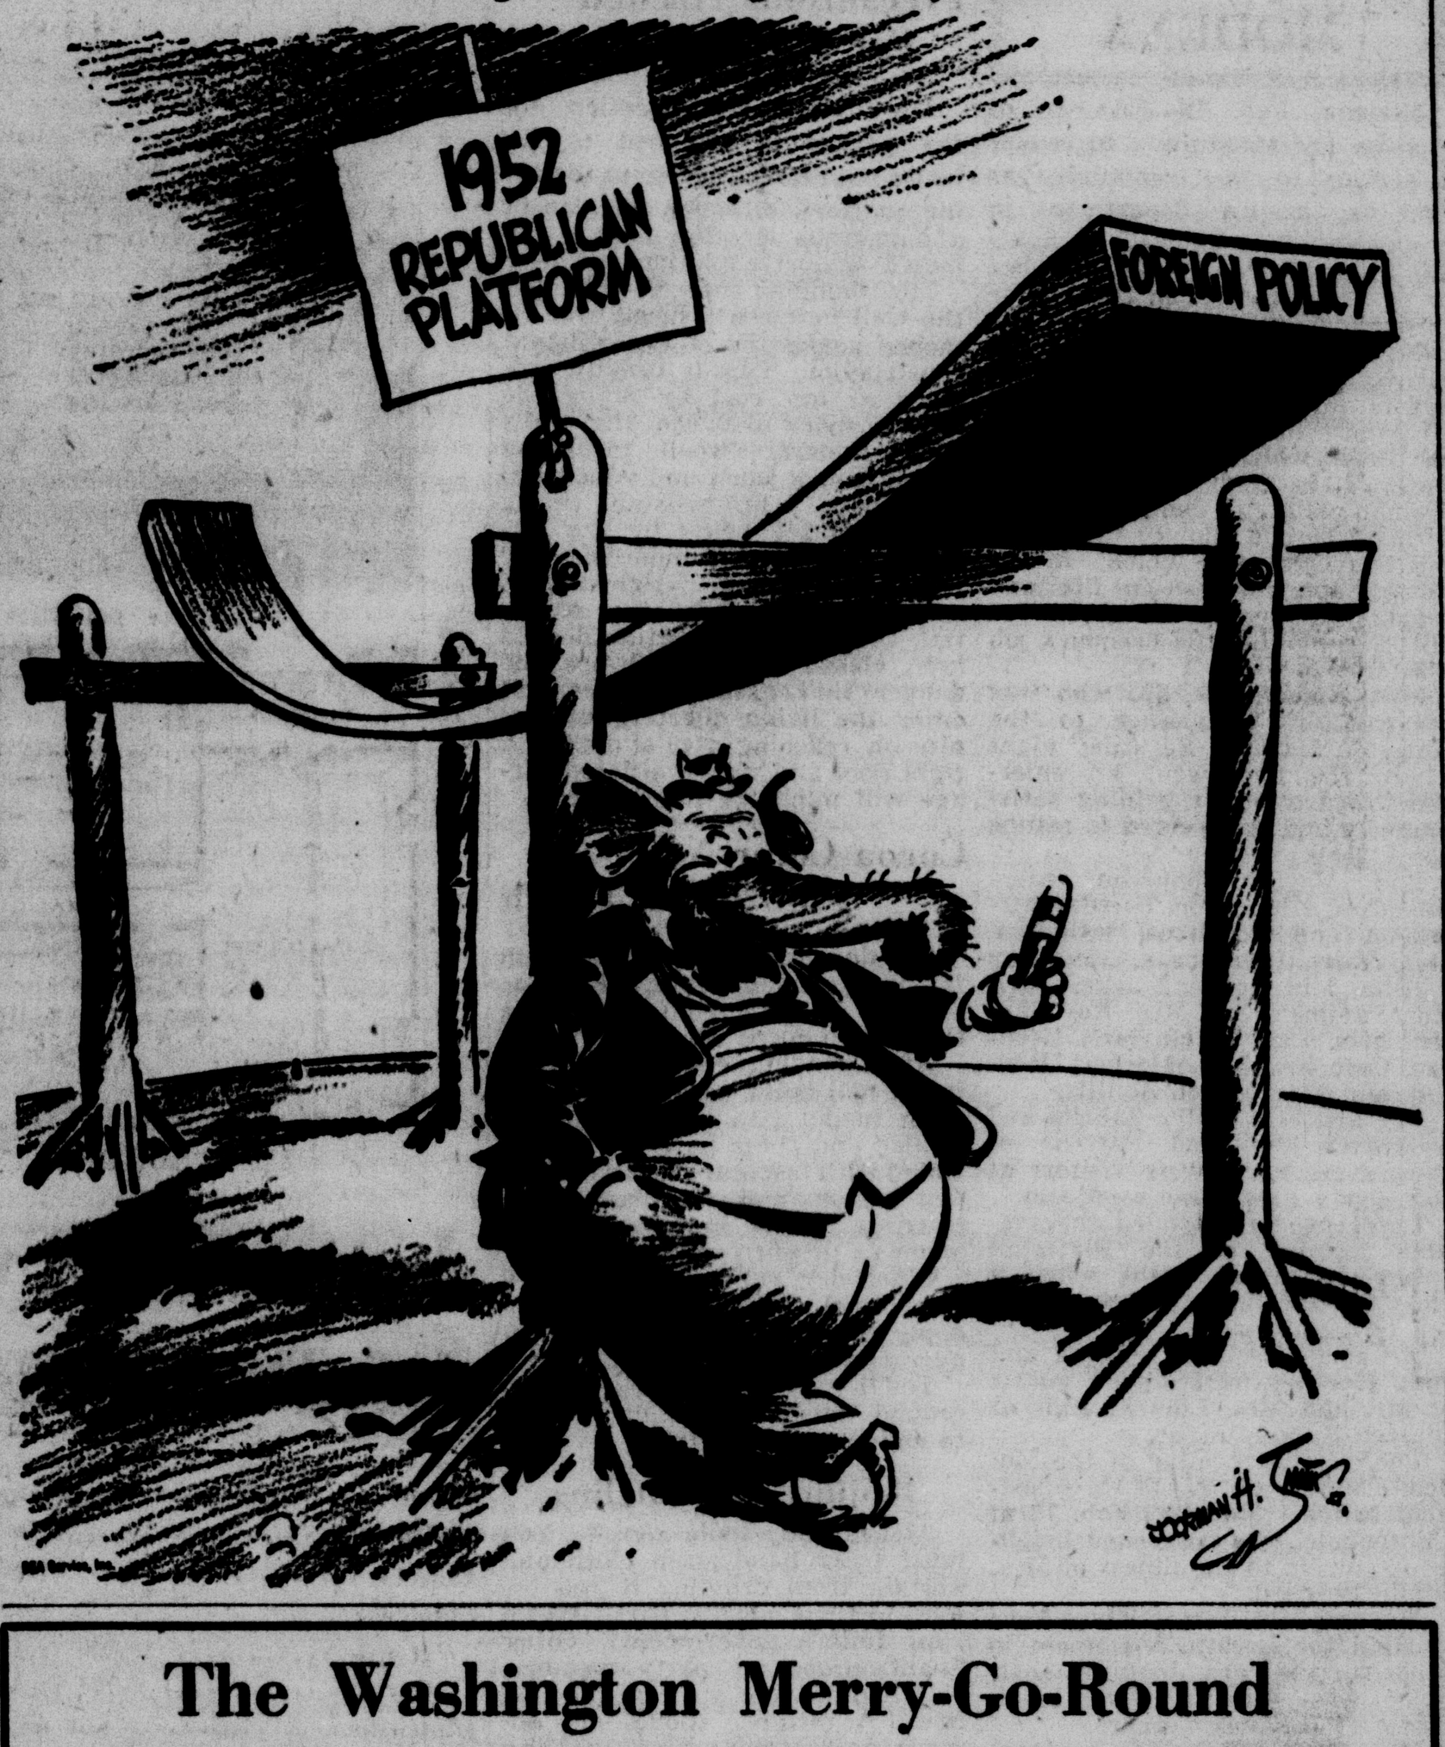
Nothing Like Getting an Early Start



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—GOP backing for Chief Justice Fred Vinson as Secretary of State if and when Dean Acheson resigns was indicated at a private luncheon gathering by no less than GOP Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine this week.

Brewster's statement is significant because it happens to coincide with some backstage talks among Democrats—namely, elevating Acheson to the Supreme Court and replacing him with the chief justice.

What the Republican senator from Maine told the Harvard Alumni Luncheon Club in Washington was:

"I advocate replacing Dean Acheson with Chief Justice Vinson and I made a pilgrimage to the White House to discuss it with Mr. Truman. I also discussed it with Justice Vinson. The Republican party as a whole would be solidly behind this proposal.

"As I said," continued Brewster, "I talked to Mr. Truman, of whom I am very fond, and he put on his humility act which he does so well. Both the President and Mr. Vinson listened carefully. I understand that Mr. Vinson is number one on the list if Secretary Acheson resigns, and that Mr. Vinson would accept if asked.

"If Justice Vinson came in and dug us out of the hole we are in and stopped the threat of war I wouldn't care if it would build him up as a successor to Mr. Truman. He would deserve to be president if he did that."

Note—The White House inner circle has long felt that if President Truman does not run, he would endeavor to promote the chief justice as his successor.

Underworld Taxes

About the biggest hoodlum in Chicago since Al Capone fell from power is Tony Accardo, who together with his partner, Jack Guzik, rules the most lucrative underworld in the U.S.A.

Sometimes known as Joe Batters, Accardo has a wife and three children, refers to himself as a betting commissioner, belongs to the powerful Mafia, transplanted here from Sicily, learned his "politics" as a guard to Al Capone and is suspected of having helped promote the St. Valentine's Day massacre in 1929.

What concerns Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public about Tony Accardo, however, is not so much his career in Chicago but the case history of a big-shot gambler who seems immune from income-tax investigation.

Accardo takes care to file a fairly large tax return. He remembers, no doubt, what happened to his old friend, Al Capone, who went to jail. But at the bottom of Tony's joint 1946 tax return, filed with his partner, Jack Guzik, is the notation of the internal revenue agent: "The partners refused to divulge the source of this income. Insomuch as the partnership reports a substantial amount, the correctness of which is impossible to check, it is opined that further investigation is impracticable."

Tax Task Force

In other words, the internal revenue bureau throws up its hands, takes whatever money gangster Accardo wants to give the treasury and calls it a day. If any businessman did this, his books would be shadowed by T-men.

However, the Treasury Department, partly because it has not been voted sufficient funds by Congress, party because it is overwhelmed with work, has let many of the hoodlums' tax returns go virtually uninvestigated. If, on the other hand, the Treasury appointed a special tax task-force to scrutinize underworld returns, it would have a twofold effect:

1. This would bring more money into the Treasury;

2. It would put the hoodlums under such constant scrutiny that their operations would, of necessity, become stymied.

Taking a closer look at Accardo's tax return, it is interesting to note that in 1949 he reported an income of $134,207.54 from his partnership with Jack Guzik, plus $33,472.12 from the Owl Club in Calumet City. However, he took deductions of $1,620.31 for "contributions"; $375 as interest on "Oak Park"; $1,455.98 as taxes on "personal property"; $177.50 as "other taxes"; $347.35 as "loss from the Trotters Club."

Football Betting Revenue

There is no way the Treasury can ascertain the accuracy of these or any other deductions, nor, as a matter of fact, the accuracy of Accardo's income, without putting a special squad of T-men to work.

For instance, in 1948 Accardo reported the flat sum of $60,000 as received from "various sources." It would appear on the surface that Accardo was merely guessing. The same year Accardo listed $45,653.98 from the Owl Club and $4,500 profit on the sale of the Illinois Simplex Distributing Company, a jukebox concern.

Accardo's other returns have followed a similar pattern, except that each year he has made progressively more money. In 1942, for instance, he reported a net income of $8,103.08 compared with his net income in 1948 of $162,633.52. Going all the way back to 1940, Accardo's income was not only lean but interesting. He reported $9,500 as "miscellaneous income re betting, baseball, football, hockey, etc."

This is a typical case history of what the Treasury is up against in collecting taxes from the underworld; also what could be done in wiping out the underworld if a special tax force were organized to investigate the hoodlums.

United Electrical Workers

The United Electrical Workers' Union is now so pro-Communist that it recently admitted two Russian newsmen but simultaneously barred the American press from a district meeting in Chicago.

As a result the only news of the meeting was broadcast over Radio Moscow. Quoting two Russian writers named Filippov and Rassadin, the Soviet broadcast reported: "The representative of the Central Executive of the U. E., Julius Emspak, delivered a short report in which he proved how the aggressive policy of the U. S. government, carried out in the interests of monopolies, is loading more and more burdens upon the shoulders of the American people."

The broadcast then dramatically continued: "A great silence falls upon the conference hall. The chairman calls upon the delegate to the second world peace conference, Harold Ward (financial secretary of U.E. Local 108), who in his speech appeals to workers to fight for peace in a more active and energetic way . . .

"An elderly man rose to his feet," the Moscow narrative went on. "He reported that at the works where he is employed, the management recently increased even more the speed of the conveyor belt. 'It is becoming increasingly difficult to work, and workers are so worn out at the end of the day that they are hardly strong enough to get home,' he said. He called upon the workers to fight against the sweated labor system and against the increase of the work week."

Perhaps the United Electrical Workers prefer to join the starved slave labor of Russia.

WARNING TO GERMANY

The last chance for harmony between East Germany, controlled by the Russians, and West Germany, ruled by the Allies, may have gone. The East Germans have signed an agreement with the Russian satellite state, Poland, whereby the line of the Oder and Neisse rivers is accepted as a permanent boundary between the two countries. Everything east of this line is abandoned by the East Germans as territory in which they no longer have a claim.

This pact will shock all non-Communist Germans. It surrenders forever the German "lost provinces" of East Prussia and Silesia, including such cities as Koenigsberg and Stettin. Most Germans had hoped some amicable arrangement might occur whereby these lands might be restored to the Fatherland. The East German leaders now make it plain that in any controversy they are on the Polish, that is to say the Russian, side.

It must now be clear to the dullest that Russia is out to get all she can, in Germany as elsewhere. Annexation of the region east of the Oder and the Neisse must be interpreted as only a preliminary to the eventual swallowing up of East Germany, and perhaps later of the western part of the country. Wise Germans must now realize who are their real enemies, and whose friendship they must cultivate if they hope to save what is left.

"JOTHAM VALLEY"

We were discussing plays and the question naturally arose as to what plays could youngsters of 10 and 14 be taken. Not being converted speakeasy sophisticates, we were weary of discovering that the playwright suffered the tortures of the damned seeking for a curtain line and finally came up with the novelty of a foul word, spoken by an apparently innocent ingenue. That always gets a laugh!

Also we wanted the children to feel that because they went to the theatre, they were not being influenced to believe that sex is all there is to American life; that life has some finer aspects, some very decent moments, a moral side, if you please.

So we went to see "Jotham Valley," a play put on with all the skill of professional showmanship by a group who call themselves Moral Re-armament. This is a musical, with songs occasionally comparable to "Oklahoma!" And with a story that is so real that it does happen in every home. A very good time was had by all.

The essence of "Jotham Valley" is the melodrama of two quarreling brothers, whose hatred brings misery to all their neighbors, particularly when one brother deprives the valley of water, because he, legally but not morally, controls the water rights. Here is a struggle that is universal, for legal rights do not suffice in a world that requires constructive living. Law passed by legislators is often not only inadequate but, being the product of man, unsound. We have to live by the laws of man, but natural law, the law of God, transcends the laws of man.

So, in the end, in this play, the key of truth opens the hardened heart of the brother and he permits the water to gush forth, so that the cattle drink of God's bounty, and life is good. Also the brothers make up.

This plot is as simple as "Romeo and Juliet," which is the simplest and most usual of stories, being nothing more than that boy loves girl, but the parents say no. Most really important plots are simple, just as great symphonies are written around little tunes. (To wit: Those notes in Beethoven's Fifth which Winston Churchill turned into a V for victory.)

Simplicity, of itself, may not only be truth but interesting and even exciting. What is more simple than a single tree, growing out of a rock along a granite seashore, standing proudly in a gale. All the smudge that a modernist can hurl at canvas cannot equal the majesty of that one object against a barren sky. And yet, as the poet said, only God can make a tree.

So in "Jotham Valley," it is the simplicity of plot, in a musical and engaging setting, which opens the mind to the truth that man can and does change his nature through the humility of faith.

It is not surprising that this play has encountered the opposition of the Communists and the homosexuals in the theatre, the former because they do not want men to think that the nature of man can be elevated by his own will, and the homosexuals because they excuse their indecencies on the ground that they cannot help themselves. They say that they are not evil but just that way because they are just that way.

"Jotham Valley" is a good play for adults, but it is important that children and youth should see it. With grace and ease, it projects the idea that life can be made worth living once the human wants to live a worth-while life.

This idea is not novel, but it needs to be constantly reiterated. Men live by hate because they like to hate. When they cease to like to hate, they will cease to hate. The causes for hatred are often so trivial, so unimportant as to be ridiculous when analyzed. I know of groups of men who hate each other with violence. Knowing both sides, I also know that these hatreds are the product not of conviction but of suspicion and habit. Reconciliation is difficult because who is the first to say: "I have been wrong and a fool," when both have been wrong and both are fools?

So goes the world and in the end comes war and death. If children and young people could see "Jotham Valley," maybe they, too, might find the key to better living.

That Body of Yours

CANCER OF THE TONGUE

When a small sore occurs on the tongue, little is thought of it unless it becomes painful or increases in size. As some of these sores cause little or no pain, it may remain for weeks and unless a little lump occurs in the neck (an enlarged gland), the physician is not consulted. What many fail to realize is that a sore that does not heal may be malignant (cancer). As in every form of cancer, tongue cancer is curable if early treatment is given.

In Western Journal of Surgery, Obstetrics and Gynecology, Portland, Ore., Drs. G. S. Sharp, E. W. Demaree and R. E. Pugh, Jr., report their experience in the treatment of 84 patients with cancer of the tongue, observed between 1932 and 1944. They found that cancer of the tongue is more malignant than other growths in the mouth; therefore no time should be lost before start of the treatment. They believe that recognizing sores or growths of the tongue that are likely to develop into cancer and giving them early treatment would prevent 30 to 40 per cent of tongue cancers. These "innocent" conditions, such as a white spot, a tiny wart, burns, fissures and scars from continuous irritation of dental plates can be forerunners of cancer.

These research workers on cancer suggest the following classifications of tongue cancer. The first stage includes growths that, when they first appear (primary growths), are less than 1.5 cm. (about 1/3 inch) in diameter; the second state, less than 3 cm. (almost 2/3 inch); the third stage (of first growth) of any size but with enlarged glands in neck permitting surgical removal; he fourth stage with enlarged glands in neck which cannot undergo removal by surgery.

According to this grouping, about one-third of their 84 patients were in stages 1 and 2, and 70 per cent of these cases, 1 and 2, represented 70 per cent of the five-year cures.

Chance of cure is about four times as good for a growth in stages 1 and 2 as for one in stages 3 to 4. Once the lymph nodes (glands) in the neck become involved or spread from the cancer on the tongue, the cure rate is only 17 per cent.

In regard to treatment; surgery or radium is used in stages 1 and 2, radium and X-ray in stage 3, but in stage 4, tongue cancers which have spread to the glands in the neck, surgical removal of part of the tongue, jaw, and neck glands is required.

Don't neglect any sore of tongue or mouth. Early cancer, stages 1, 2, or 3, readily reached, can usually be cured.

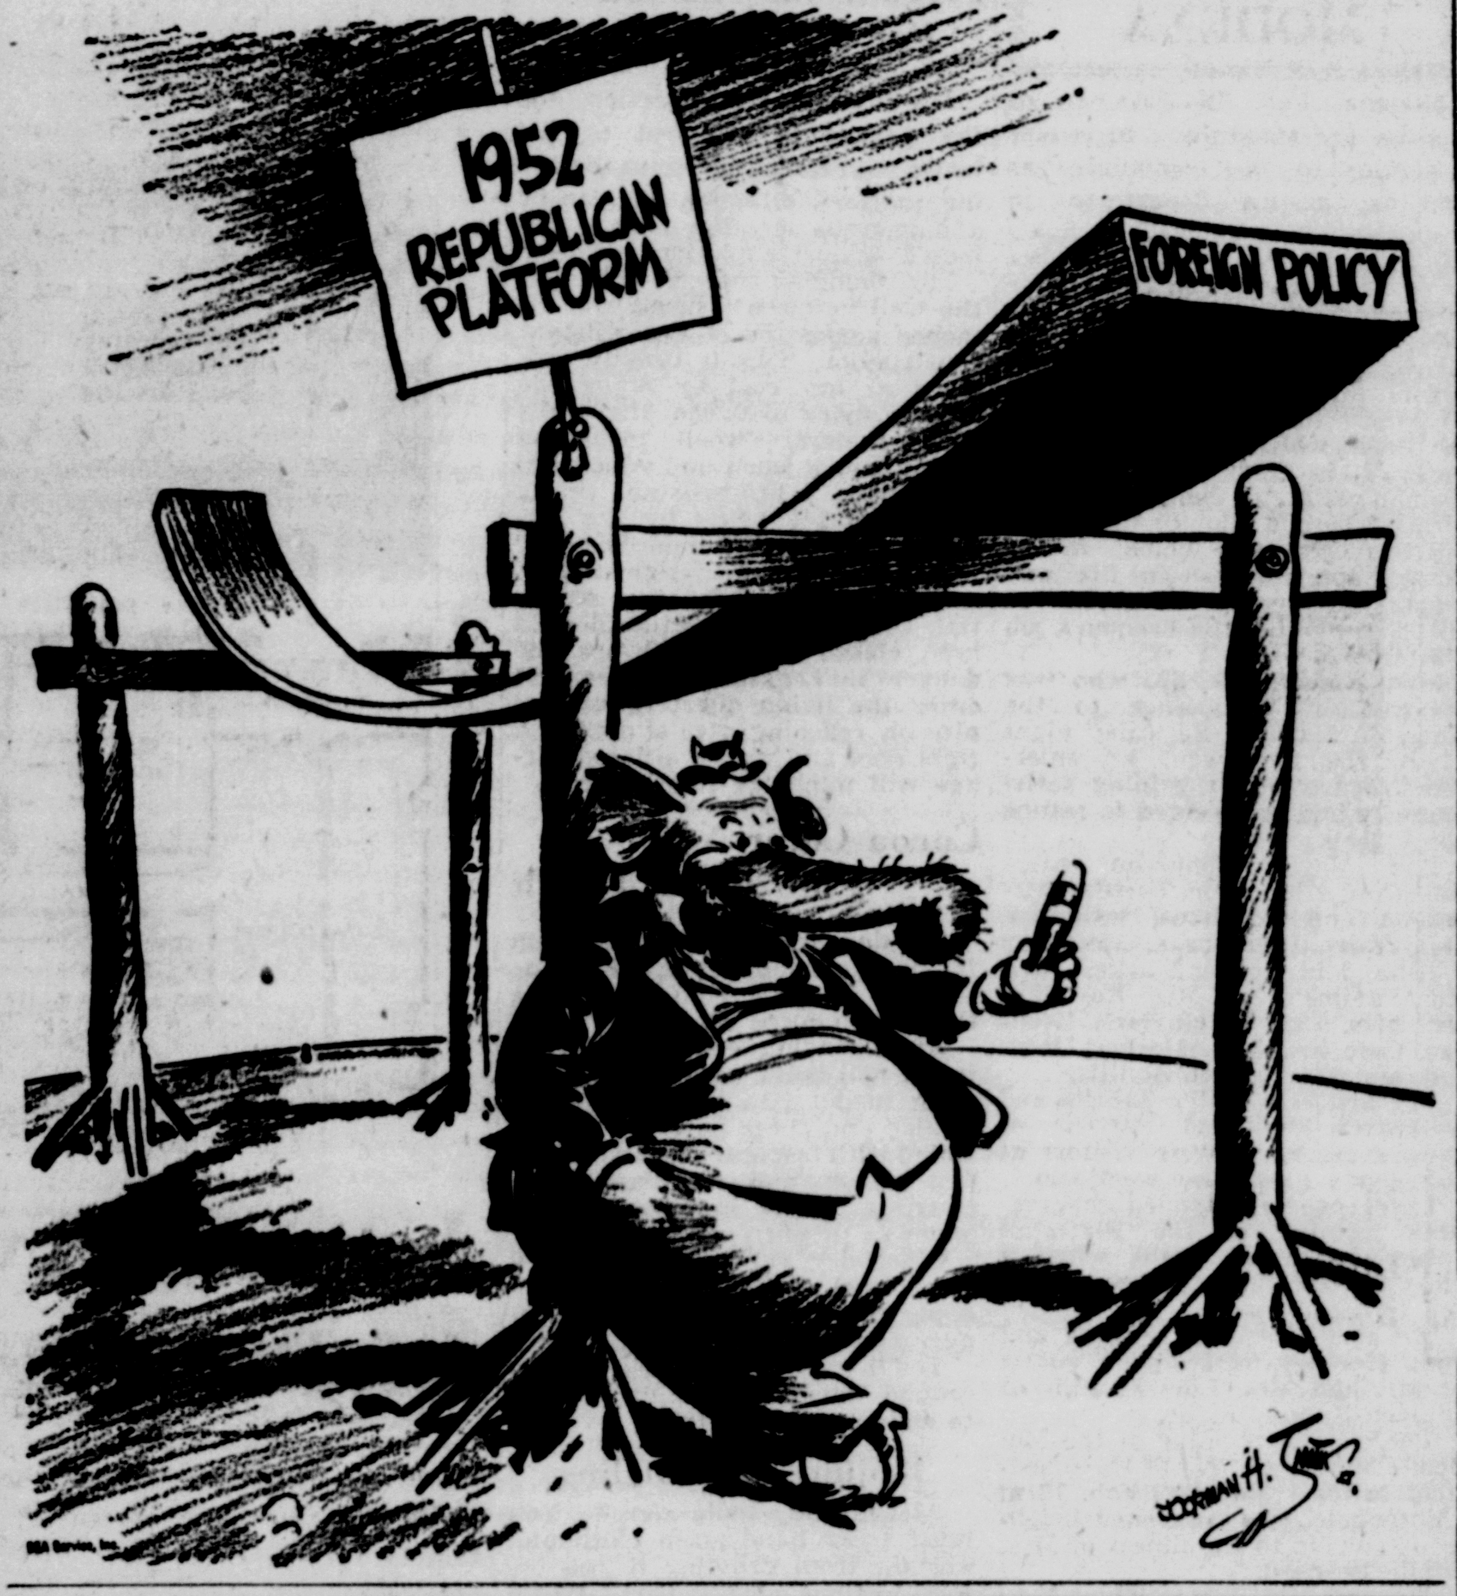
Nothing Like Getting an Early Start



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—GOP backing for Chief Justice Fred Vinson as Secretary of State if and when Dean Acheson resigns was indicated at a private luncheon gathering by no less than GOP Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine this week.

Brewster's statement is significant because it happens to coincide with some backstage talks among Democrats—namely, elevating Acheson to the Supreme Court and replacing him with the chief justice.

What the Republican senator from Maine told the Harvard Alumni Luncheon Club in Washington was:

"I advocate replacing Dean Acheson with Chief Justice Vinson and I made a pilgrimage to the White House to discuss it with Mr. Truman. I also discussed it with Justice Vinson. The Republican party as a whole would be solidly behind this proposal.

"As I said," continued Brewster, "I talked to Mr. Truman, of whom I am very fond, and he put on his humility act which he does so well. Both the President and Mr. Vinson listened carefully. I understand that Mr. Vinson is number one on the list if Secretary Acheson resigns, and that Mr. Vinson would accept if asked.

"If Justice Vinson came in and dug us out of the hole we are in and stopped the threat of war I wouldn't care if it would build him up as a successor to Mr. Truman. He would deserve to be president if he did that."

Note—The White House inner circle has long felt that if President Truman does not run, he would endeavor to promote the chief justice as his successor.

Underworld Taxes

About the biggest hoodlum in Chicago since Al Capone fell from power is Tony Accardo, who together with his partner, Jack Guzik, rules the most lucrative underworld in the U.S.A.

Sometimes known as Joe Batters, Accardo has a wife and three children, refers to himself as a betting commissioner, belongs to the powerful Mafia, transplanted here from Sicily, learned his "politics" as a guard to Al Capone and is suspected of having helped promote the St. Valentine's Day massacre in 1929.

What concerns Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public about Tony Accardo, however, is not so much his career in Chicago but the case history of a big-shot gambler who seems immune from income-tax investigation.

Accardo takes care to file a fairly large tax return. He remembers, no doubt, what happened to his old friend, Al Capone, who went to jail. But at the bottom of Tony's joint 1946 tax return, filed with his partner, Jack Guzik, is the notation of the internal revenue agent: "The partners refused to divulge the source of this income. Insomuch as the partnership reports a substantial amount, the correctness of which is impossible to check, it is opined that further investigation is impracticable."

Tax Task Force

In other words, the internal revenue bureau throws up its hands, takes whatever money gangster Accardo wants to give the treasury and calls it a day. If any businessman did this, his books would be shadowed by T-men.

However, the Treasury Department, partly because it has not been voted sufficient funds by Congress, party because it is overwhelmed with work, has let many of the hoodlums' tax returns go virtually uninvestigated. If, on the other hand, the Treasury appointed a special tax task-force to scrutinize underworld returns, it would have a twofold effect:

1. This would bring more money into the Treasury;

2. It would put the hoodlums under such constant scrutiny that their operations would, of necessity, become stymied.

Taking a closer look at Accardo's tax return, it is interesting to note that in 1949 he reported an income of $134,207.54 from his partnership with Jack Guzik, plus $33,472.12 from the Owl Club in Calumet City. However, he took deductions of $1,620.31 for "contributions"; $375 as interest on "Oak Park"; $1,455.98 as taxes on "personal property"; $177.50 as "other taxes"; $347.35 as "loss from the Trotters Club."

Football Betting Revenue

There is no way the Treasury can ascertain the accuracy of these or any other deductions, nor, as a matter of fact, the accuracy of Accardo's income, without putting a special squad of T-men to work.

For instance, in 1948 Accardo reported the flat sum of $60,000 as received from "various sources." It would appear on the surface that Accardo was merely guessing. The same year Accardo listed $45,653.98 from the Owl Club and $4,500 profit on the sale of the Illinois Simplex Distributing Company, a jukebox concern.

Accardo's other returns have followed a similar pattern, except that each year he has made progressively more money. In 1942, for instance, he reported a net income of $8,103.08 compared with his net income in 1948 of $162,633.52. Going all the way back to 1940, Accardo's income was not only lean but interesting. He reported $9,500 as "miscellaneous income re betting, baseball, football, hockey, etc."

This is a typical case history of what the Treasury is up against in collecting taxes from the underworld; also what could be done in wiping out the underworld if a special tax force were organized to investigate the hoodlums.

United Electrical Workers

The United Electrical Workers' Union is now so pro-Communist that it recently admitted two Russian newsmen but simultaneously barred the American press from a district meeting in Chicago.

As a result the only news of the meeting was broadcast over Radio Moscow. Quoting two Russian writers named Filippov and Rassadin, the Soviet broadcast reported: "The representative of the Central Executive of the U. E., Julius Emspak, delivered a short report in which he proved how the aggressive policy of the U. S. government, carried out in the interests of monopolies, is loading more and more burdens upon the shoulders of the American people."

The broadcast then dramatically continued: "A great silence falls upon the conference hall. The chairman calls upon the delegate to the second world peace conference, Harold Ward (financial secretary of U.E. Local 108), who in his speech appeals to workers to fight for peace in a more active and energetic way . . .

"An elderly man rose to his feet," the Moscow narrative went on. "He reported that at the works where he is employed, the management recently increased even more the speed of the conveyor belt. 'It is becoming increasingly difficult to work, and workers are so worn out at the end of the day that they are hardly strong enough to get home,' he said. He called upon the workers to fight against the sweated labor system and against the increase of the work week."

Perhaps the United Electrical Workers prefer to join the starved slave labor of Russia.

CONGRESSMEN WON'T SWING AXES

As in former years, some Washington lawmakers are saying no new taxes should be voted until substantial cuts are made in President Truman's $71.6 billion budget. But the sad fact is that then there'd be no new taxes. For Congress always talks of real economy but never votes it.

There is nothing new in this threadbare old story. The average congressman or senator shouts for budget reductions until they threaten to become a reality. Thereupon he moves to block them, for fear that his own state or district will somehow suffer from the pruning.

There is supposed to be political advantage in going through these foolish motions. But it's a great mystery how there can be any vote-getting value in a transparent performance that has been exposed again and again as completely insincere.

The other day Frederick Lawton, director of the Budget Bureau, discussed this business with the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee. He told the group frankly that he gets much more pressure from lawmakers to increase budget items than to cut them.

In one three-month period, he said, he had received requests from 200 congressmen to put new projects into the budget or boost existing items. That means nearly forty per cent of all members of Congress were heard from in this fashion.

When former defense secretary Louis Johnson wielded the axe in his department to slice away 135,000 civilian jobs, the lawmakers were horrified. But their concern was not for the effect this might have on the national security. It was for the fact that many of those jobs were scattered about the nation in their own districts.

Once a federal program is established, it is extremely difficult to abolish it. It spells money and jobs, and no one closely tied to those benefits will yield them easily.

So about the only way we can have genuine economy now is for the President and his budget officials to exercise strict restraint in the launching of new programs. If programs are needed, they should not be padded in the expectation that Congress will trim them.

It will probably always be thus until the lawmakers become convinced that they are not cutting their own throats by voting economies which specifically affect their own areas.

Here and there signs have developed which may lead in that direction. Some House members are getting mail from people who urge an end to benefits they now personally receive. But it's hardly a trend yet.

Meantime, the biggest savings for the public might result from Congress resolving not to waste its time and energy debating economy that it doesn't intend to practice.

"JOTHAM VALLEY"

We were discussing plays and the question naturally arose as to what plays could youngsters of 10 and 14 be taken. Not being converted speakeasy sophisticates, we were weary of discovering that the playwright suffered the tortures of the damned seeking for a curtain line and finally came up with the novelty of a foul word, spoken by an apparently innocent ingenue. That always gets a laugh!

Also we wanted the children to feel that because they went to the theatre, they were not being influenced to believe that sex is all there is to American life; that life has some finer aspects, some very decent moments, a moral side, if you please.

So we went to see "Jotham Valley," a play put on with all the skill of professional showmanship by a group who call themselves Moral Re-armament. This is a musical, with songs occasionally comparable to "Oklahoma!" And with a story that is so real that it does happen in every home. A very good time was had by all.

The essence of "Jotham Valley" is the melodrama of two quarreling brothers, whose hatred brings misery to all their neighbors, particularly when one brother deprives the valley of water, because he, legally but not morally, controls the water rights. Here is a struggle that is universal, for legal rights do not suffice in a world that requires constructive living. Law passed by legislators is often not only inadequate but, being the product of man, unsound. We have to live by the laws of man, but natural law, the law of God, transcends the laws of man.

So, in the end, in this play, the key of truth opens the hardened heart of the brother and he permits the water to gush forth, so that the cattle drink of God's bounty, and life is good. Also the brothers make up.

This plot is as simple as "Romeo and Juliet," which is the simplest and most usual of stories, being nothing more than that boy loves girl, but the parents say no. Most really important plots are simple, just as great symphonies are written around little tunes. (To wit: Those notes in Beethoven's Fifth which Winston Churchill turned into a V for victory.)

Simplicity, of itself, may not only be truth but interesting and even exciting. What is more simple than a single tree, growing out of a rock along a granite seashore, standing proudly in a gale. All the smudge that a modernist can hurl at canvas cannot equal the majesty of that one object against a barren sky. And yet, as the poet said, only God can make a tree.

So in "Jotham Valley," it is the simplicity of plot, in a musical and engaging setting, which opens the mind to the truth that man can and does change his nature through the humility of faith.

It is not surprising that this play has encountered the opposition of the Communists and the homosexuals in the theatre, the former because they do not want men to think that the nature of man can be elevated by his own will, and the homosexuals because they excuse their indecencies on the ground that they cannot help themselves. They say that they are not evil but just that way because they are just that way.

"Jotham Valley" is a good play for adults, but it is important that children and youth should see it. With grace and ease, it projects the idea that life can be made worth living once the human wants to live a worth-while life.

This idea is not novel, but it needs to be constantly reiterated. Men live by hate because they like to hate. When they cease to like to hate, they will cease to hate. The causes for hatred are often so trivial, so unimportant as to be ridiculous when analyzed. I know of groups of men who hate each other with violence. Knowing both sides, I also know that these hatreds are the product not of conviction but of suspicion and habit. Reconciliation is difficult because who is the first to say: "I have been wrong and a fool," when both have been wrong and both are fools?

So goes the world and in the end comes war and death. If children and young people could see "Jotham Valley," maybe they, too, might find the key to better living.

That Body of Yours

CANCER OF THE TONGUE

When a small sore occurs on the tongue, little is thought of it unless it becomes painful or increases in size. As some of these sores cause little or no pain, it may remain for weeks and unless a little lump occurs in the neck (an enlarged gland), the physician is not consulted. What many fail to realize is that a sore that does not heal may be malignant (cancer). As in every form of cancer, tongue cancer is curable if early treatment is given.

In Western Journal of Surgery, Obstetrics and Gynecology, Portland, Ore., Drs. G. S. Sharp, E. W. Demaree and R. E. Pugh, Jr., report their experience in the treatment of 84 patients with cancer of the tongue, observed between 1932 and 1944. They found that cancer of the tongue is more malignant than other growths in the mouth; therefore no time should be lost before start of the treatment. They believe that recognizing sores or growths of the tongue that are likely to develop into cancer and giving them early treatment would prevent 30 to 40 per cent of tongue cancers. These "innocent" conditions, such as a white spot, a tiny wart, burns, fissures and scars from continuous irritation of dental plates can be forerunners of cancer.

These research workers on cancer suggest the following classifications of tongue cancer. The first stage includes growths that, when they first appear (primary growths), are less than 1.5 cm. (about 1/3 inch) in diameter; the second state, less than 3 cm. (almost 2/3 inch); the third stage (of first growth) of any size but with enlarged glands in neck permitting surgical removal; he fourth stage with enlarged glands in neck which cannot undergo removal by surgery.

According to this grouping, about one-third of their 84 patients were in stages 1 and 2, and 70 per cent of these cases, 1 and 2, represented 70 per cent of the five-year cures.

Chance of cure is about four times as good for a growth in stages 1 and 2 as for one in stages 3 to 4. Once the lymph nodes (glands) in the neck become involved or spread from the cancer on the tongue, the cure rate is only 17 per cent.

In regard to treatment; surgery or radium is used in stages 1 and 2, radium and X-ray in stage 3, but in stage 4, tongue cancers which have spread to the glands in the neck, surgical removal of part of the tongue, jaw, and neck glands is required.

Don't neglect any sore of tongue or mouth. Early cancer, stages 1, 2, or 3, readily reached, can usually be cured.

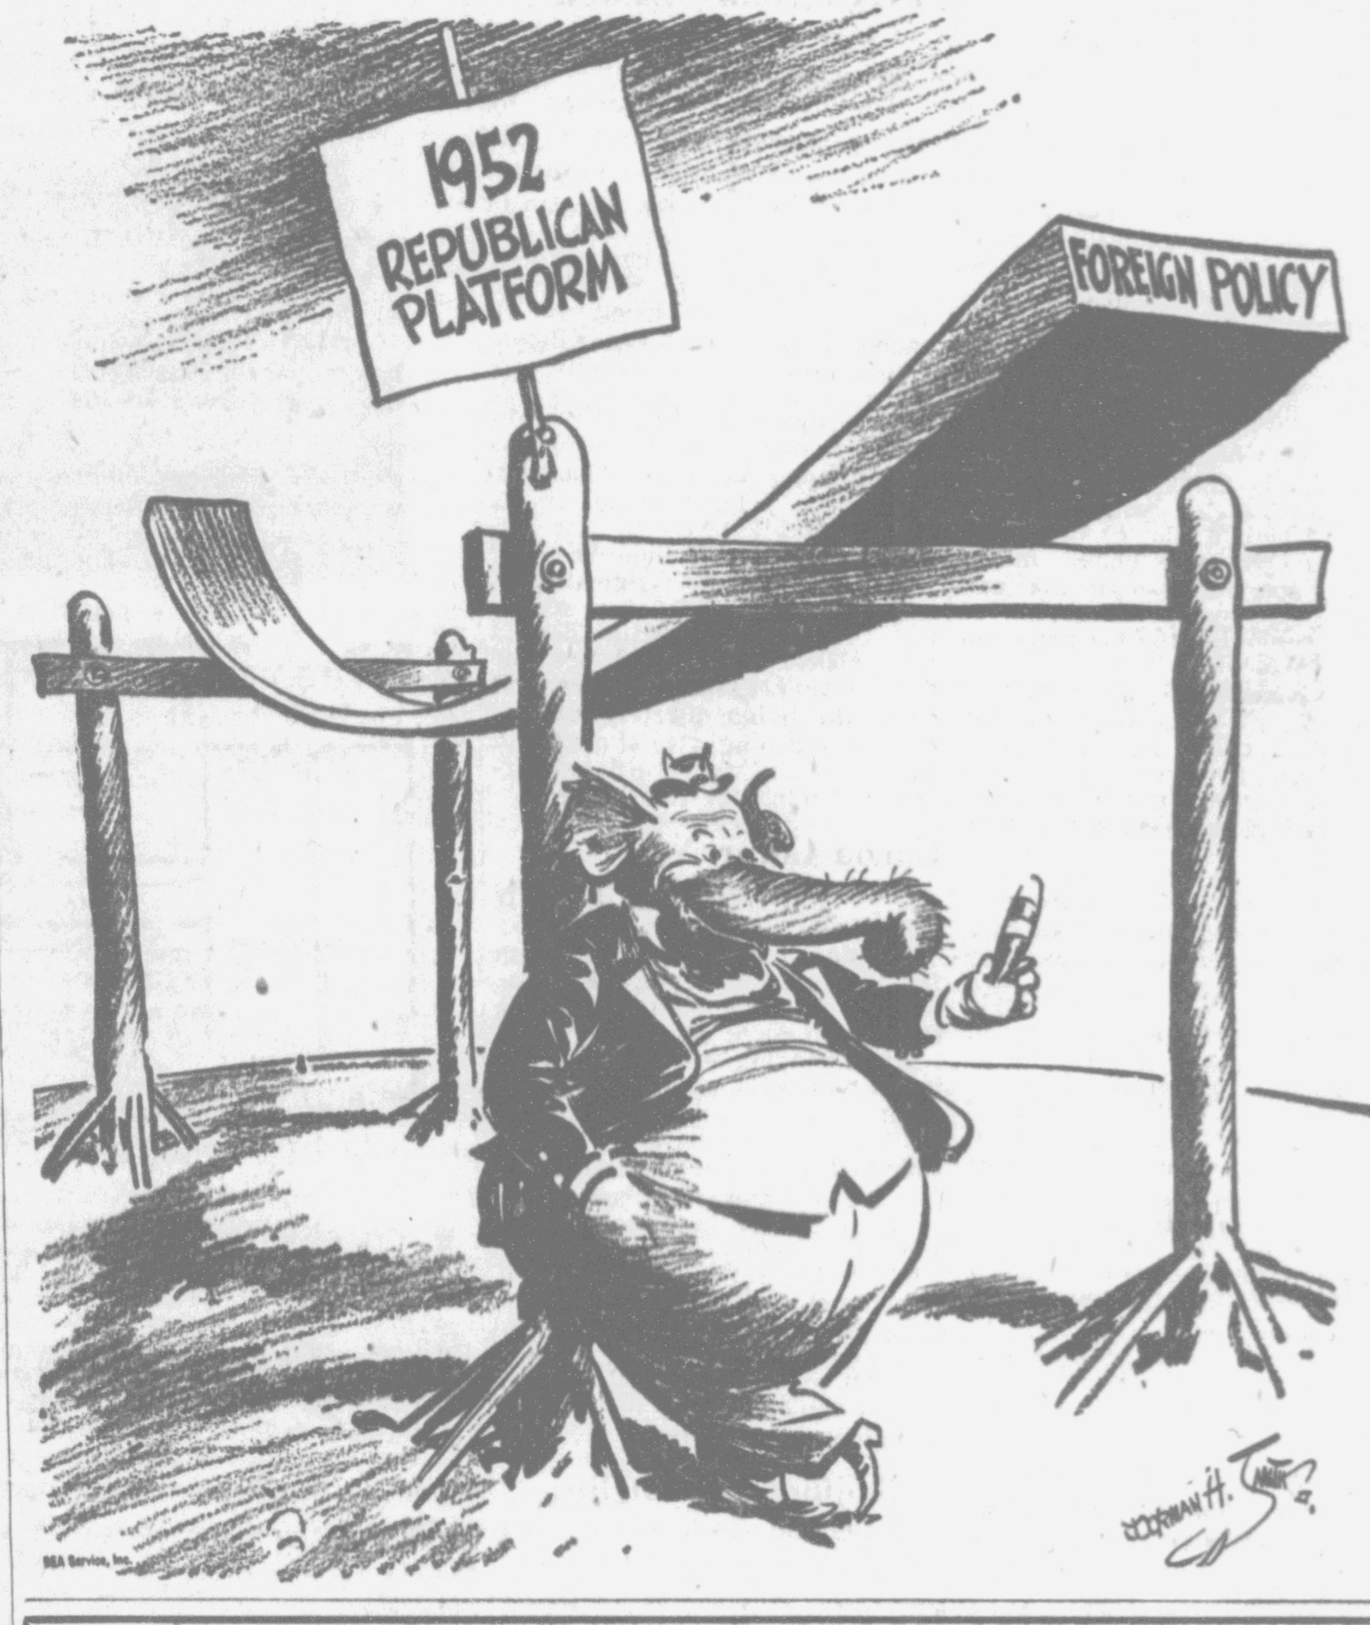
Nothing Like Getting an Early Start



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—GOP backing for Chief Justice Fred Vinson as Secretary of State if and when Dean Acheson resigns was indicated at a private luncheon gathering by no less than GOP Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine this week.

Brewster's statement is significant because it happens to coincide with some backstage talks among Democrats—namely, elevating Acheson to the Supreme Court and replacing him with the chief justice.

What the Republican senator from Maine told the Harvard Alumni Luncheon Club in Washington was:

"I advocate replacing Dean Acheson with Chief Justice Vinson and I made a pilgrimage to the White House to discuss it with Mr. Truman. I also discussed it with Justice Vinson. The Republican party as a whole would be solidly behind this proposal.

"As I said," continued Brewster, "I talked to Mr. Truman, of whom I am very fond, and he put on his humility act which he does so well. Both the President and Mr. Vinson listened carefully. I understand that Mr. Vinson is number one on the list if Secretary Acheson resigns, and that Mr. Vinson would accept if asked.

"If Justice Vinson came in and dug us out of the hole we are in and stopped the threat of war I wouldn't care if it would build him up as a successor to Mr. Truman. He would deserve to be president if he did that."

Note—The White House inner circle has long felt that if President Truman does not run, he would endeavor to promote the chief justice as his successor.

Underworld Taxes

About the biggest hoodlum in Chicago since Al Capone fell from power is Tony Accardo, who together with his partner, Jack Guzik, rules the most lucrative underworld in the U.S.A.

Sometimes known as Joe Batters, Accardo has a wife and three children, refers to himself as a betting commissioner, belongs to the powerful Mafia, transplanted here from Sicily, learned his "politics" as a guard to Al Capone and is suspected of having helped promote the St. Valentine's Day massacre in 1929.

What concerns Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public about Tony Accardo, however, is not so much his career in Chicago but the case history of a big-shot gambler who seems immune from income-tax investigation.

Accardo takes care to file a fairly large tax return. He remembers, no doubt, what happened to his old friend, Al Capone, who went to jail. But at the bottom of Tony's joint 1946 tax return, filed with his partner, Jack Guzik, is the notation of the internal revenue agent: "The partners refused to divulge the source of this income. Insomuch as the partnership reports a substantial amount, the correctness of which is impossible to check, it is opined that further investigation is impracticable."

Tax Task Force

In other words, the internal revenue bureau throws up its hands, takes whatever money gangster Accardo wants to give the treasury and calls it a day. If any businessman did this, his books would be shadowed by T-men.

However, the Treasury Department, partly because it has not been voted sufficient funds by Congress, party because it is overwhelmed with work, has let many of the hoodlums' tax returns go virtually uninvestigated. If, on the other hand, the Treasury appointed a special tax task-force to scrutinize underworld returns, it would have a twofold effect:

1. This would bring more money into the Treasury;
2. It would put the hoodlums under such constant scrutiny that their operations would, of necessity, become stymied.

Taking a closer look at Accardo's tax return, it is interesting to note that in 1949 he reported an income of $134,207.54 from his partnership with Jack Guzik, plus $33,472.12 from the Owl Club in Calumet City. However, he took deductions of $1,620.31 for "contributions"; $375 as interest on "Oak Park"; $1,455.98 as taxes on "personal property"; $177.50 as "other taxes"; $347.35 as "loss from the Trotters Club."

Football Betting Revenue

There is no way the Treasury can ascertain the accuracy of these or any other deductions, nor, as a matter of fact, the accuracy of Accardo's income, without putting a special squad of T-men to work.

For instance, in 1948 Accardo reported the flat sum of $60,000 as received from "various sources." It would appear on the surface that Accardo was merely guessing. The same year Accardo listed $45,653.98 from the Owl Club and $4,500 profit on the sale of the Illinois Simplex Distributing Company, a jukebox concern.

Accardo's other returns have followed a similar pattern, except that each year he has made progressively more money. In 1942, for instance, he reported a net income of $8,103.08 compared with his net income in 1948 of $162,633.52. Going all the way back to 1940, Accardo's income was not only lean but interesting. He reported $9,500 as "miscellaneous income re betting, baseball, football, hockey, etc."

This is a typical case history of what the Treasury is up against in collecting taxes from the underworld; also what could be done in wiping out the underworld if a special tax force were organized to investigate the hoodlums.

United Electrical Workers

The United Electrical Workers' Union is now so pro-Communist that it recently admitted two Russian newsmen but simultaneously barred the American press from a district meeting in Chicago.

As a result the only news of the meeting was broadcast over Radio Moscow. Quoting two Russian writers named Filippov and Rassadin, the Soviet broadcast reported: "The representative of the Central Executive of the U. E., Julius Emspak, delivered a short report in which he proved how the aggressive policy of the U. S. government, carried out in the interests of monopolies, is loading more and more burdens upon the shoulders of the American people."

The broadcast then dramatically continued: "A great silence falls upon the conference hall. The chairman calls upon the delegate to the second world peace conference, Harold Ward (financial secretary of U.E. Local 108), who in his speech appeals to workers to fight for peace in a more active and energetic way . . .

"An elderly man rose to his feet," the Moscow narrative went on. "He reported that at the works where he is employed, the management recently increased even more the speed of the conveyor belt. 'It is becoming increasingly difficult to work, and workers are so worn out at the end of the day that they are hardly strong enough to get home,' he said. He called upon the workers to fight against the sweated labor system and against the increase of the work week."

Perhaps the United Electrical Workers prefer to join the starved slave labor of Russia.

Music Group Shown Striking Contrast Between Composers

The program of the Music Appreciation Group of the Y.W.C.A., prepared by Mrs. George Ross and Mrs. Raymond Craft, and presented Thursday at the home of Mrs. Harry Reppert, 169 North Manor avenue, afforded a striking contrast between the works of Schubert and Schumann.

Schubert's favorable background and sympathetic friends, Mrs. Ross felt, were great factors in influencing his emotional, romantic music.

The speaker pointed out the color contrasts in his "B Flat Trio," and recorded portions of the work were played, with Arthur Rubinstein, Jascha Heifetz and Emanuel Feuermann as the artists.

In commenting on the "Unfinished" or "B Minor Symphony," of which the Boston Symphony recording was played, Mrs. Ross felt that perhaps the composer's mood was exhausted, and he could reach no further heights. The manuscript of this symphony, it was revealed, lay for 40 years at Gratz, Austria, before it was played for the first time in 1865.

Parental Opposition

Mrs. Craft called attention to Schumann's struggle to find his life work in the face of parental opposition.

Once he had decided upon composing, she said, his entire style was colored by his devotion to his wife, Clara, who was a brilliant pianist herself.

A recording of his "E Flat Quintet," played by the Adolf Busch Quartet, and Rudolph Serkin, served to illustrate for the group his harmonic originality.

Valentine Theme

At the tea which followed, Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce and Mrs. Reppert were the hostesses. The tea table appointments followed a Valentine color scheme. Mrs. Ward Brigham poured.

The next meeting of the Music Appreciation Group will be held March 1, at the home of Mrs. Conrad Heiselman, 173 West Chestnut street.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor of that parish, officiated.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. George Bishop of 315 Broadway and Joseph Sember of 148 Murray street.

A reception for the immediate families and close friends followed at the bride's home.

MARIANNE DAVIS

Back in her native Kingston after a year and a half spent as a civilian actress technician in Europe whipping soldier shows into shape for the special services, Miss Marianne Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Davis of 53 Crown street, described her life abroad Tuesday evening for members of the Benedictine Auxiliary. The meeting was held at the Nurses Home, with Mrs. Allen A. Baker presiding, while Miss Davis was introduced by Mrs. J. Haviland Barley.

The blonde Kingston High School graduate, who also holds a degree from Albany State Teachers College, little less than two years ago returned here after a 12-month tour of Japan as a theatre technician, who, she explains, "are beter known as 'cats.'" She also toured Europe in 1946 with the U.S.O. production of "George Washington Slept Here," in which she played the part of the daughter.

Not All Glory

"Contrary to the glorified version of this work in 'Call Me Mister'," Miss Davis told her audience," we actually work in teams of two, recruiting talented soldiers, teen-agers, and wives of servicemen to appear in musical comedies and dramatic sketches. Many of these original productions toured not only posts in Germany, but posts and Air Force bases throughout England, Trieste and Tripoli with the cooperation of the Air Force."

Traveling with your work, as Miss Davis will tell you, has definite advantages. "We took every opportunity to visit other countries in Europe to observe their customs, differences, or similarities."

Impressed by Austria

The "CATs" were particularly impressed by that land of opera and waltzes, Austria. Italy was also high on their list. "Austria impressed us all," Miss Davis recalls, "with the friendliness, simple yet quaint charm of the people, and recreation facilities." Meanwhile, "the warm climate and superior craftsmanship of the silversmiths and leatherworkers in Italy competed with the churches, the opera, and the ancient ruins to capture the attention of the tourist. This past year," she adds, "all roads really led to Rome, because it was Holy Year."

On a trip last Easter Miss Davis and her friends were able to see an even more southerly land, Egypt, where they compared the ancient with the modern, and were "duly impressed both by the pyramids and the modern apartment buildings." It would be hard, she feels, to find a more apt study in contrasts.

Germany Has Much

"Of course, Germany itself has much to offer a visitor," the seasoned traveler continued. "This past year interest centered on the Passion Play, so beautifully produced in picturesque Oberammergau, drawing record crowds to appreciate the skill of the villagers."

In conclusion Miss Davis evaluated her many and manifold experiences abroad; experiences which ranged from sampling a nation's artistic and culinary specialties, to meeting its various peoples in the equally various professions and positions.

"I came to understand better the different ways of life," she explained, "conditioned by the climate and terrain of each country. No matter how often any of us revisited a favorite place, we always felt there was much to be gained in enjoyment and better understanding by more return visits."

Spring Dance Plans

At the same meeting plans were discused for the Benedictine Auxiliary's spring dance, which is scheduled for March 31 this year at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Hostesses were Mrs. Arthur Nash, and Mrs. Guy Valeo. Mrs. Burton Davis, Miss Davis' mother, poured.

This letter if from a young man: "Let's say a man calls for his date, having asked her to a movie, and right in front of everyone she says to him, "You don't mind if Mary and Sue drive along with us, do you?" Of course he does mind but what can he say? It's like having three dates at one time, moneywise. Though he is willing to be a convenience to the friends (or sisters of whoever the extras happen to be) should he be expected to pay their way? If not, will you please explain to the girls how this problem of payment should be managed by them?

The proper thing for the two girls who are passengers to do would be to get out at the theatre and get their own tickets and go in to see the movie. The girl he invited would, under these circumstances, best go with him while he parks the car and then go with him to the theatre where he buys two tickets. To expect him—or even let him—buy four tickets is unfair.

Don't Give Money This Way!

Dear Mrs. Post: Friends of mine went to stay with relatives over the holidays and as there were quite a few of them my friend left a five dollar bill in the bed room, intending it for the maid. Evidently the maid gave it to the hostess who returned it to my friend in no uncertain terms. My friend feels terribly about this and wondered if there was any way to smooth the relative's ruffled feelings.

Answer: I'm sorry, but I do not understand why the hostess was angered! The fault was in not having given the money to the maid personally or, at least, having left it in an envelope addressed to her so that she would have known it was intended for herself.

Salad Eating Custom

Dear Mrs. Post: When salad is served along with the meal, instead of at any particular time during the meal, where is the salad fork supposed to be put in the place setting?

Answer: The proper place for the salad fork is always nearest to the plate.

New Honor System

Barbara Chmura, chairman of the honor roll committee and advisor Miss Quimby, met with the faculty recently to revise the present honor roll system.

At the meeting it was pointed out that many students were kept off the honor roll because of a single subject which proved more difficult than others. No student is eligible for an honor roll who has any mark below 80 per cent.

Maroon Masquers

Although Maroon Masquers held only three meetings during the entire first term, tryouts were held and 17 new members were selected.

The new members include Betty Ahl, Nancy Bryant, Nancy Bradden, Joan Barnovitz, Helen DeBruxn, Maureen Dugan, Joe Erena, Phyllis Everett and Myra Hopper. The others are Gail Kias, Faith Kingsburg, Marcia Levine, Florette Reon, Sally Rose, Nan Shurter, Barbara Warnecke and Marsha Woolf.

Scholarships

Cornell, veterans and scholarship exams will be held Thursday and Friday March 7 and 8.

The first 10 university scholarships are $350 and may be used to pay tuition or other expenses at any registered four-year college sponsored by the State of New York. These 10 scholarships are awarded to residents of Ulster county and no scholarship may be used in a school or college outside of the state.

Two Cornell scholarships will be awarded to students of Ulster county, each worth $200 a year for four years at Cornell University. Scholarships for diseased or disabled vets are $450 a year for four years. This may be applied toward tuition or other expenses at any registered four years in college or technical school registered by the State of New York.

Red Cross Activities

A cake sale was held at the Montgomery Ward store today for the benefit of the Junior Red Cross. This semester, the J.R.C. is planning to complete several activities. The boys group is planning to make a craft wagon for the West Point Military Hospital. The girls are going to make stuffed toys for the hospitalized children of the city. A committee has been chosen to buy the patterns for this project.

Red Cross members and all those interested are being offered an opportunity to take a course in first aid. Mary Cay Fennelly and Helen Hogan are in charge of obtaining instructors for this course. Afternoon and evening courses are being offered. Bill Steuding and R. Matthews are in charge of the boys' course and Millie Hoppe is in charge of the girls' course.

Cage Captains Elected

Already 195 girls have been organized into 22 teams with the frosh and sophs each claiming eight, the juniors and seniors three each.

Scholars in Service

Many former K.H.S. students are now serving Uncle Sam in the many branches of service.

Those in the air force include Norman Mitchell, Roy Laeffren, Harold Acker, Bob Beaumont, Fred Linnartz and Mike Provenzano who are stationed at Lackland Field, Tex. Also in the air force are Harvey Keyes, stationed at Mitchel Field; Rodney Whittaker at Wichita Falls; and Jerry Hughes, at Fort Benning.

The navy has at its service Donald Roosa who is attending school in Washington, D. C.; Art Peters, who is working on an aircraft carrier near Cuba; Frank Ana, stationed at Norfolk, Va., Rudy Byersdofer, at Rhode Island and Phil Schoonmaker, aboard the U.S.S. Mason stationed in Yokahoma, Japan.

Two sisters from Cyprus, Kika, 14, and Mary Charle, 15, who have recently enrolled at Kingston High School, explained some of the Cyprus customs and were surprised at the antics of the average American girl.

In Cyprus, there is no trace of that favorite American institution, baby sitting, they said. Instead they amuse themselves by knitting and sewing. Both girls like gymnastics but there is not as much emphasis put on physical education in their country. They agree that they like America and the American food but not the way we prepare it.

Photography Contest

A National Scholastic Press Association contest is being held for all students who are interested in photography. This contest is opened to any high school student. Competition closes on March 1.

The four classifications of pictures are babies and children, young people and adults, scenes and still life and animal life.

To enter this contest, students must write their name, city, street address, state, school grade, ninth through 12th, classification of the entry and picture title (this is optional) on the back of each snapshot. Entries are to be mailed to Empire State School Press Association, Bureau of Public Information, Administration Building, Syracuse 10.

Photographic experts have been picked by State Association and will select three pictures from each class for the final national judging. Merit certificates will be awarded by the State Press Association to the first 12 state winners.

Hall Display

Early methods of transportation form one of the more interesting current corridor displays. The displays include the chuck wagon, wood burning locomotive and stage coaches.

Transportation in the 20th Century is represented by the Wright Brothers second plane, a locomotive which was shipped around Cape Horn, Jimmy Doolittle's Racer, "Gee Bee," and a 1911 Maxwell.

All these articles were assembled by James Flanigan who also made many of them.

Clubs Organize

New club organizations for the second term are well underway. Clubs are being carried on three days a week, leaving the other two periods "X" for assemblies and home room guidance.

Latin and Chess Clubs are being continued and time has also been provided for the Chorus Club. The Stamp Club also is now being reorganized.

Mr. Limbacher, in charge of the new program has stated "the goal of our activity program is to provide an opportunity for participation by the entire student body in school sponsored activities. An attempt will be made to include any worthy club which the students wish to form."

Rules given for starting a new club are: Secure a list of 25 potential members; enlist a faculty advisor; write out the scope and plans of the club; submit all material to Mr. Limbacher before or after school.

Music Group Shown Striking Contrast Between Composers

The program of the Music Appreciation Group of the Y.W.C.A., prepared by Mrs. George Ross and Mrs. Raymond Craft, and presented Thursday at the home of Mrs. Harry Reppert, 169 North Manor avenue, afforded a striking contrast between the works of Schubert and Schumann.

Schubert's favorable background and sympathetic friends, Mrs. Ross felt, were great factors in influencing his emotional, romantic music.

The speaker pointed out the color contrasts in his "B Flat Trio," and recorded portions of the work were played, with Arthur Rubinstein, Jascha Heifetz and Emanuel Feuermann as the artists.

In commenting on the "Unfinished" or "B Minor Symphony," of which the Boston Symphony recording was played, Mrs. Ross felt that perhaps the composer's mood was exhausted, and he could reach no further heights. The manuscript of this symphony, it was revealed, lay for 40 years at Gratz, Austria, before it was played for the first time in 1865.

Parental Opposition

Mrs. Craft called attention to Schumann's struggle to find his life work in the face of parental opposition.

Once he had decided upon composing, she said, his entire style was colored by his devotion to his wife, Clara, who was a brilliant pianist herself.

A recording of his "E Flat Quintet," played by the Adolf Busch Quartet, and Rudolph Serkin, served to illustrate for the group his harmonic originality.

Valentine Theme

At the tea which followed, Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce and Mrs. Reppert were the hostesses. The tea table appointments followed a Valentine color scheme. Mrs. Ward Brigham poured.

The next meeting of the Music Appreciation Group will be held March 1, at the home of Mrs. Conrad Heiselman, 173 West Chestnut street.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor of that parish, officiated.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. George Bishop of 315 Broadway and Joseph Sember of 148 Murray street.

A reception for the immediate families and close friends followed at the bride's home.

MARIANNE DAVIS

Back in her native Kingston after a year and a half spent as a civilian actress technician in Europe whipping soldier shows into shape for the special services, Miss Marianne Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Davis of 53 Crown street, described her life abroad Tuesday evening for members of the Benedictine Auxiliary. The meeting was held at the Nurses Home, with Mrs. Allen A. Baker presiding, while Miss Davis was introduced by Mrs. J. Haviland Barley.

The blonde Kingston High School graduate, who also holds a degree from Albany State Teachers College, little less than two years ago returned here after a 12-month tour of Japan as a theatre technician, who, she explains, "are beter known as 'cats.'" She also toured Europe in 1946 with the U.S.O. production of "George Washington Slept Here," in which she played the part of the daughter.

Not All Glory

"Contrary to the glorified version of this work in 'Call Me Mister'," Miss Davis told her audience," we actually work in teams of two, recruiting talented soldiers, teen-agers, and wives of servicemen to appear in musical comedies and dramatic sketches. Many of these original productions toured not only posts in Germany, but posts and Air Force bases throughout England, Trieste and Tripoli with the cooperation of the Air Force,"

Traveling with your work, as Miss Davis will tell you, has definite advantages. "We took every opportunity to visit other countries in Europe to observe their customs, differences, or similarities."

Impressed by Austria

The "CATs" were particularly impressed by that land of opera and waltzes, Austria. Italy was also high on their list. "Austria impresed us all," Miss Davis recalls, "with the friendliness, simple yet quaint charm of the people, and recreation facilities." Meanwhile, "the warm climate and superior craftsmanship of the silversmiths and leatherworkers in Italy competed with the churches, the opera, and the ancient ruins to capture the attention of the tourist. This past year," she adds, "all roads really led to Rome, because it was Holy Year."

On a trip last Easter Miss Davis and her friends were able to see an even more southerly land, Egypt, where they compared the ancient with the modern, and were "duly impressed both by the pyramids and the modern apartment buildings." It would be hard, she feels, to find a more apt study in contrasts.

Germany Has Much

"Of course, Germany itself has much to offer a visitor," the seasoned traveler continued. "This past year interest centered on the Passion Play, so beautifully produced in picturesque Oberammergau, drawing record crowds to appreciate the skill of the villagers."

In conclusion Miss Davis evaluated her many and manifold experiences abroad; experiences which ranged from sampling a nation's artistic and culinary specialties, to meeting its various peoples in the equally various professions and positions.

"I came to understand better the different ways of life," she explained, "conditioned by the climate and terrain of each country. No matter how often any of us revisited a favorite place, we always felt there was much to be gained in enjoyment and better understanding by more return visits."

Spring Dance Plans

At the same meeting plans were discused for the Benedictine Auxiliary's spring dance, which is scheduled for March 31 this year at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Hostesses were Mrs. Arthur Nash, and Mrs. Guy Valeo. Mrs. Burton Davis, Miss Davis' mother, poured.

New Honor System

Barbara Chmura, chairman of the honor roll committee and advisor Miss Quimby, met with the faculty recently to revise the present honor roll system.

At the meeting it was pointed out that many students were kept off the honor roll because of a single subject which proved more difficult than others. No student is eligible for an honor roll who has any mark below 80 per cent.

Maroon Masquers

Although Maroon Masquers held only three meetings during the entire first term, tryouts were held and 17 new members were selected.

The new members include Betty Ahl, Nancy Bryant, Nancy Bradden, Joan Barnovitz, Helen DeBruxn, Maureen Dugan, Joe Erena, Phyllis Everett and Myra Hopper. The others are Gail Kias, Faith Kingsburg, Marcia Levine, Florette Reon, Sally Rose, Nan Shurter, Barbara Warnecke and Marsha Woolf.

At the first meeting this term Barbara Forry was elected vice-president and Carl Constent, treasurer.

The annual trip to New York is planned for Saturday, April 14.

Scholarships

Cornell, veterans and scholarship exams will be held Thursday and Friday March 7 and 8.

The first 10 university scholarships are $350 and may be used to pay tuition or other expenses at any registered four-year college sponsored by the State of New York. These 10 scholarships are awarded to residents of Ulster county and no scholarship may be used in a school or college outside of the state.

Two Cornell scholarships will be awarded to students of Ulster county, each worth $200 a year for four years at Cornell University. Scholarships for diseased or disabled vets are $450 a year for four years. This may be applied toward tuition or other expenses at any registered four years in college or technical school registered by the State of New York.

Red Cross Activities

A cake sale was held at the Montgomery Ward store today for the benefit of the Junior Red Cross. This semester, the J.R.C. is planning to complete several activities. The boys group is planning to make a craft wagon for the West Point Military Hospital. The girls are going to make stuffed toys for the hospitalized children of the city. A committee has been chosen to buy the patterns for this project.

Red Cross members and all those interested are being offered an opportunity to take a course in first aid. Mary Cay Fennelly and Helen Hogan are in charge of obtaining instructors for this course. Afternoon and evening courses are being offered. Bill Steuding and R. Matthews are in charge of the boys' course and Millie Hoppe is in charge of the girls' course.

Cage Captains Elected

Already 195 girls have been organized into 22 teams with the frosh and sophs each claiming eight, the juniors and seniors three each.

Scholars in Service

Many former K.H.S. students are now serving Uncle Sam in the many branches of service.

Those in the air force include Norman Mitchell, Roy Laeffren, Harold Acker, Bob Beaumont, Fred Linnartz and Mike Provenzano who are stationed at Lackland Field, Tex. Also in the air force are Harvey Keyes, stationed at Mitchel Field; Rodney Whittaker at Wichita Falls; and Jerry Hughes, at Fort Benning.

The navy has at its service Donald Roosa who is attending school in Washington, D. C.; Art Peters, who is working on an aircraft carrier near Cuba; Frank Ana, stationed at Norfolk, Va., Rudy Byersdofer, at Rhode Island and Phil Schoonmaker, aboard the U.S.S. Mason stationed in Yokahoma, Japan.

Two sisters from Cyprus, Kika, 14, and Mary Charle, 15, who have recently enrolled at Kingston High School, explained some of the Cyprus customs and were surprised at the antics of the average American girl.

In Cyprus, there is no trace of that favorite American institution, baby sitting, they said. Instead they amuse themselves by knitting and sewing. Both girls like gymnastics but there is not as much emphasis put on physical education in their country. They agree that they like America and the American food but not the way we prepare it.

Photography Contest

A National Scholastic Press Association contest is being held for all students who are interested in photography. This contest is opened to any high school student. Competition closes on March 1.

The four classifications of pictures are babies and children, young people and adults, scenes and still life and animal life.

To enter this contest, students must write their name, city, street address, state, school grade, ninth through 12th, classification of the entry and picture title (this is optional) on the back of each snapshot. Entries are to be mailed to Empire State School Press Association, Bureau of Public Information, Administration Building, Syracuse 10.

Photographic experts have been picked by State Association and will select three pictures from each class for the final national judging. Merit certificates will be awarded by the State Press Association to the first 12 state winners.

Hall Display

Early methods of transportation form one of the more interesting current corridor displays. The displays include the chuck wagon, wood burning locomotive and stage coaches.

Transportation in the 20th Century is represented by the Wright Brothers second plane, a locomotive which was shipped around Cape Horn, Jimmy Doolittle's Racer, "Gee Bee," and a 1911 Maxwell.

All these articles were assembled by James Flanigan who also made many of them.

Clubs Organize

New club organizations for the second term are well underway. Clubs are being carried on three days a week, leaving the other two periods "X" for assemblies and home room guidance.

Latin and Chess Clubs are being continued and time has also been provided for the Chorus Club. The Stamp Club also is now being reorganized.

Mr. Limbacher, in charge of the new program has stated "the goal of our activity program is to provide an opportunity for participation by the entire student body in school sponsored activities. An attempt will be made to include any worthy club which the students wish to form."

Rules given for starting a new club are: Secure a list of 25 potential members; enlist a faculty advisor; write out the scope and plans of the club; submit all material to Mr. Limbacher before or after school.

Music Group Shown Striking Contrast Between Composers

The program of the Music Appreciation Group of the Y.W.C.A., prepared by Mrs. George Ross and Mrs. Raymond Craft, and presented Thursday at the home of Mrs. Harry Reppert, 169 North Manor avenue, afforded a striking contrast between the works of Schubert and Schumann.

Schubert's favorable background and sympathetic friends, Mrs. Ross felt, were great factors in influencing his emotional, romantic music.

The speaker pointed out the color contrasts in his "B Flat Trio," and recorded portions of the work were played, with Arthur Rubinstein, Jascha Heifetz and Emanuel Feuermann as the artists.

In commenting on the "Unfinished" or "B Minor Symphony," of which the Boston Symphony recording was played, Mrs. Ross felt that perhaps the composer's mood was exhausted, and he could reach no further heights. The manuscript of this symphony, it was revealed, lay for 40 years at Gratz, Austria, before it was played for the first time in 1865.

Parental Opposition

Mrs. Craft called attention to Schumann's struggle to find his life work in the face of parental opposition.

Once he had decided upon composing, she said, his entire style was colored by his devotion to his wife, Clara, who was a brilliant pianist herself.

A recording of his "E Flat Quintet," played by the Adolf Busch Quartet, and Rudolph Serkin, served to illustrate for the group his harmonic originality.

Valentine Theme

At the tea which followed, Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce and Mrs. Reppert were the hostesses. The tea table appointments followed a Valentine color scheme. Mrs. Ward Brigham poured.

The next meeting of the Music Appreciation Group will be held March 1, at the home of Mrs. Conrad Heiselman, 173 West Chestnut street.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor of that parish, officiated.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. George Bishop of 315 Broadway and Joseph Sember of 148 Murray street.

A reception for the immediate families and close friends followed at the bride's home.

Mrs. Doolin is employed by the Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen, and Mr. Doolin is associated with the New York Central Railroad.

MARIANNE DAVIS

Back in her native Kingston after a year and a half spent as a civilian actress technician in Europe whipping soldier shows into shape for the special services, Miss Marianne Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Davis of 53 Crown street, described her life abroad Tuesday evening for members of the Benedictine Auxiliary. The meeting was held at the Nurses Home, with Mrs. Allen A. Baker presiding, while Miss Davis was introduced by Mrs. J. Haviland Barley.

The blonde Kingston High School graduate, who also holds a degree from Albany State Teachers College, little less than two years ago returned here after a 12-month tour of Japan as a theatre technician, who, she explains, "are beter known as 'cats.'" She also toured Europe in 1946 with the U.S.O. production of "George Washington Slept Here," in which she played the part of the daughter.

Not All Glory

"Contrary to the glorified version of this work in 'Call Me Mister'," Miss Davis told her audience," we actually work in teams of two, recruiting talented soldiers, teen-agers, and wives of servicemen to appear in musical comedies and dramatic sketches. Many of these original productions toured not only posts in Germany, but posts and Air Force bases throughout England, Trieste and Tripoli with the cooperation of the Air Force,"

Traveling with your work, as Miss Davis will tell you, has definite advantages. "We took every opportunity to visit other countries in Europe to observe their customs, differences, or similarities."

Impressed by Austria

The "CATs" were particularly impressed by that land of opera and waltzes, Austria. Italy was also high on their list. "Austria impressed us all," Miss Davis recalls, "with the friendliness, simple yet quaint charm of the people, and recreation facilities." Meanwhile, "the warm climate and superior craftsmanship of the silversmiths and leatherworkers in Italy competed with the churches, the opera, and the ancient ruins to capture the attention of the tourist. This past year," she adds, "all roads really led to Rome, because it was Holy Year."

On a trip last Easter Miss Davis and her friends were able to see an even more southerly land, Egypt, where they compared the ancient with the modern, and were "duly impressed both by the pyramids and the modern apartment buildings." It would be hard, she feels, to find a more apt study in contrasts.

Germany Has Much

"Of course, Germany itself has much to offer a visitor," the seasoned traveler continued. "This past year interest centered on the Passion Play, so beautifully produced in picturesque Oberammergau, drawing record crowds to appreciate the skill of the villagers."

In conclusion Miss Davis evaluated her many and manifold experiences abroad; experiences which ranged from sampling a nation's artistic and culinary specialties, to meeting its various peoples in the equally various professions and positions.

"I came to understand better the different ways of life," she explained, "conditioned by the climate and terrain of each country. No matter how often any of us revisited a favorite place, we always felt there was much to be gained in enjoyment and better understanding by more return visits."

Spring Dance Plans

At the same meeting plans were discused for the Benedictine Auxiliary's spring dance, which is scheduled for March 31 this year at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Hostesses were Mrs. Arthur Nash, and Mrs. Guy Valeo. Mrs. Burton Davis, Miss Davis' mother, poured.

Good Taste Today

YOUNG MAN'S COMPLAINT

This letter if from a young man: "Let's say a man calls for his date, having asked her to a movie, and right in front of everyone she says to him, "You don't mind if Mary and Sue drive along with us, do you?" Of course he does mind but what can he say? It's like having three dates at one time, moneywise. Though he is willing to be a convenience to the friends (or sisters of whoever the extras happen to be) should he be expected to pay their way? If not, will you please explain to the girls how this problem of payment should be managed by them?

The proper thing for the two girls who are passengers to do would be to get out at the theatre and get their own tickets and go in to see the movie. The girl he invited would, under these circumstances, best go with him while he parks the car and then go with him to the theatre where he buys two tickets. To expect him—or even let him—buy four tickets is unfair.

Don't Give Money This Way!

Dear Mrs. Post: Friends of mine went to stay with relatives over the holidays and as there were quite a few of them my friend left a five dollar bill in the bed room, intending it for the maid. Evidently the maid gave it to the hostess who returned it to my friend in no uncertain terms. My friend feels terribly about this and wondered if there was any way to smooth the relative's ruffled feelings.

Answer: I'm sorry, but I do not understand why the hostess was angered! The fault was in not having given the money to the maid personally or, at least, having left it in an envelope addressed to her so that she would have known it was intended for herself.

Salad Eating Custom

Dear Mrs. Post: When salad is served along with the meal, instead of at any particular time during the meal, where is the salad fork supposed to be put in the place setting?

Answer: The proper place for the salad fork is always nearest to the plate.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but if you are planning a hostess-alone dinner party, you will find details from table setting to serving in booklet No. 503. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Barbara Chmura, chairman of the honor roll committee and advisor Miss Quimby, met with the faculty recently to revise the present honor roll system.

At the meeting it was pointed out that many students were kept off the honor roll because of a single subject which proved more difficult than others. No student is eligible for an honor roll who has any mark below 80 per cent.

Scholarships

Cornell, veterans and scholarship exams will be held Thursday and Friday March 7 and 8.

The first 10 university scholarships are $350 and may be used to pay tuition or other expenses at any registered four-year college sponsored by the State of New York. These 10 scholarships are awarded to residents of Ulster county and no scholarship may be used in a school or college outside of the state.

Two Cornell scholarships will be awarded to students of Ulster county, each worth $200 a year for four years at Cornell University. Scholarships for diseased or disabled vets are $450 a year for four years. This may be applied toward tuition or other expenses at any registered four years in college or technical school registered by the State of New York.

Red Cross Activities

A cake sale was held at the Montgomery Ward store today for the benefit of the Junior Red Cross. This semester, the J.R.C. is planning to complete several activities. The boys group is planning to make a craft wagon for the West Point Military Hospital. The girls are going to make stuffed toys for the hospitalized children of the city. A committee has been chosen to buy the patterns for this project.

Red Cross members and all those interested are being offered an opportunity to take a course in first aid. Mary Cay Fennelly and Helen Hogan are in charge of obtaining instructors for this course. Afternoon and evening courses are being offered. Bill Steuding and R. Matthews are in charge of the boys' course and Millie Hoppe is in charge of the girls' course.

Cage Captains Elected

Already 195 girls have been organized into 22 teams with the frosh and sophs each claiming eight, the juniors and seniors three each.

Scholars in Service

Many former K.H.S. students are now serving Uncle Sam in the many branches of service.

Those in the air force include Norman Mitchell, Roy Laeffren, Harold Acker, Bob Beaumont, Fred Linnartz and Mike Provenzano who are stationed at Lackland Field, Tex. Also in the air force are Harvey Keyes, stationed at Mitchel Field; Rodney Whittaker at Wichita Falls; and Jerry Hughes, at Fort Benning.

The navy has at its service Donald Roosa who is attending school in Washington, D. C.; Art Peters, who is working on an aircraft carrier near Cuba; Frank Ana, stationed at Norfolk, Va., Rudy Byersdofer, at Rhode Island and Phil Schoonmaker, aboard the U.S.S. Mason stationed in Yokahoma, Japan.

Two sisters from Cyprus, Kika, 14, and Mary Charle, 15, who have recently enrolled at Kingston High School, explained some of the Cyprus customs and were surprised at the antics of the average American girl.

In Cyprus, there is no trace of that favorite American institution, baby sitting, they said. Instead they amuse themselves by knitting and sewing. Both girls like gymnastics but there is not as much emphasis put on physical education in their country. They agree that they like America and the American food but not the way we prepare it.

Photography Contest

A National Scholastic Press Association contest is being held for all students who are interested in photography. This contest is opened to any high school student. Competition closes on March 1.

The four classifications of pictures are babies and children, young people and adults, scenes and still life and animal life.

To enter this contest, students must write their name, city, street address, state, school grade, ninth through 12th, classification of the entry and picture title (this is optional) on the back of each snapshot. Entries are to be mailed to Empire State School Press Association, Bureau of Public Information, Administration Building, Syracuse 10.

Photographic experts have been picked by State Association and will select three pictures from each class for the final national judging. Merit certificates will be awarded by the State Press Association to the first 12 state winners.

Hall Display

Early methods of transportation form one of the more interesting current corridor displays. The displays include the chuck wagon, wood burning locomotive and stage coaches.

Transportation in the 20th Century is represented by the Wright Brothers second plane, a locomotive which was shipped around Cape Horn, Jimmy Doolittle's Racer, "Gee Bee," and a 1911 Maxwell.

All these articles were assembled by James Flanigan who also made many of them.

Clubs Organize

New club organizations for the second term are well underway. Clubs are being carried on three days a week, leaving the other two periods "X" for assemblies and home room guidance.

Latin and Chess Clubs are being continued and time has also been provided for the Chorus Club. The Stamp Club also is now being reorganized.

Mr. Limbacher, in charge of the new program has stated "the goal of our activity program is to provide an opportunity for participation by the entire student body in school sponsored activities. An attempt will be made to include any worthy club which the students wish to form."

Rules given for starting a new club are: Secure a list of 25 potential members; enlist a faculty advisor; write out the scope and plans of the club; submit all material to Mr. Limbacher before or after school.

Skiers to Attend Meet

Members of the Ski Club have accepted an invitation to attend a winter sports meet at Lake Placid High School.

The meet will consist of ski races with high schools throughout the northeastern part of the state attending. Those who will attend from Kingston are Nancy Bogert, Bill Davenport, Martha Davenport and Will Rogers. Miss Romona Huard will act as chaperone.

The opening ceremony previewing the meet is a parade of all skiers from the various high schools and their school colors. Kingston will parade in second place.

Miss Williams Feted at Party

A surprise birthday party was held in honor of Miss Betty Williams' 18th birthday at her home. Miss Williams received many gifts and guests reported an enjoyable evening.

Present at the party were Josie and Alice Hannweber, Grace Stewart, Florence Hannweber, Florence Shoemaker, Virginia Ritton, Elinor Howard, Eleanor Murphy, Joan Resso, Betty and Sylvia Williams, Donald and Bill Williams, Bill Bryant, Ray Winne, William Hannweber Sr., Bill Hannweber, and Bobby Hannweber.

That's No Joke

Families need lots of things,
Clothes, insurance, teething rings,
Furniture and food and homes,
Heating fuels and books and combs,
Doctors, dentists, razors, clocks,
Medicines and cooking crocks.

After the necessities,
Families buy luxuries.
But they always have to weigh
Their ability to pay.

Nations, too, need lots of things.
Pay for presidents (or kings),
Congressmen (or comissars),
Battleships and loyal tars,
Soldiers, flyers for defense,
Nations' needs are quite immense.

Nations too must pay their debt,
With such money as they get,
They can't work for it, of course,
So taxation is their source.

Nations, like a family,
Can't afford a spending spree,
Can't go throwing gifts around,
Acting like their dough was found
Growing on a money tree,
Not earned by guys like you and me.

When a government goes broke
So do we—and that's no joke.

Jayvee Cagers Rout Port Jervis, 56-29

Sickler, Dempsey Leading Scorers

Led by Hermie Sickler, the K.H.S. Jayvees set the pattern for last night's activities at the municipal auditorium by routing the Port Jervis High yearlings, 56 to 29.

Kingston used 15 players without breaking its scoring stride and the issue was never in doubt after the first few minutes of play.

Sickler tossed in 13 points and Don Dempsey had eight as the Maroons ran up a 14-6 first quarter lead and turned the game into a rout with a 21-7 bulge in the second period for a halftime margin of 35-13.

Rieff led Port Jervis with 13 points, five from the foul line. The tri-state city cagers cashed in on 13 of 19 foul attempts.

Says Battle Is Revived

Sloatsburg, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The Rev. A. W. Conklin said yesterday an Appellate Court decision has revived the 10-year-old legal battle over the demolition of the one-time "Church in the Mountains." The Rev. Conklin was pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Johnstown, N. Y. The Palisades Interstate Park Commission tore the old church down five years ago to make way for a new lake in Bear Mountain Park. The commission said it bought the church property for $1,700 from the Newark, N. J., Conference of the Methodist Church.

All but one will receive it for military service during the World War 2 liberation of the islands. Lt. Col. C. Frank Snyder, commander of the U. S. Military Port of Manila, was cited for his post-war service. Colonel Snyder's home is in Rockville Centre, Long Island, N. Y.

Bout Ends Under Strange Circumstances

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—What happened to Paddy Young?

Usually punches bounce off Paddy like rain off a tin roof. Last night the once durable punch absorber was floored five times and stopped by young Eugene Hairston in 2:57 of the second round of their Madison Square Garden bout. Hairston weighed 159¼ and Young, 158¾.

"The punch to the kidney in the first was terrific," said Paddy. "It knocked the breath out of me. I never got my breath back."

"Hard," said Hairston, once a deaf mute who slowly is learning to mouth words. He swept his left in a menacing hook to show how he threw the punch. His manager, Mike Miele, said he learned it from the late Marcel Cerdan.

Crowd Boos

"Boo Boo," roared the small crowd of 6,154 that paid $20,732 to see the brief bout. There were enough boos to account for a sell-out. The customers couldn't believe their eyes seeing Young doing the elevator act—up and down five times in less than six minutes.

Paddy went down twice in the first and three times in the second. After the third knockdown in the same round, Referee Ruby Goldstein automatically stopped the bout. That is the New York rule for non-title fights.

Goldstein looked sharply at Young after he went down for the second time in the second.

"Are you hurt or trying to quit?" he said.

"I'm fighting," Paddy replied.

"If you quit on me," warned Goldstein. "I'll have you suspended for life."

Young mumbled something like "what in hell do you think I'm doing down here?"

Ruby let it go on until another knockdown brought the automatic ending.

Eagan Satisfied

Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the New York State Athletic Commission, questioned Young about the knockdowns after the bout. He also talked to Hairston through his manager, Mike Miele. After consulting the referee, both judges, two commission doctors and many boxing men, Dowd said he was convinced the punch that started Young in the first was a "left hand below the ribs."

Asked if he plans further investigation, Dowd said, "I see no reason. Do you? As far as I'm concerned the fight was stopped by the three knockdown rule."

Eddie Eagan, commission chairman, said he saw nothing wrong with the bout. He was a ringside spectator.

"I have no information this was anything but an honest bout," said Eagan. "If there is any information that it was not, the commission certainly will look into it.

Miller High Scorer With 21 Points

New Paltz State Teachers downed Oneonto State, 60-55, last night in New Paltz for their fourth victory of the season. The victory avenged a one-sided defeat in Oneonta last week-end.

Grabbing the lead in the early minutes, Coach Loren Campbell's cagers led 38-26 at halftime. Oneonta rallied to tie the score at 40-40 but shots by Don Miller and Jack Mahar put New Paltz ahead to stay.

Miller, who recently returned to the squad, paced the winners with 21 points, while Bud Conklin and Manny Yris scored 11 apiece.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

A few days ago we asked for some information about Ken Murray, the Saturday night TV star, and we are gratified by the overwhelming response.

It all adds up to the fact that Ken Murray is a former Kingston boy and his repeated references to Kingston are legitimate and not the whimsy of Seamon Jacobs, his script writer. Mr. Jacobs is a Colonial City product, too.

Lou Smith, the Twalfskill golfer, furnished us with the best line on Murray. In a recent letter, Smith wrote:

"Just by chance I happened to read your column last night and find that you are looking for some information on Ken Murray. Here is some dope for you . . . no charge.

"Ken Murray who was Ken Doncourt in the good old days, went to high school with me. He lived with his grandmother in Rosendale. Don't recall him playing basketball but do remember that every other Sunday we visited each other's home in the summer time. His grandmother was noted for her grand chicken pot pie. Perhaps some of the middle-aged people in Rosendale will remember her."

Seamon Jacobs' mother, who resides in Kingston confirmed the validity of Murray's remarks about the city with the information that Seamon had many times reminded her about Murray's early boyhood in these parts. On the other hand, many like Bob Donnaruma believed that the references to Kingston were the products of Seamon's fine Italian hand.

Knute Beichert, our photo engraver and New York Giant stalwart, recalled that he had seen Murray in a vaudeville show in New York early in the war. Murray was going through his routine when he digressed to wisecrack about all the farmers from upstate in his audience and then shouted: "What am I talking about all these farmers for . . . I come from Ulster county myself!"

Now that Mr. Murray's early affiliation with Kingston and Ulster county has been duly certified, we can all sit back and enjoy Saturday night TV the more.

● Can the Old Fox Be Wrong?

Earle Terwilliger, who organized and managed the Spinny basketball squad for seven years, questions the longevity of Chet Fox's memory with respect to the Spinnys-Chandler basketball series of more than two decades ago. The following excerpts from a letter present Terwilliger's side of the question.

"In the past week I have read news items about the old Spinny's team and their games with the old "Y" Chandlers. To keep the record straight, Chet Fox is talking through his hat.

"I organized and ran the Spinnys for seven years of their existence and should know what I am talking about. It was impossible for Chandlers to have won nine out of 11 games from us for the following reason:

"I tried from time to time to book the Chandlers to play at the old Pythian Hall in Port Ewen, without success. They would never play us anywhere except on their home court at the Y. During 1928-29-30, we would play one or two game a season on their home court with the result in favor of the Chandlers.

"In 1931, due to popular demand, "Pop" Hinds, the Y physical director, and I arranged a five (5) game series to be played on the Y court to settle, once and for all, the question of superiority between the teams. Spinnys won three out of five. How can Fox claim they beat us nine out of 11?"

Terwilliger recalls that the Spinny lineup featured Bing Van Etten and Dan Joyce forwards; Wes Hyatt, center; Al Short and Earle Terwilliger, guards. Frank Short was also a member of the squad. The Chandlers had Norm Niles and Jimmy Merritt, forwards; Hank Krum, center; Joe Hoffman, Joe Blass and Joe Dulin, guards.

"With all due respects to the Chandlers," Terwilliger concludes, "the old timers will back me up that over a period of seven years the Spinnys were the outstanding team in the area." Any arguments?

Ohio State Head Warns Football Will Collapse

Columbus, O., Feb. 17 (AP)—Is big time college football getting too big for its own good?

Athletic director Richard C. Larkins of football-minded Ohio State University is the latest college official to say so. He thus adds his voice to similar opinions expressed in January at the Pacific Coast Conference meeting in Riverside, Calif.

The Rose Bowl pact between the Big Ten and the Coast conference is up for renewal this year, and there has been considerable speculation that the agreement won't be renewed.

Larkins, who bosses athletics at a school which last year drew $1,112,000 at the turnstiles for five home grid games, had this to say yesterday:

"Football is being ruined. It's getting completely out of hand. It's a Frankenstein, a monster. Football is killing itself."

The blast followed closely passage by the Ohio House of Representative of a resolution asking that all Ohio State grid games be televised. The NCAA has banned televising of college football. Some officials believe television reduces football gate receipts.

"But maybe television is the answer," said Larkins. "Maybe it will kill off football as we have it today and we can start all over and build it up again without all this overemphasis. This might be the best thing that could happen to college athletics."

"Even disregarding television," Larkins went on, "college athletics are ill, really sick. And the big canker is football."

Larkins has other worries, too. The Buckeye school, known far and wide as the "graveyard of coaches," is nearing selection of its sixth head grid coach in the past 11 years.

The university's trustees are to meet tomorrow afternoon to approve the choice of a special coach screening committee and the athletic board. The groups have not announced their choice, but he is reported to be Wayne (Woody) Hayes, now head coach at Miami (O.) University.

San Francisco—Fred Dawson, 139¼, Chicago, defeated Jesse Flores, 138¾, Stockton, Calif., 10.

Kingston High trampled Port Jervis, 61 to 37, last night on the municipal auditorium boards, while Newburgh Free Academy moved a step closer to its second straight DUSO League pennant with a 49-45 conquest of Poughkeepsie High at the N.F.A. gym.

The problem of checking Coach George S. "Lanky" Masterson's basketeers is squarely in the hands of Coach G. Warren Kias and his Maroons. The opportunity will be offered them on Wednesday, Feb. 21 in Newburgh.

While Kingston toyed with the hapless tri-state city quintet, who were dropping their 12th game of the season, Newburgh landed a haymaker on Sam Kalloch's hot and cold Blues in the third period.

Gloede Stymied

The Goldbacks did a masterful defensive job on Tom Gloede, the Blues' scoring threat, restricting him to six points. Meanwhile, Big Ed Gabron, who couldn't do a thing against Eddie O'Connor of St. Patrick's Academy, poured in 23 points for the winners.

Poughkeepsie led 3-0 in the first couple of minutes, then failed to score for the remainder of the first period as Newburgh moved ahead 12-3. The Goldbacks clung to a 25-23 edge at halftime and broke the game apart in the third period with a 17-6 margin.

Don Nerz scored 12 points for N.F.A. Roger Lewis, the Negro center, was the Poughkeepsie leader with 15 points and Jimmy Ripo, hero of the first Blue win over Newburgh, hit for 11.

Carpouzis Has 20

George Carpouzis accounted for 16 points in the first half against Port Jervis and appeared on his way to a tremendous total. Lineup changes, however, slowed down the Maroon drive in the third period and he managed to pick up four more points in the second half to finish with 20.

The contest was the wildest played here this season with the cagers fast-breaking at terrific speed, throwing passes all over the place. Pass interceptions were frequent and the general pattern of the game was such that even veteran arbiter Buck Gros of Millbrook admitted that "this one is a dilly."

Through all the confusion and numerous lineup changes that Coach G. Warren Kias made there was never any question of Kingston's superiority. The Maroons took a 13-7 lead in the first period and extended their margin to 33-16 at halftime. The tempo slowed down in the third quarter but business picked up with 22 points in the stretch.

Leroy Hooker uncorked a couple more dazzling layups and wound up with 13 points for Kingston. Charlie Tiano had nine, eight coming in the final two minutes of play. R. Habig was the Port leader with 10.

Ellenville Wins

Ellenville High clung to its second place tie with Kingston by crushing Beacon 79-52, the 12th straight setback for the Dutchess cagers.

Klein Third Round Rio Golf Leader

Harlingen, Tex., Feb. 17 (AP)—Charles (Chuck) Klein, a solidly-built easy-going professional from San Antonio who says he always has disappointed his backers, led the way today as the $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open golf tournament rolled into its third round.

"They've been predicting that I'd win something for a long time," said the talkative 33-year-old shotmaker, "and I always seem to fail them in the stretch."

But this time Chuck holds a two-stroke lead over the field and the way he's shooting he shouldn't disappoint anybody. Yesterday, the stocky Klein laid down a four-under-par 67 to move from a tie for second into first place with a 36-hole total of 133.

Argentine Leads

Mexico City, Feb. 17 (AP)—Roberto De Vicenzo, five times National Open champion of Argentina, is back in the Mexican National Open golf championship today, thanks to a record-breaking 65 yesterday. The Argentine pro's card set a new record for tournament play on the 6,364 yard Chapultepec course. The previous record was the 66, six under par, set by Tony Holguin in winning the 1949 Open. De Vicenzo's 65, with the 70 he shot the opening day, put him four strokes ahead of Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif. Demaret, with a 68 and 71, was in second place.

Jayvee Cagers Rout Port Jervis, 56-29

Sickler, Dempsey Leading Scorers

Led by Hermie Sickler, the K.H.S. Jayvees set the pattern for last night's activities at the municipal auditorium by routing the Port Jervis High yearlings, 56 to 29.

Kingston used 15 players without breaking its scoring stride and the issue was never in doubt after the first few minutes of play.

Sickler tossed in 13 points and Don Dempsey had eight as the Maroons ran up a 14-6 first quarter lead and turned the game into a rout with a 21-7 bulge in the second period for a halftime margin of 35-13.

Rieff led Port Jervis with 13 points, five from the foul line. The tri-state city cagers cashed in on 13 of 19 foul attempts.

Says Battle Is Revived

Sloatsburg, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The Rev. A. W. Conklin said yesterday an Appellate Court decision has revived the 10-year-old legal battle over the demolition of the one-time "Church in the Mountains." The Rev. Conklin was pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Johnstown, N. Y. The Palisades Interstate Park Commission tore the old church down five years ago to make way for a new lake in Bear Mountain Park. The commission said it bought the church property for $1,700 from the Newark, N. J., Conference of the Methodist Church.

Bout Ends Under Strange Circumstances

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—What happened to Paddy Young?

Usually punches bounce off Paddy like rain off a tin roof. Last night the once durable punch absorber was floored five times and stopped by young Eugene Hairston in 2:57 of the second round of their Madison Square Garden bout. Hairston weighed 159¼ and Young, 158¾.

"The punch to the kidney in the first was terrific," said Paddy. "It knocked the breath out of me. I never got my breath back."

"Hard," said Hairston, once a deaf mute who slowly is learning to mouth words. He swept his left in a menacing hook to show how he threw the punch. His manager, Mike Miele, said he learned it from the late Marcel Cerdan.

Crowd Boos

"Boo Boo," roared the small crowd of 6,154 that paid $20,732 to see the brief bout. There were enough boos to account for a sell-out. The customers couldn't believe their eyes seeing Young doing the elevator act—up and down five times in less than six minutes.

Paddy went down twice in the first and three times in the second. After the third knockdown in the same round, Referee Ruby Goldstein automatically stopped the bout. That is the New York rule for non-title fights.

Goldstein looked sharply at Young after he went down for the second time in the second.

"Are you hurt or trying to quit?" he said.

"I'm fighting," Paddy replied.

"If you quit on me," warned Goldstein. "I'll have you suspended for life."

Young mumbled something like "what in hell do you think I'm doing down here?"

Eagan Satisfied

Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the New York State Athletic Commission, questioned Young about the knockdowns after the bout. He also talked to Hairston through his manager, Mike Miele. After consulting the referee, both judges, two commission doctors and many boxing men, Dowd said he was convinced the punch that started Young in the first was a "left hand below the ribs."

Asked if he plans further investigation, Dowd said, "I see no reason. Do you? As far as I'm concerned the fight was stopped by the three knockdown rule."

Eddie Eagan, commission chairman, said he saw nothing wrong with the bout. He was a ringside spectator.

"I have no information this was anything but an honest bout," said Eagan. "If there is any information that it was not, the commission certainly will look into it."

Action will also be taken on the proposed creation of a soil conservation district in Ulster county.

Miller High Scorer With 21 Points

New Paltz State Teachers downed Oneonto State, 60-55, last night in New Paltz for their fourth victory of the season. The victory avenged a one-sided defeat in Oneonta last week-end.

Grabbing the lead in the early minutes, Coach Loren Campbell's cagers led 38-26 at halftime. Oneonta rallied to tie the score at 40-40 but shots by Don Miller and Jack Mahar put New Paltz ahead to stay.

Miller, who recently returned to the squad, paced the winners with 21 points, while Bud Conklin and Manny Yris scored 11 apiece.

Huntington and C. Jacobson had 18 and 15 respectively for the losers. New Paltz plays its next game on Feb. 23 at Plattsburg State.

A few days ago we asked for some information about Ken Murray, the Saturday night TV star, and we are gratified by the overwhelming response.

It all adds up to the fact that Ken Murray is a former Kingston boy and his repeated references to Kingston are legitimate and not the whimsy of Seamon Jacobs, his script writer. Mr. Jacobs is a Colonial City product, too.

Lou Smith, the Twalfskill golfer, furnished us with the best line on Murray. In a recent letter, Smith wrote:

"Just by chance I happened to read your column last night and find that you are looking for some information on Ken Murray. Here is some dope for you . . . no charge.

"Ken Murray who was Ken Doncourt in the good old days, went to high school with me. He lived with his grandmother in Rosendale. Don't recall him playing basketball but do remember that every other Sunday we visited each other's home in the summer time. His grandmother was noted for her grand chicken pot pie. Perhaps some of the middle-aged people in Rosendale will remember her."

Seamon Jacobs' mother, who resides in Kingston confirmed the validity of Murray's remarks about the city with the information that Seamon had many times reminded her about Murray's early boyhood in these parts. On the other hand, many like Bob Donnaruma believed that the references to Kingston were the products of Seamon's fine Italian hand.

Knute Beichert, our photo engraver and New York Giant stalwart, recalled that he had seen Murray in a vaudeville show in New York early in the war. Murray was going through his routine when he digressed to wisecrack about all the farmers from upstate in his audience and then shouted: "What am I talking about all these farmers for . . . I come from Ulster county myself!"

Now that Mr. Murray's early affiliation with Kingston and Ulster county has been duly certified, we can all sit back and enjoy Saturday night TV the more.

• Can the Old Fox Be Wrong ?

Earle Terwilliger, who organized and managed the Spinny basketball squad for seven years, questions the longevity of Chet Fox's memory with respect to the Spinnys-Chandler basketball series of more than two decades ago. The following excerpts from a letter present Terwilliger's side of the question.

"In the past week I have read news items about the old Spinny's team and their games with the old "Y" Chandlers. To keep the record straight, Chet Fox is talking through his hat.

"I organized and ran the Spinnys for seven years of their existence and should know what I am talking about. It was impossible for Chandlers to have won nine out of 11 games from us for the following reason:

"I tried from time to time to book the Chandlers to play at the old Pythian Hall in Port Ewen, without success. They would never play us anywhere except on their home court at the Y. During 1928-29-30, we would play one or two game a season on their home court with the result in favor of the Chandlers.

"In 1931, due to popular demand, "Pop" Hinds, the Y physical director, and I arranged a five (5) game series to be played on the Y court to settle, once and for all, the question of superiority between the teams. Spinnys won three out of five. How can Fox claim they beat us nine out of 11?"

Terwilliger recalls that the Spinny lineup featured Bing Van Etten and Dan Joyce forwards; Wes Hyatt, center; Al Short and Earle Terwilliger, guards. Frank Short was also a member of the squad. The Chandlers had Norm Niles and Jimmy Merritt, forwards; Hank Krum, center; Joe Hoffman, Joe Blass and Joe Dulin, guards.

"With all due respects to the Chandlers," Terwilliger concludes, "the old timers will back me up that over a period of seven years the Spinnys were the outstanding team in the area." Any arguments?

Ohio State Head Warns Football Will Collapse

Columbus, O., Feb. 17 (AP)—Is big time college football getting too big for its own good?

Athletic director Richard C. Larkins of football-minded Ohio State University is the latest college official to say so. He thus adds his voice to similar opinions expressed in January at the Pacific Coast Conference meeting in Riverside, Calif.

The Rose Bowl pact between the Big Ten and the Coast conference is up for renewal this year, and there has been considerable speculation that the agreement won't be renewed.

Larkins, who bosses athletics at a school which last year drew $1,112,000 at the turnstiles for five home grid games, had this to say yesterday:

"Football is being ruined. It's getting completely out of hand. It's a Frankenstein, a monster. Football is killing itself."

The blast followed closely passage by the Ohio House of Representative of a resolution asking that all Ohio State grid games be televised. The NCAA has banned televising of college football. Some officials believe television reduces football gate receipts.

"But maybe television is the answer," said Larkins. "Maybe it will kill off football as we have it today and we can start all over and build it up again without all this overemphasis. This might be the best thing that could happen to college athletics."

"Even disregarding television," Larkins went on, "college athletics are ill, really sick. And the big canker is football."

Larkins has other worries, too. The Buckeye school, known far and wide as the "graveyard of coaches," is nearing selection of its sixth head grid coach in the past 11 years.

The university's trustees are to meet tomorrow afternoon to approve the choice of a special coach screening committee and the athletic board. The groups have not announced their choice, but he is reported to be Wayne (Woody) Hayes, now head coach at Miami (O.) University.

Kingston High trampled Port Jervis, 61 to 37, last night on the municipal auditorium boards, while Newburgh Free Academy moved a step closer to its second straight DUSO League pennant with a 49-45 conquest of Poughkeepsie High at the N.F.A. gym.

The problem of checking Coach George S. "Lanky" Masterson's basketeers is squarely in the hands of Coach G. Warren Kias and his Maroons. The opportunity will be offered them on Wednesday, Feb. 21 in Newburgh.

While Kingston toyed with the hapless tri-state city quintet, who were dropping their 12th game of the season, Newburgh landed a haymaker on Sam Kalloch's hot and cold Blues in the third period.

Gloede Stymied

The Goldbacks did a masterful defensive job on Tom Gloede, the Blues' scoring threat, restricting him to six points. Meanwhile, Big Ed Gabron, who couldn't do a thing against Eddie O'Connor of St. Patrick's Academy, poured in 23 points for the winners.

Poughkeepsie led 3-0 in the first couple of minutes, then failed to score for the remainder of the first period as Newburgh moved ahead 12-3. The Goldbacks clung to a 25-23 edge at halftime and broke the game apart in the third period with a 17-6 margin.

Don Nerz scored 12 points for N.F.A. Roger Lewis, the Negro center, was the Poughkeepsie leader with 15 points and Jimmy Ripo, hero of the first Blue win over Newburgh, hit for 11.

Carpouzis Has 20

George Carpouzis accounted for 16 points in the first half against Port Jervis and appeared on his way to a tremendous total. Lineup changes, however, slowed down the Maroon drive in the third period and he managed to pick up four more points in the second half to finish with 20.

The contest was the wildest played here this season with the cagers fast-breaking at terrific speed, throwing passes all over the place. Pass interceptions were frequent and the general pattern of the game was such that even veteran arbiter Buck Gros of Millbrook admitted that "this one is a dilly."

Through all the confusion and numerous lineup changes that Coach G. Warren Kias made there was never any question of Kingston's superiority. The Maroons took a 13-7 lead in the first period and extended their margin to 33-16 at halftime. The tempo slowed down in the third quarter but business picked up with 22 points in the stretch.

Leroy Hooker uncorked a couple more dazzling layups and wound up with 13 points for Kingston. Charlie Tiano had nine, eight coming in the final two minutes of play. R. Habig was the Port leader with 10.

Ellenville Wins

Klein Third Round Rio Golf Leader

Harlingen, Tex., Feb. 17 (AP)—Charles (Chuck) Klein, a solidly-built easy-going professional from San Antonio who says he always has disappointed his backers, led the way today as the $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open golf tournament rolled into its third round.

"They've been predicting that I'd win something for a long time," said the talkative 33-year-old shotmaker, "and I always seem to fail them in the stretch."

But this time Chuck holds a two-stroke lead over the field and the way he's shooting he shouldn't disappoint anybody. Yesterday, the stocky Klein laid down a four-under-par 67 to move from a tie for second into first place with a 36-hole total of 133.

Argentine Leads

Mexico City, Feb. 17 (AP)—Roberto De Vicenzo, five times National Open champion of Argentina, is back in the Mexican National Open golf championship today, thanks to a record-breaking 65 yesterday. The Argentine pro's card set a new record for tournament play on the 6,364 yard Chapultepec course. The previous record was the 66, six under par, set by Tony Holguin in winning the 1949 Open. De Vicenzo's 65, with the 70 he shot the opening day, put him four strokes ahead of Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif. Demaret, with a 68 and 71, was in second place.

Jayvee Cagers Rout Port Jervis, 56-29

Sickler, Dempsey Leading Scorers

Led by Hermie Sickler, the K.H.S. Jayvees set the pattern for last night's activities at the municipal auditorium by routing the Port Jervis High yearlings, 56 to 29.

Kingston used 15 players without breaking its scoring stride and the issue was never in doubt after the first few minutes of play.

Sickler tossed in 13 points and Don Dempsey had eight as the Maroons ran up a 14-6 first quarter lead and turned the game into a rout with a 21-7 bulge in the second period for a halftime margin of 35-13.

Rieff led Port Jervis with 13 points, five from the foul line. The tri-state city cagers cashed in on 13 of 19 foul attempts.

Tennis Openers

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Defending Champions Don McNeill and Nancy Chaffee, top-seeded in their divisions, were scheduled to play today as opening matches started in the National indoor tennis championships. McNeill, now playing out of Searingtown, N. Y., won the National grass title 11 years ago and while he no longer gives much more than week-ends to the net game, still packs enough punch to retain his indoor crown.

Says Battle Is Revived

Sloatsburg, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The Rev. A. W. Conklin said yesterday an Appellate Court decision has revived the 10-year-old legal battle over the demolition of the one-time "Church in the Mountains." The Rev. Conklin was pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Johnstown, N. Y. The Palisades Interstate Park Commission tore the old church down five years ago to make way for a new lake in Bear Mountain Park. The commission said it bought the church property for $1,700 from the Newark, N. J., Conference of the Methodist Church.

Honored for Service

Manila, Feb. 17 (AP)—Four American officers and 10 enlisted personnel will receive the Philippine Legion of Honor for "outstanding service" to the Philippines, President Elpidio Quirino's office announced today. All but one will receive it for military service during the World War 2 liberation of the islands. Lt. Col. C. Frank Snyder, commander of the U. S. Military Port of Manila, was cited for his post-war service. Colonel Snyder's home is in Rockville Centre, Long Island, N. Y.

Bout Ends Under Strange Circumstances

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—What happened to Paddy Young?

Usually punches bounce off Paddy like rain off a tin roof. Last night the once durable punch absorber was floored five times and stopped by young Eugene Hairston in 2:57 of the second round of their Madison Square Garden bout. Hairston weighed 159¼ and Young, 158¾.

"The punch to the kidney in the first was terrific," said Paddy. "It knocked the breath out of me. I never got my breath back."

"Hard," said Hairston, once a deaf mute who slowly is learning to mouth words. He swept his left in a menacing hook to show how he threw the punch. His manager, Mike Miele, said he learned it from the late Marcel Cerdan.

Crowd Boos

"Boo Boo," roared the small crowd of 6,154 that paid $20,732 to see the brief bout. There were enough boos to account for a sell-out. The customers couldn't believe their eyes seeing Young doing the elevator act—up and down five times in less than six minutes.

Paddy went down twice in the first and three times in the second. After the third knockdown in the same round, Referee Ruby Goldstein automatically stopped the bout. That is the New York rule for non-title fights.

Goldstein looked sharply at Young after he went down for the second time in the second.

"Are you hurt or trying to quit?" he said.

"I'm fighting," Paddy replied.

"If you quit on me," warned Goldstein, "I'll have you suspended for life."

Young mumbled something like "what in hell do you think I'm doing down here?"

Ruby let it go on until another knockdown brought the automatic ending.

Eagan Satisfied

Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the New York State Athletic Commission, questioned Young about the knockdowns after the bout. He also talked to Hairston through his manager, Mike Miele. After consulting the referee, both judges, two commission doctors and many boxing men, Dowd said he was convinced the punch that started Young in the first was a "left hand below the ribs."

Asked if he plans further investigation, Dowd said, "I see no reason. Do you? As far as I'm concerned the fight was stopped by the three knockdown rule."

Eddie Eagan, commission chairman, said he saw nothing wrong with the bout. He was a ringside spectator.

"I have no information this was anything but an honest bout," said Eagan. "If there is any information that it was not, the commission certainly will look into it.

Miller High Scorer With 21 Points

New Paltz State Teachers downed Oneonto State, 60-55, last night in New Paltz for their fourth victory of the season. The victory avenged a one-sided defeat in Oneonta last week-end.

Grabbing the lead in the early minutes, Coach Loren Campbell's cagers led 38-26 at halftime. Oneonta rallied to tie the score at 40-40 but shots by Don Miller and Jack Mahar put New Paltz ahead to stay.

Miller, who recently returned to the squad, paced the winners with 21 points, while Bud Conklin and Manny Yris scored 11 apiece.

Huntington and C. Jacobson had 18 and 15 respectively for the losers. New Paltz plays its next game on Feb. 23 at Plattsburg State.

A few days ago we asked for some information about Ken Murray, the Saturday night TV star, and we are gratified by the overwhelming response.

It all adds up to the fact that Ken Murray is a former Kingston boy and his repeated references to Kingston are legitimate and not the whimsy of Seamon Jacobs, his script writer. Mr. Jacobs is a Colonial City product, too.

Lou Smith, the Twalfskill golfer, furnished us with the best line on Murray. In a recent letter, Smith wrote:

"Just by chance I happened to read your column last night and find that you are looking for some information on Ken Murray. Here is some dope for you . . . no charge.

"Ken Murray who was Ken Doncourt in the good old days, went to high school with me. He lived with his grandmother in Rosendale. Don't recall him playing basketball but do remember that every other Sunday we visited each other's home in the summer time. His grandmother was noted for her grand chicken pot pie. Perhaps some of the middle-aged people in Rosendale will remember her."

Seamon Jacobs' mother, who resides in Kingston confirmed the validity of Murray's remarks about the city with the information that Seamon had many times reminded her about Murray's early boyhood in these parts. On the other hand, many like Bob Donnaruma believed that the references to Kingston were the products of Seamon's fine Italian hand.

Knute Beichert, our photo engraver and New York Giant stalwart, recalled that he had seen Murray in a vaudeville show in New York early in the war. Murray was going through his routine when he digressed to wisecrack about all the farmers from upstate in his audience and then shouted: "What am I talking about all these farmers for . . . I come from Ulster county myself!"

Now that Mr. Murray's early affiliation with Kingston and Ulster county has been duly certified, we can all sit back and enjoy Saturday night TV the more.

● Can the Old Fox Be Wrong?

Earle Terwilliger, who organized and managed the Spinny basketball squad for seven years, questions the longevity of Chet Fox's memory with respect to the Spinnys-Chandler basketball series of more than two decades ago. The following excerpts from a letter present Terwilliger's side of the question.

"In the past week I have read news items about the old Spinny's team and their games with the old "Y" Chandlers. To keep the record straight, Chet Fox is talking through his hat.

"I organized and ran the Spinnys for seven years of their existence and should know what I am talking about. It was impossible for Chandlers to have won nine out of 11 games from us for the following reason:

"I tried from time to time to book the Chandlers to play at the old Pythian Hall in Port Ewen, without success. They would never play us anywhere except on their home court at the Y. During 1928-29-30, we would play one or two game a season on their home court with the result in favor of the Chandlers.

"In 1931, due to popular demand, "Pop" Hinds, the Y physical director, and I arranged a five (5) game series to be played on the Y court to settle, once and for all, the question of superiority between the teams. Spinnys won three out of five. How can Fox claim they beat us nine out of 11?"

Terwilliger recalls that the Spinny lineup featured Bing Van Etten and Dan Joyce forwards; Wes Hyatt, center; Al Short and Earle Terwilliger, guards. Frank Short was also a member of the squad. The Chandlers had Norm Niles and Jimmy Merritt, forwards; Hank Krum, center; Joe Hoffman, Joe Blass and Joe Dulin, guards.

"With all due respects to the Chandlers," Terwilliger concludes, "the old timers will back me up that over a period of seven years the Spinnys were the outstanding team in the area." Any arguments?

Ohio State Head Warns Football Will Collapse

Columbus, O., Feb. 17 (AP)—Is big time college football getting too big for its own good?

Athletic director Richard C. Larkins of football-minded Ohio State University is the latest college official to say so. He thus adds his voice to similar opinions expressed in January at the Pacific Coast Conference meeting in Riverside, Calif.

The Rose Bowl pact between the Big Ten and the Coast conference is up for renewal this year, and there has been considerable speculation that the agreement won't be renewed.

Larkins, who bosses athletics at a school which last year drew $1,112,000 at the turnstiles for five home grid games, had this to say yesterday:

"Football is being ruined. It's getting completely out of hand. It's a Frankenstein, a monster. Football is killing itself."

The blast followed closely passage by the Ohio House of Representative of a resolution asking that all Ohio State grid games be televised. The NCAA has banned televising of college football. Some officials believe television reduces football gate receipts.

"But maybe television is the answer," said Larkins. "Maybe it will kill off football as we have it today and we can start all over and build it up again without all this overemphasis. This might be the best thing that could happen to college athletics."

"Even disregarding television," Larkins went on, "college athletics are ill, really sick. And the big canker is football."

Larkins has other worries, too. The Buckeye school, known far and wide as the "graveyard of coaches," is nearing selection of its sixth head grid coach in the past 11 years.

The university's trustees are to meet tomorrow afternoon to approve the choice of a special coach screening committee and the athletic board. The groups have not announced their choice, but he is reported to be Wayne (Woody) Hayes, now head coach at Miami (O.) University.

San Francisco—Fred Dawson, 139¼, Chicago, defeated Jesse Flores, 138¾, Stockton, Calif., 10.

Kingston High trampled Port Jervis, 61 to 37, last night on the municipal auditorium boards, while Newburgh Free Academy moved a step closer to its second straight DUSO League pennant with a 49-45 conquest of Poughkeepsie High at the N.F.A. gym.

The problem of checking Coach George S. "Lanky" Masterson's basketeers is squarely in the hands of Coach G. Warren Kias and his Maroons. The opportunity will be offered them on Wednesday, Feb. 21 in Newburgh.

While Kingston toyed with the hapless tri-state city quintet, who were dropping their 12th game of the season, Newburgh landed a haymaker on Sam Kalloch's hot and cold Blues in the third period.

Gloede Stymied

The Goldbacks did a masterful defensive job on Tom Gloede, the Blues' scoring threat, restricting him to six points. Meanwhile, Big Ed Gabron, who couldn't do a thing against Eddie O'Connor of St. Patrick's Academy, poured in 23 points for the winners.

Poughkeepsie led 3-0 in the first couple of minutes, then failed to score for the remainder of the first period as Newburgh moved ahead 12-3. The Goldbacks clung to a 25-23 edge at halftime and broke the game apart in the third period with a 17-6 margin.

Don Nerz scored 12 points for N.F.A. Roger Lewis, the Negro center, was the Poughkeepsie leader with 15 points and Jimmy Ripo, hero of the first Blue win over Newburgh, hit for 11.

Carpouzis Has 20

George Carpouzis accounted for 16 points in the first half against Port Jervis and appeared on his way to a tremendous total. Lineup changes, however, slowed down the Maroon drive in the third period and he managed to pick up four more points in the second half to finish with 20.

The contest was the wildest played here this season with the cagers fast-breaking at terrific speed, throwing passes all over the place. Pass interceptions were frequent and the general pattern of the game was such that even veteran arbiter Buck Gros of Millbrook admitted that "this one is a dilly."

Through all the confusion and numerous lineup changes that Coach G. Warren Kias made there was never any question of Kingston's superiority. The Maroons took a 13-7 lead in the first period and extended their margin to 33-16 at halftime. The tempo slowed down in the third quarter but business picked up with 22 points in the stretch.

Leroy Hooker uncorked a couple more dazzling layups and wound up with 13 points for Kingston. Charlie Tiano had nine, eight coming in the final two minutes of play. R. Habig was the Port leader with 10.

Ellenville Wins

Klein Third Round Rio Golf Leader

Harlingen, Tex., Feb. 17 (AP)—Charles (Chuck) Klein, a solidly-built easy-going professional from San Antonio who says he always has disappointed his backers, led the way today as the $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open golf tournament rolled into its third round.

"They've been predicting that I'd win something for a long time," said the talkative 33-year-old shotmaker, "and I always seem to fail them in the stretch."

But this time Chuck holds a two-stroke lead over the field and the way he's shooting he shouldn't disappoint anybody. Yesterday, the stocky Klein laid down a four-under-par 67 to move from a tie for second into first place with a 36-hole total of 133.

Argentine Leads

Mexico City, Feb. 17 (AP)—Roberto De Vicenzo, five times National Open champion of Argentina, is back in the Mexican National Open golf championship today, thanks to a record-breaking 65 yesterday. The Argentine pro's card set a new record for tournament play on the 6,364 yard Chapultepec course. The previous record was the 66, six under par, set by Tony Holguin in winning the 1949 Open. De Vicenzo's 65, with the 70 he shot the opening day, put him four strokes ahead of Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif. Demaret, with a 68 and 71, was in second place.

Paper Collection Proposed

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Paper industry representatives have proposed a revival of the waste paper collection program used during World War 2. The suggestion was made by an advisory committee of the pulp, paper and board industry at a meeting yesterday with the National Production Authority. N.P.A. officials told the group that all but a few orders for their products are now being met. But they urged the industry to adopt conservation methods because of possible reduced availability of some chemical used in making paper.

Paper Collection Proposed

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Paper industry representatives have proposed a revival of the waste paper collection program used during World War 2. The suggestion was made by an advisory committee of the pulp, paper and board industry at a meeting yesterday with the National Production Authority. N.P.A. officials told the group that all but a few orders for their products are now being met. But they urged the industry to adopt conservation methods because of possible reduced availability of some chemical used in making paper.

Paper Collection Proposed

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Paper industry representatives have proposed a revival of the waste paper collection program used during World War 2. The suggestion was made by an advisory committee of the pulp, paper and board industry at a meeting yesterday with the National Production Authority. N.P.A. officials told the group that all but a few orders for their products are now being met. But they urged the industry to adopt conservation methods because of possible reduced availability of some chemical used in making paper.

Slick Stayman Bid Has Possibilities

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Many bridge players think that the Stayman Convention is used only to show interest in a major suit. This is not so, however, as Samuel M. Stayman points out in his new book Expert Bidding.

When the hand shown today was played, West knew that North's response of two clubs was the Stayman Convention, asking South to show a biddable major suit if he had one. (By coincidence, North actually had a club suit.)

South bid two spades, naturally enough, and then North went to two no-trump. Clearly, North had no real support for spades, since he did not raise that suit. Hence, if North had any support at all for a major suit, it had to be for hearts.

West had been wondering whether to open from four hearts to the queen or from five small diamonds. When he reasoned that North was likely to have some four-card holding in hearts, West decided to lead a diamond rather than a heart.

The diamond opening lead allowed South to make the contract. He won with the ace of diamonds and led a low club towards dummy. West properly played low, hoping dummy's ace would be played.

South had already made up his mind to finesse through West for at least one honor in clubs. Hence he finessed dummy's nine of clubs at the second trick. This won the trick.

Declarer next cashed the ace of clubs and gave up a club trick to West. No matter what West returned, South was bound to make at least nine tricks.

If West made his opening lead in hearts instead of in diamonds, East would take the ace of hearts and would return the suit. Now when West got in with the king of clubs, his side could run the rest of the hearts. Four heart tricks and a club would defeat the contract.

Meyers to Stand Trial

Baltimore, Feb. 17 (AP)—Bennett E. Meyers, cashiered major general, will go on trial April 16 on charges of evading $61,400 in income taxes while he was the army air force's top purchasing agent. Meyers pleaded innocent at his arraignment yesterday in federal court here. He continued free on $5,000 bond. The 55-year-old former army officer was released from a federal reformatory at Lorton, Va., on Feb. 1 after serving almost three years for inducing a business associate to lie to a Senate investigating committee.

2,000 Vote Strike

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—More than 2,000 workers at two Bethlehem Steel Company shipyards in Brooklyn have voted to strike "if necessary" to enforce wage demands. George Pokorney, president and business agent of Local 13 of the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, said last night that the men were in a "very ugly mood" and may not report for work Monday.

Utah Inventors Use Water as Fuel

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Two Utah inventors say they have invented a device which burns ordinary water to produce heat for homes or power for industries.

George Jackson and William Daugherty, both of Salt Lake City, have applied for a patent on their process. Daugherty told a reporter yesterday experimental estimates indicated a pint of wather could be used to heat a four room house for four hours.

The patent application says water is heated, under pressure, by alcohol. Then, the inventors said, it emerges from jets, apparently broken down into the two gases — hydrogen and oxygen—which make up water. These burn intense heat, the inventors said, and alcohol is needed only to get the process going.

Daugherty said he could make a home-made burner for $15. It would also burn other fuels he said, without leaving carbon deposits, oil film or making smoke.

Landlady Hurt, Boarder Is Killed

Central Valley, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A landlady was shot and injured and a boarder killed yesterday in what state police said was an apparent attempted slaying and a suicide.

The landlady, Mrs. Harriet Griffith, 48, was found shot in the abdomen and neck. She may not live.

The boarder—one of three in her home—was found dead of gunshot wounds in the head. He was identified as Ben Hogan, 56, a house painter.

The two were alone in Mrs. Griffith's house at the time of the shootings.

State Police Lt. H. J. Sanderson said Hogan may have shot Mrs. Griffith and then turned the gun—a .25 caliber automatic pistol—on himself.

There was no immediate clue as to the cause of the tragedy.

Mrs. Griffith was a widow and Hogan a widower.

The house painter was described as having been in ill health lately.

Two Cars Are Damaged In Unusual Accident

The rear wheel of a tractor-trailer turning from Fair into North Front street caught the rear of a parked automobile and forced it into another parked automobile at 8:35 p. m. Friday, the police reported. Both of the passenger cars were damaged, but no injuries were reported.

According to Patrolman Charles Hoehing, the tractor-trailer was owned and operated by Marcus R. Felver, 46, of Union, N. J. The automobile it struck is owned by Edward P. Murphy, 42, of 37 Smith avenue and was parked in front of 21 North Front street. The other automobile is owned by John Mertz, Jr., of 14 Ora place, and was parked in front of 19 North Front street.

Gehr Trial Jurors Ask Dewey Alter Divorce Law

Carmel, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The jurors who acquitted television director Herbert Gehr in the divorce raid slaying of his wife have sent a letter to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey asking him to initiate revision of New York's divorce laws.

The law permits divorce only on grounds of adultery.

Gehr, spending the night in a cabin with another woman, shot his wife when she and private detectives approached the cabin seeking divorce evidence. Gehr said he fired because he thought they were burglars.

Thirteen of the jurors and alternates signed the letter, mailed Thursday. One juror declined for religious reasons.

They described themselves as Putnam county neighbors of Dewey and said "we are all happily married people who presumably will never need relief in divorce courts."

Resulted in Death

But they contended the New York law, closing divorce avenues open to residents of other states, resulted in the death of Mrs. Gehr, two children being left motherless, damage to Gehr's reputation and trial expenses to Putnam county.

"As a lawyer," the letter to the governor said, "you doubtless are aware of many other abuses which this law, permitting divorce for adultery only, has raised—abuses of which we, in our quiet lives, have no knowledge.

The Smith or Lockwood house which is being taken down at Pearl and Wall streets which was built some 100 years ago had various items in it, one which I described in this column. It was a sore of shaving mug, with a hole in the bottom about the size of a half dollar. It had a lid and a plate to match from china. My readers are my best source of information for they check against each other, and woe is me, if a make an error. They let me know immediately.

So the mention of this china mug with the hole in the bottom brought response from Mrs. Keefe of 258 Lucas avenue. She is a sister of Mrs. Blanche De La Montanye Fitzgerald, who used to be stenographer and saleswoman for H. S. Crispell, wholesale drug house, corner Thomas street and Broadway. Mrs. Fitzgerald now resides in California. I remember when Miss Montanye used to come to my father's drug store every morning for an order. Going back to the china cup, Mrs. Keefe said she was sure it was for condensed milk can as used some 50 years ago. The hole on the bottom was to push them up and out when empty. Then I received a card from Dick Winslow of Rosendale, who also says "Think mug you discovered in "Old Lockwood House" was invented as a container for condensed milk cans about the time of the first use of that fodder. The hole in the bottom for purpose of pushing up can." So I think that clears up the strange mug with the hole on the bottom.

One of the books I would like to own is "Rondout, its representative business men and points of interest," loaned to me by Charles O'Connor from his collection. It was written or compiled by George F. Bacon, and published by the Mercantile Pub. Co. in 1892. It also covers Kingston and its points of interest in photos as well as articles. Who remembers John street in 1892? I can see the Opera House building, the way it looks it went right on to Wall street. There is a picture of the "Kingston Armory" with woods all around it.

The Kingston Carriage Co. is shown with a row of dainty carriages on high wheels out in front. It advertised, "Carriages, wagons, carts of all descriptions, harness, blankets, whips, horse clothing, etc., Union Ave. near West Shore Depot, Kingston, N. Y." As far as I remember, this was the only building bought during one of the enthusiastic episodes of West Shore history, when the city decided to buy the Broadway buildings necessary for the construction of underpass for the elimination of the railroad crossing as they are presently doing. At which time, of course, it did not go through and, as I understand the building was resold.

Who remembers Howard Myer, manufacturer of cigars and jobbers in tobaccos, cigarettes, pipes, etc., at 31 John street? It said then that Mr. Myers carried on the busines since 1890. He had 12 or 15 competent assistants and manufactured his own cigars. I remember the store in my time, and in the summer when the door was open, the aroma of tobacco would be detected as one went by.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Feb. 16—Ernest Gardner, West Shokan resident and Central Hudson field man, was a caller here Wednesday. Ernie, during early February, has been working in the Poughkeepsie area.

The Rev. Milton H. Ryan, Ashokan Methodist Church pastor and member of the local Legion Post, has been inconvenienced recently by a throat trouble which affected his voice. A song service was held at the regular preaching hour last Sunday while at the West Hurley Church the Rev. James R. Russell, minister of the First Congregational Church of Woodhaven, Ozone Park, officiated as guest preacher.

Heavy trucking on the Onteora Trail appears to have speeded up considerably following the return of good rolling on this arterial highway. Frequent passage of building materials cargoes, together with the usual heavy shipments of milk and gas, makes the main street scene a lively one.

Callers here this week included Edward Flynn of Kingston and Robert Doney of Poughkeepsie.

Our Old Timer, seen in the village the other day, reported that he is "jest about thawed out" after the prolonged cold snap. O. T. said that, in the old days, men and boys would now begin to think about going to fish for eels and bullheads in Temple's Pond and the upper Esopus Creek. Night fishing was done with the aid of pine knot torches which attracted the eels to the surface where they could readily be speared or scooped up. Later, in the 1880's, "Yankees" who came over from Connecticut to fish for the lamper eels in the Esopus near Kingston, brought the trick of using kerosene torches, such as were carried in the old time political parades, and which were just as good as pine knots, to fool the fish.

Mrs. Maynard DeLong, a registered nurse who for some time has been employed in the Catskill area, spent Sunday and Monday at her home here.

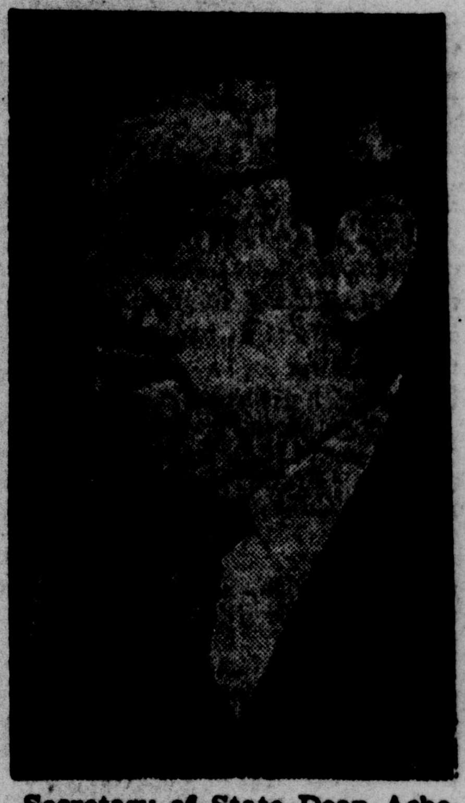
Birthdays falling on Saturday Feb. 17, include that of May Giles, a former resident who removed to Kripplebush several years ago. May was born at West Shokan, a daughter of Clarke and Catherine Personeus. She is a sister of Gould Personeus of Shokan.

The "George Ed." Wilber residence at the junction of Woodstock road and Onteora Trail has been successfully moved to a new foundation farther on towards Kingston. Moving jobs of this nature are a rarer occurrence in the mountains, the most notable one here having been in waterworks days when John Habrouck with winch and rollers, eased a two-story building from the new village of Ashokan up the road to his property in the village center here—a distance of more than half a mile.

Certificates of honor have been received by the Glenford and Ashokan Methodist Sunday school for their total "Christmas Stockings" contributions ($53 in all) for the children under the care of the Methodist Hospital, Brooklyn.

Word has reached here of the illness of Guy Arnold, who resided in the old village as a boy and young man, at the Miami Springs, Fla., Hospital where he has been in a coma for the past three months. Guy, who married Minnie Dykman, a summer boarder at the Harlow Cottage, and for many years was business manager of a boys' school at Millbrook, clerked at Winchell's store and was a popular fellow in the days when Jay Ennist of Highland, Mrs. John Woolsey (Maude Cole) and Mrs. Loren Secor (Ella DuBois) of Kingston, and other county residents were young people together.

Optimistic



Secretary of State Dean Acheson tells senators in Washington that "the combat forces of our European allies may be expected to double in the next year." He was testifying before a joint session of Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in support of the administration's plan to send 100,000 additional U. S. troops to Europe to bolster defenses against Communist aggression. (A.P. Wirephoto)

That prehistoric man in North Africa depended chiefly on snails for food is evidenced by huge mounds of small snails excavated by members of several scientific expeditions into that region.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Slick Stayman Bid Has Possibilities

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Many bridge players think that the Stayman Convention is used only to show interest in a major suit. This is not so, however, as Samuel M. Stayman points out in his new book Expert Bidding.

When the hand shown today was played, West knew that North's response of two clubs was the Stayman Convention, asking South to show a biddable major suit if he had one. (By coincidence, North actually had a club suit.)

South bid two spades, naturally enough, and then North went to two no-trump. Clearly, North had no real support for spades, since he did not raise that suit. Hence, if North had any support at all for a major suit, it had to be for hearts.

West had been wondering whether to open from four hearts to the queen or from five small diamonds. When he reasoned that North was likely to have some four-card holding in hearts, West decided to lead a diamond rather than a heart.

The diamond opening lead allowed South to make the contract. He won with the ace of diamonds and led a low club towards dummy. West properly played low, hoping dummy's ace would be played.

South had already made up his mind to finesse through West for at least one honor in clubs. Hence he finessed dummy's nine of clubs at the second trick. This won the trick.

Declarer next cashed the ace of clubs and gave up a club trick to West. No matter what West returned, South was bound to make at least nine tricks.

If West made his opening lead in hearts instead of in diamonds, East would take the ace of hearts and would return the suit. Now when West got in with the king of clubs, his side could run the rest of the hearts. Four heart tricks and a club would defeat the contract.

Meyers to Stand Trial

Baltimore, Feb. 17 (AP)—Bennett E. Meyers, cashiered major general, will go on trial April 16 on charges of evading $61,400 in income taxes while he was the army air force's top purchasing agent. Meyers pleaded innocent at his arraignment yesterday in federal court here. He continued free on $5,000 bond. The 55-year-old former army officer was released from a federal reformatory at Lorton, Va., on Feb. 1 after serving almost three years for inducing a business associate to lie to a Senate investigating committee.

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—More than 2,000 workers at two Bethlehem Steel Company shipyards in Brooklyn have voted to strike "if necessary" to enforce wage demands. George Pokorney, president and business agent of Local 13 of the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, said last night that the men were in a "very ugly mood" and may not report for work Monday.

Utah Inventors Use Water as Fuel

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Two Utah inventors say they have invented a device which burns ordinary water to produce heat for homes or power for industries.

George Jackson and William Daugherty, both of Salt Lake City, have applied for a patent on their process. Daugherty told a reporter yesterday experimental estimates indicated a pint of wather could be used to heat a four room house for four hours.

The patent application says water is heated, under pressure, by alcohol. Then, the inventors said, it emerges from jets, apparently broken down into the two gases — hydrogen and oxygen—which make up water. These burn intense heat, the inventors said, and alcohol is needed only to get the process going.

Daugherty said he could make a home-made burner for $15. It would also burn other fuels he said, without leaving carbon deposits, oil film or making smoke.

Landlady Hurt, Boarder Is Killed

Central Valley, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A landlady was shot and injured and a boarder killed yesterday in what state police said was an apparent attempted slaying and a suicide.

The landlady, Mrs. Harriet Griffith, 48, was found shot in the abdomen and neck. She may not live.

The boarder—one of three in her home—was found dead of gunshot wounds in the head. He was identified as Ben Hogan, 56, a house painter.

The two were alone in Mrs. Griffith's house at the time of the shootings.

State Police Lt. H. J. Sanderson said Hogan may have shot Mrs. Griffith and then turned the gun—a .25 caliber automatic pistol—on himself.

There was no immediate clue as to the cause of the tragedy.

Mrs. Griffith was a widow and Hogan a widower.

The house painter was described as having been in ill health lately.

Two Cars Are Damaged In Unusual Accident

The rear wheel of a tractor-trailer turning from Fair into North Front street caught the rear of a parked automobile and forced it into another parked automobile at 8:35 p. m. Friday, the police reported. Both of the passenger cars were damaged, but no injuries were reported.

According to Patrolman Charles Hoehing, the tractor-trailer was owned and operated by Marcus R. Felver, 46, of Union, N. J. The automobile it struck is owned by Edward P. Murphy, 42, of 37 Smith avenue and was parked in front of 21 North Front street. The other automobile is owned by John Mertz, Jr., of 14 Ora place, and was parked in front of 19 North Front street.

Gehr Trial Jurors Ask Dewey Alter Divorce Law

Carmel, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The jurors who acquitted television director Herbert Gehr in the divorce raid slaying of his wife have sent a letter to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey asking him to initiate revision of New York's divorce laws.

The law permits divorce only on grounds of adultery.

Gehr, spending the night in a cabin with another woman, shot his wife when she and private detectives approached the cabin seeking divorce evidence. Gehr said he fired because he thought they were burglars.

Thirteen of the jurors and alternates signed the letter, mailed Thursday. One juror declined for religious reasons.

They described themselves as Putnam county neighbors of Dewey and said "we are all happily married people who presumably will never need relief in divorce courts."

Resulted in Death

But they contended the New York law, closing divorce avenues open to residents of other states, resulted in the death of Mrs. Gehr, two children being left motherless, damage to Gehr's reputation and trial expenses to Putnam county.

"As a lawyer," the letter to the governor said, "you doubtless are aware of many other abuses which this law, permitting divorce for adultery only, has raised—abuses of which we, in our quiet lives, have no knowledge.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Feb. 16—Ernest Gardner, West Shokan resident and Central Hudson field man, was a caller here Wednesday. Ernie, during early February, has been working in the Poughkeepsie area.

The Rev. Milton H. Ryan, Ashokan Methodist Church pastor and member of the local Legion Post, has been inconvenienced recently by a throat trouble which affected his voice. A song service was held at the regular preaching hour last Sunday while at the West Hurley Church the Rev. James R. Russell, minister of the First Congregational Church of Woodhaven, Ozone Park, officiated as guest preacher.

Heavy trucking on the Onteora Trail appears to have speeded up considerably following the return of good rolling on this arterial highway. Frequent passage of building materials cargoes, together with the usual heavy shipments of milk and gas, makes the main street scene a lively one.

Callers here this week included Edward Flynn of Kingston and Robert Doney of Poughkeepsie.

Our Old Timer, seen in the village the other day, reported that he is "jest about thawed out" after the prolonged cold snap. O. T. said that, in the old days, men and boys would now begin to think about going to fish for eels and bullheads in Temple's Pond and the upper Esopus Creek. Night fishing was done with the aid of pine knot torches which attracted the eels to the surface where they could readily be speared or scooped up. Later, in the 1880's, "Yankees" who came over from Connecticut to fish for the lamper eels in the Esopus near Kingston, brought the trick of using kerosene torches, such as were carried in the old time political parades, and which were just as good as pine knots, to fool the fish.

Mrs. Maynard DeLong, a registered nurse who for some time has been employed in the Catskill area, spent Sunday and Monday at her home here.

Birthdays falling on Saturday Feb. 17, include that of May Giles, a former resident who removed to Kripplebush several years ago. May was born at West Shokan, a daughter of Clarke and Catherine Personeus. She is a sister of Gould Personeus of Shokan.

The "George Ed." Wilber residence at the junction of Woodstock road and Onteora Trail has been successfully moved to a new foundation farther on towards Kingston. Moving jobs of this nature are a rarer occurrence in the mountains, the most notable one here having been in waterworks days when John Habrouck with winch and rollers, eased a two-story building from the new village of Ashokan up the road to his property in the village center here—a distance of more than half a mile.

Certificates of honor have been received by the Glenford and Ashokan Methodist Sunday school for their total "Christmas Stockings" contributions ($53 in all) for the children under the care of the Methodist Hospital, Brooklyn.

Word has reached here of the illness of Guy Arnold, who resided in the old village as a boy and young man, at the Miami Springs, Fla., Hospital where he has been in a coma for the past three months. Guy, who married Minnie Dykman, a summer boarder at the Harlow Cottage, and for many years was business manager of a boys' school at Millbrook, clerked at Winchell's store and was a popular fellow in the days when Jay Ennist of Highland, Mrs. John Woolsey (Maude Cole) and Mrs. Loren Secor (Ella DuBois) of Kingston, and other county residents were young people together.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Slick Stayman Bid Has Possibilities

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Many bridge players think that the Stayman Convention is used only to show interest in a major suit. This is not so, however, as Samuel M. Stayman points out in his new book Expert Bidding.

When the hand shown today was played, West knew that North's response of two clubs was the Stayman Convention, asking South to show a biddable major suit if he had one. (By coincidence, North actually had a club suit.)

South bid two spades, naturally enough, and then North went to two no-trump. Clearly, North had no real support for spades, since he did not raise that suit. Hence, if North had any support at all for a major suit, it had to be for hearts.

West had been wondering whether to open from four hearts to the queen or from five small diamonds. When he reasoned that North was likely to have some four-card holding in hearts, West decided to lead a diamond rather than a heart.

The diamond opening lead allowed South to make the contract. He won with the ace of diamonds and led a low club towards dummy. West properly played low, hoping dummy's ace would be played.

South had already made up his mind to finesse through West for at least one honor in clubs. Hence he finessed dummy's nine of clubs at the second trick. This won the trick.

Declarer next cashed the ace of clubs and gave up a club trick to West. No matter what West returned, South was bound to make at least nine tricks.

If West made his opening lead in hearts instead of in diamonds, East would take the ace of hearts and would return the suit. Now when West got in with the king of clubs, his side could run the rest of the hearts. Four heart tricks and a club would defeat the contract.

Meyers to Stand Trial

Utah Inventors Use Water as Fuel

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Two Utah inventors say they have invented a device which burns ordinary water to produce heat for homes or power for industries.

George Jackson and William Daugherty, both of Salt Lake City, have applied for a patent on their process. Daugherty told a reporter yesterday experimental estimates indicated a pint of wather could be used to heat a four room house for four hours.

The patent application says water is heated, under pressure, by alcohol. Then, the inventors said, it emerges from jets, apparently broken down into the two gases — hydrogen and oxygen— which make up water. These burn intense heat, the inventors said, and alcohol is needed only to get the process going.

Daugherty said he could make a home-made burner for $15. It would also burn other fuels he said, without leaving carbon deposits, oil film or making smoke.

Landlady Hurt, Boarder Is Killed

Central Valley, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A landlady was shot and injured and a boarder killed yesterday in what state police said was an apparent attempted slaying and a suicide.

The landlady, Mrs. Harriet Griffith, 48, was found shot in the abdomen and neck. She may not live.

The boarder—one of three in her home—was found dead of gunshot wounds in the head. He was identified as Ben Hogan, 56, a house painter.

The two were alone in Mrs. Griffith's house at the time of the shootings.

State Police Lt. H. J. Sanderson said Hogan may have shot Mrs. Griffith and then turned the gun—a .25 caliber automatic pistol—on himself.

There was no immediate clue as to the cause of the tragedy.

Mrs. Griffith was a widow and Hogan a widower.

The house painter was described as having been in ill health lately.

Gehr Trial Jurors Ask Dewey Alter Divorce Law

Carmel, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The jurors who acquitted television director Herbert Gehr in the divorce raid slaying of his wife have sent a letter to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey asking him to initiate revision of New York's divorce laws.

The law permits divorce only on grounds of adultery.

Gehr, spending the night in a cabin with another woman, shot his wife when she and private detectives approached the cabin seeking divorce evidence. Gehr said he fired because he thought they were burglars.

Thirteen of the jurors and alternates signed the letter, mailed Thursday. One juror declined for religious reasons.

They described themselves as Putnam county neighbors of Dewey and said "we are all happily married people who presumably will never need relief in divorce courts."

Resulted in Death

But they contended the New York law, closing divorce avenues open to residents of other states, resulted in the death of Mrs. Gehr, two children being left motherless, damage to Gehr's reputation and trial expenses to Putnam county.

"As a lawyer," the letter to the governor said, "you doubtless are aware of many other abuses which this law, permitting divorce for adultery only, has raised—abuses of which we, in our quiet lives, have no knowledge.

"We cannot believe that you, as governor of our great state, sanction a condition where, for instance, a wife abused by a drunken husband, must stay married to him, at hazard to herself and children.

"We cannot believe that you approve the racket of paid snoopers which flourishes as a result of our outdated law.

Provisions Examined

"We have examined the provisions for annulment and for so-called 'dissolution of marriage' allowed here. It is obvious that these afford relief to a very limited number—as, for instance, where one has married a lunatic or where one spouse has been imprisoned for life.

"We believe that if you, as governor, took the initiative and asked for legislation aimed at correction of the law, such a bill would be passed with flying colors."

The letter asked that a reply be directed to Arthur S. Herz, of Cold Spring, whom the jurors designated as their chairman.

No reply had been received this morning.

Do You Remember

SOPHIE MILLER

The Smith or Lockwood house which is being taken down at Pearl and Wall streets which was built some 100 years ago had various items in it, one which I described in this column. It was a sore of shaving mug, with a hole in the bottom about the size of a half dollar. It had a lid and a plate to match from china. My readers are my best source of information for they check against each other, and woe is me, if a make an error. They let me know immediately.

So the mention of this china mug with the hole in the bottom brought response from Mrs. Keefe of 258 Lucas avenue. She is a sister of Mrs. Blanche De La Montanye Fitzgerald, who used to be stenographer and saleswoman for H. S. Crispell, wholesale drug house, corner Thomas street and Broadway. Mrs. Fitzgerald now resides in California. I remember when Miss Montanye used to come to my father's drug store every morning for an order. Going back to the china cup, Mrs. Keefe said she was sure it was for condensed milk can as used some 50 years ago. The hole on the bottom was to push them up and out when empty. Then I received a card from Dick Winslow of Rosendale, who also says "Think mug you discovered in "Old Lockwood House" was invented as a container for condensed milk cans about the time of the first use of that fodder. The hole in the bottom for purpose of pushing up can." So I think that clears up the strange mug with the hole on the bottom.

One of the books I would like to own is "Rondout, its representative business men and points of interest," loaned to me by Charles O'Connor from his collection. It was written or compiled by George F. Bacon, and published by the Mercantile Pub. Co. in 1892. It also covers Kingston and its points of interest in photos as well as articles. Who remembers John street in 1892? I can see the Opera House building, the way it looks it went right on to Wall street. There is a picture of the "Kingston Armory" with woods all around it.

The Kingston Carriage Co. is shown with a row of dainty carriages on high wheels out in front. It advertised, "Carriages, wagons, carts of all descriptions, harness, blankets, whips, horse clothing, etc., Union Ave. near West Shore Depot, Kingston, N. Y." As far as I remember, this was the only building bought during one of the enthusiastic episodes of West Shore history, when the city decided to buy the Broadway buildings necessary for the construction of underpass for the elimination of the railroad crossing as they are presently doing. At which time, of course, it did not go through and, as I understand the building was resold.

Who remembers Howard Myer, manufacturer of cigars and jobbers in tobaccos, cigarettes, pipes, etc., at 31 John street? It said then that Mr. Myers carried on the busines since 1890. He had 12 or 15 competent assistants and manufactured his own cigars. I remember the store in my time, and in the summer when the door was open, the aroma of tobacco would be detected as one went by.

A report will be made Monday on the number of reservations. The dinner will be attended by prominent county and city officials as guests of the company.

Gunmen Spurn $200

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Two gunmen spurned $200 in cash yesterday because they missed a $4,200 payroll holdup at a Brooklyn plant. The masked bandits entered the office of the Carlson Ink Company and demanded the pay roll money. They were told the cash had been distributed 10 minutes earlier. One gunman said, "if we're too late to get the whole thing, we don't want a piddling $200. The pair stalked out.

Bard Students Study Government In Other Colleges

Annandale-on-Hudson, Feb. 17—Five Bard College students are conducting a survey of college community government problems and operations at six other institutions as a preparation for the drafting of a new constitution for their own community.

During January and this month they visited Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, New York; Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio; Mt. Holyoke College, Holyoke, Mass.; and Marlboro College, Marlboro, Vt. In March they will complete their survey with visits to Bennington College, Bennington, Vt., and Goddard College, Plainfield, Vt.

The group elected by the students and faculty includes Richard Muller of Princeton, N. J., and chairman of the Bard Community Council; David Schwab of New York, and moderator of the Bard Convocation; Whitney Bolton of New York; Naomi Bellinson of Douglaston; and Hannah Kauders of Forest Hills. They have been accompanied by Miss Ruth Gillard, assistant professor of sociology, who is directing the survey.

The program has been made possible by a grant from the William C. Whitney Foundation of New York to cover travel costs.

The organization of social life on college campuses on a community wide basis is relatively uncommon. Under such plans students, faculty, and administrative staff participate together in the formulation of standards and regulations and share responsibility for their enforcement. The colleges visited by the group all have Community Government programs with the exception of Mt. Holyoke which returned recently to a student government plan after experimenting with the other approach.

The group will continue its studies during the Spring semester and is charged with the responsibility of submitting a draft of a new constitution for the Bard Community in May.

Appellate Division To Argue Point About 'Miracle'

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The issue of whether the Board of Regents has the right to ban "The Miracle" in New York state will be argued next month in the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court.

The Regents' right to revoke licenses for the movie was challenged yesterday by Joseph Burstyn, Inc., American distributor of Roberto Rossellini's Italian film. The Regents said "The Miracle" was "sacrilegious."

A motion by Burstyn to stay enforcement of the ban was denied by Justice Kenneth S. MacOffer.

Samuel A. Aronowitz, counsel for the distributor, contended that the Regents had no authority to countermand the licensing by the State Education Department's motion picture division. The Regents have jurisdiction over the department and division.

Aronowitz and Charles A. Brind, Jr., the Regents' counsel, agreed that the Appellate Division should rule on the case. Both indicated they would like an early settlement of the issue.

The case probably will be brought before the Third Department when it convenes here March 5.

Presumably, the ultimate decision will come from the state's highest tribunal, the Court of Appeals. The decision of he Appellate Division is expected to be appealed.

"The Miracle" has been showing in New York city at the Paris Theatre. It was dropped from the program at 5:30 p. m. (E.S.T.) yesterday, after the Regents announced their ban. The theatre continued to show two other films with which "The Miracle" was grouped. It ran two short subjects, including "Brotherhood of Man," in place of "The Miracle"

"The Miracle" tells a story of an idiot Italian girl who is seduced by a stranger she believes to be St. Joseph. She considers the birth of her child a miracle.

Tire Recap Service Offered by Concern

The Hudson Valley Tire Company is now offering recapping service at its plant at 37 St. James street, according to David Mendel, proprietor.

Equipment for Hawkinson retreads was installed last October and is now in full operation. Tire sizes from passenger car size (640 x 15) up to a large truck size (1100 x 24) can be handled.

The fleet operator is offered regular periodic inspection of tires at no cost by the company.

The Hudson Valley Tire Company is distributor for General Tire and Rubber Company new tires and tubes, and also carries an accessory line of seat covers.

Personnel includes Mendel, who has been in both the tire and trucking business over a period of 15 years; Richard Streib, outside contact man; James Rutledge, shop foreman who was specially trained in Chicago; James Decker, who works under Rutledge, and Juanita Euerbach, in charge of the office. All are local persons.

In announcing the addition of the new service, Mendel stressed the importance of proper care for tires during this time of national emergency. He invited motorists to his place of business for a complete checkup of their present tires.

Stresses Care of Tires

The importance of proper care of tires was stressed in a message received by Mendel from William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber Company.

"Even with a big increased demand for military purposes," O'Neil wrote, "there will be tires enough in 1951 to meet the vital domestic transportation needs . . . if the motorists buy only those tires absolutely necessary." He warned that the only factor that could cause a shortage of tires this year is a "sudden hysteria wave."

Local Man Injured In Hurley Mishap

Frederick Joseph Barnes, about 32, of 82 West Union street, was treated at the Benedictine Hospital Thursday night for injuries received in a two-car accident on Route 209 at Riverside Park, Town of Hurley. The sheriff's office report of the accident listed Barnes' injuries as a fractured left forearm and a broken left index finger.

Deputy Sheriffs Arthur Smith and Earl Conro reported following an investigation that Barnes' automobile skidded on the icy pavement, struck another vehicle, then continued up an embankment, striking a maple tree and rolling back down the bank. The vehicle was badly damaged, the deputies reported.

The other vehicle involved in the accident was driven by Ralph Burger, 55, of 173 Hurley avenue, who was not reported injured, the sheriff's men said. The accident occurred about 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Barnes was taken to the hospital by a W. N. Conner ambulance and was released after treatment and X-ray examination.

Government . . .

Jr., issued a statement that said this:

"The urgent need for national unity is not well served through the device of 'crisis by walkout.' The Wage Stabilization Board cannot function if, as the union leaders seem to desire, it exists only to rubber-stamp hunting licenses for a higher, more inflationary, sixth round of wage increases."

Bitter Attack Made

Earlier the United Labor Policy Committee, which represents the A.F.L., C.I.O., and rail brotherhoods, made a long and bitter attack not only on the wage formula as "unfair and unworkable," but on the price control and manpower programs and the personal leadership of Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

Johnston, as he studied the wage formula, had the power to sign or not to sign, or to change the formula and then sign. He was expected to ponder the matter for a few days before action. Meantime, in order to stay on the job, he cancelled a speech he was to have made tonight in Portland, Ore.

Most government officials believe that wage controls will be ineffective, or at least less effective, if labor unions do not take part in running the program. Labor leaders go further and say flatly that the workers will not accept wage controls unless the unions accept them.

Still Have Hope

If necessary, wage controls could be administered by a single administrator or by a board composed wholly of public members, but officials have not given up hope of continuing the labor-management-public arrangement.

How far the government would go in trying to persuade the unions to walk back it was not known. In that connection, a spokesman for Wilson told reporters that Wilson has invited labor three times to send him a labor leader to be one of his assistants.

At first Wilson insisted that the labor leader must rid himself of all union connections, but the spokesman said that on the third invitation Wilson dropped this insistence and now requires only that the man devote full time to the government post.

A week ago, Johnston named George Harrison, president of the A.F.L. railway clerks, as his principal assistant, but Harrison continues to give part of his time to his unit.

The United Labor Policy Committee charged in yesterday's statement that virtually the whole defense mobilization program has been entrusted to the hands of "a few men recruited from big business."

The committee also charged that the 10 per cent wage formula was dictated by Wilson.

A spokesman for Wilson denied this. So did the three industry members of the board.

The three public members of the board, who joined the industry members in approving the wage formula, are Chairman Cyrus S. Ching, Clark Kerr, and John Dunlop.

Americans Attack

trated the line, it was in no sense a breakthrough. Rather the allied forces rolled with the punch.

"The enemy north of Chechon was believed to be the fifth North Korean Corps. It seemed to be trying to slip into the Pyongchang-Yongwol-Tanyang mountain route to the south."

The fighting before Chechon was not as rough as that before Wonju and Chipyong earlier this week.

Red ground casualties in Korea Friday were estimated at 5,417. This brought to 106,746 the total estimate of enemy dead, wounded and taken prisoner since the U. S. Eighth Army opened a drive Jan. 25 aimed primarily at hunting down and killing Reds.

Unfavorable weather cut allied air activities Friday down to about 500 sorties, less than half of the record 1,027 flown Thursday.

Saturday 10 Russian-made MIG-15 jets jumped a U. S. F-80 Shooting Star near Simanju, a Chongchon river town about 40 miles north of Pyongyang, North Korean capital. The F-80 escaped unharmed into an overcast.

Allied naval forces pounded Korean coasts Friday in diversionary bombardments. Carrier-borne planes added their power to the front-line punch of allied artillery.

Petition Requests Ouster of Macy

Riverhead, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A Republican petition was being circulated today to oust former representative W. Kingsland Macy as party leader in Suffolk county.

Macy, county Republican chairman for 24 years, declared his intention of resigning after his election defeat last November by Rep. Ernest Greenwood (D-Lib.)

Informed of the petition, Macy said, "I don't want to stay as county chairman. But, if the situation becomes forced, I might very well decide to stay.

Officially, the petition going the rounds today asked for a special meeting of the Suffolk County Republican Committee to accept Macy's resignation and elect a successor.

It is being circulated by supporters of County Clerk R. Ford Hughes, once a political lieutenant of Macy's but now after his leadership job.

They claimed 250 signatures already on the petition which is expected to be presented to Macy early next week. Under party rules, 50 signatures are necessary to call a special meeting.

Hindustan Paper

will fail and neither ammunition nor food can reach the Korean front line with regularity."

Description Is Given

He gave this description of the impact of war on Red China's home front:

"The war in Korea, though waged on a very limited scale, is already somewhat of a surprise to the Chinese. Casualties are much greater than they anticipated. The hospitals in Manchuria are inequal to the influx. Hospitals in Peiping are heavily denuded of their nursing staffs as they have gone to the front."

The writer intimated Chinese leaders are deeply concerned over the Korean war losses.

"Though Chinese manpower may be inexhaustible, New China's statesmen are not inhumanly indifferent to the sacrifice of their soldiers," Moore wrote.

Moore, one of the oldest British journalists in India, had sailed to Tientsin without Communist approval and obtained permission there to visit Peiping after the Indian ambassador intervened in his behalf. He is one of the few non-Communist reporters to visit Peiping since Chinese troops began fighting in Korea—perhaps the only one.

Moore described Red China's relations with Russia as "consistently cordial." He said the Soviet announcement it was returning the Manchurian railway and dismantled Manchurian factories to China well ahead of requirements under the new Soviet-Chinese treaty "produced an outburst of gratitude to Russia in the Chinese press."

Two Invited . . .

counted by senators, that Russia has demoblized and that a Third World War is not inevitable "at this time."

General Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, told the committees yesterday that the transfer of four additional American divisions to Europe would "immeasurably improve" the chances of the two already in Germany to survive a Russian attack.

Earlier, Acheson said that the source of the security threat to western Europe and the United States "is the powerful military force assembled by the Soviet Union and its satellites, combined with the hostile intentions which the Soviet Union has demonstrated toward the entire non-Soviet world and the willingness it has recently shown to risk general war."

Bradley and Acheson strongly opposed any congressional limitation on the number involved.

24 Rescued From Ship

Yokohama, Japan, Feb. 17 (AP)—Ten passengers and 14 crewmen rescued from the broken Swedish motorship Christer Salen arrived here tonight aboard the American military transport Marine Phoenix. All were in good condition and none had been injured. Capt. Stanley King of Seattle, the Marine Phoenix skipper, said the forward two-thirds of the cruiser Christer Salen broke off and sank in stormy seas Thursday night about 100 miles off Japan. The ship broke apart just forward of the bridge and engine room.

Effects of 'Isms' Are Classed Vital For All Americans

"Americans today must make a greater effort to realize the effects of 'statism' and other 'isms' on our whole way of life, James Q. duPont a great-great-grandson of the founder of the duPont Company, told members of the Industrial Management Club Thursday night.

DuPont is a member of the public relations department of the E. I. duPont de Nemours and Co., Wilmington, Del.

A first step in coping with the urgent problem of preserving the ideals which have made our country great is to understand the forces that are not at work against those ideals, he said.

"It is particularly necessary to consider how and why some well-educated people today are literally 'taken in' by innocent-looking organizations whose activities are in reality against the best interests of our country," duPont pointed out.

Face Similar Problems

Talking on the subject, "Pioneers, Then and Now," the speaker explained that just as the early settlers had all sorts of difficulties with forests and rivers and other formidable obstacles, there are fields for pioneering today.

"These," duPont said, "are in the realm of ideas and are important if we are to maintain a way of life where dignity of the individual is respected, where he is permitted to develop intellectually and materially with freedom and where he may worship as his conscience directs him."

The speaker added "I am convinced that our biggest problem in the United States today is the new battle for men's minds. This is a battle of individual liberty and responsibility against over-centralized control and it involves us all whether we like it or not."

Nominations Are Made

The following will be voted upon at the March 15 meeting.

John H. Haulnbeek, president; Clair S. Sheaffer, first vice-president; Charles E. Raible, second vice-president; William A. Thiel, recording secretary; H. Irvin Etchells, Jr., treasurer; Burton S. Tandy, executive secretary; John Reid, and Ervin C. Alward, directors.

Through the arrangements with the civil defense corps, a film, "How to Beat the A-Bomb," was shown by Warren Russell.

Would Remove Trestle

Red Bank, N. J., Feb. 17 (AP)—North Jersey shore commuters angered by the Pennsylvania Railroad train wreck in Woodbridge called last night for four safety measures, including removal of the Matawan trestle. Questions concerning the safety of the Matawan trestle and anger at the Pennsylvania Railroad for failing to send a representative to the meeting dominated the discussion.

Says Attlee Needs Lie

Stalin charged:

Prime Minister Attlee needs a lie against the Soviet Union, and it is essential to him to depict the peaceful policy of the Soviet Union as an aggressive one and the aggressive policy of the British government as a peaceful one in order to mislead the British people, to impose upon them the lie about the U.S.S.R. and thus to draw them by means of deceit into the new world war being organized by the ruling classes of the United States."

On the Korean war Stalin said: "If Britain and the United States reject finally the proposal made by the People's Government of China, the war in Korea can only end in a defeat of the interventionists."

(The United Nations has labeled the Red Chinese as the interventionists and aggressors in Korea. Red China has demanded that British and American forces get out and that the Peiping administration be seated in the United Nations. It turned down all U.N. efforts to bring about a cease-fire so that negotiations on Far Eastern problems could begin.)

Strike of 70,000

cuts off most textile workers from any increases and limits others to "pennies."

Not All-Out Strike

It was not an all-out strike within the TWUA because a few plants had contracts which had not expired or had been extended.

Also not affected were thousands of AFL employes and other workers who belong to independent unions or are not organized.

Striking workers are demanding in addition to the pay boost:

An annual increase of six cents an hour, quarterly cost-of-living adjustments; minimum company-paid pensions to total $100 with Social Security; eight, instead of six, paid holidays; three weeks vacation, instead of two, for employes with 10 years service.

Bard Students Study Government In Other Colleges

Annandale-on-Hudson, Feb. 17—Five Bard College students are conducting a survey of college community government problems and operations at six other institutions as a preparation for the drafting of a new constitution for their own community.

During January and this month they visited Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, New York; Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio; Mt. Holyoke College, Holyoke, Mass.; and Marlboro College, Marlboro, Vt. In March they will complete their survey with visits to Bennington College, Bennington, Vt., and Goddard College, Plainfield, Vt.

The group elected by the students and faculty includes Richard Muller of Princeton, N. J., and chairman of the Bard Community Council; David Schwab of New York, and moderator of the Bard Convocation; Whitney Bolton of New York; Naomi Bellinson of Douglaston; and Hannah Kauders of Forest Hills. They have been accompanied by Miss Ruth Gillard ,assistant professor of sociology, who is directing the survey.

The program has been made possible by a grant from the William C. Whitney Foundation of New York to cover travel costs.

The organization of social life on college campuses on a community wide basis is relatively uncommon. Under such plans students, faculty, and administrative staff participate together in the formulation of standards and regulations and share responsibility for their enforcement. The colleges visited by the group all have Community Government programs with the exception of Mt. Holyoke which returned recently to a student government plan after experimenting with the other approach.

The group will continue its studies during the Spring semester and is charged with the responsibility of submitting a draft of a new constitution for the Bard Community in May.

Appellate Division To Argue Point About 'Miracle'

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The issue of whether the Board of Regents has the right to ban "The Miracle" in New York state will be argued next month in the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court.

The Regents' right to revoke licenses for the movie was challenged yesterday by Joseph Burstyn, Inc., American distributor of Roberto Rossellini's Italian film. The Regents said "The Miracle" was "sacrilegious."

A motion by Burstyn to stay enforcement of the ban was denied by Justice Kenneth S. MacOffer.

Samuel A. Aronowitz, counsel for the distributor, contended that the Regents had no authority to countermand the licensing by the State Education Department's motion picture division. The Regents have jurisdiction over the department and division.

Aronowitz and Charles A. Brind, Jr., the Regents' counsel, agreed that the Appellate Division should rule on the case. Both indicated they would like an early settlement of the issue.

The case probably will be brought before the Third Department when it convenes here March 5.

Presumably, the ultimate decision will come from the state's highest tribunal, the Court of Appeals. The decision of he Appellate Division is expected to be appealed.

"The Miracle" has been showing in New York city at the Paris Theatre. It was dropped from the program at 5:30 p. m. (E.S.T.) yesterday, after the Regents announced their ban. The theatre continued to show two other films with which "The Miracle" was grouped. It ran two short subjects, including "Brotherhood of Man," in place of "The Miracle."

"The Miracle" tells a story of an idiot Italian girl who is seduced by a stranger she believes to be St. Joseph. She considers the birth of her child a miracle.

Tire Recap Service Offered by Concern

The Hudson Valley Tire Company is now offering recapping service at its plant at 37 St. James street, according to David Mendel, proprietor.

Equipment for Hawkinson retreads was installed last October and is now in full operation. Tire sizes from passenger car size (640 x 15) up to a large truck size (1100 x 24) can be handled.

The company is still using crude rubber camelback on large truck tires, and a top quality synthetic rubber on smaller tires, Mendel said.

The fleet operator is offered regular periodic inspection of tires at no cost by the company.

The Hudson Valley Tire Company is distributor for General Tire and Rubber Company new tires and tubes, and also carries an accessory line of seat covers.

Personnel includes Mendel, who has been in both the tire and trucking business over a period of 15 years; Richard Streib, outside contact man; James Rutledge, shop foreman who was specially trained in Chicago; James Decker, who works under Rutledge, and Juanita Euerbach, in charge of the office. All are local persons.

In announcing the addition of the new service, Mendel stressed the importance of proper care for tires during this time of national emergency. He invited motorists to his place of business for a complete checkup of their present tires.

Stresses Care of Tires

The importance of proper care of tires was stressed in a message received by Mendel from William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber Company.

"Even with a big increased demand for military purposes," O'Neil wrote, "there will be tires enough in 1951 to meet the vital domestic transportation needs . . . if the motorists buy only those tires absolutely necessary." He warned that the only factor that could cause a shortage of tires this year is a "sudden hysteria wave."

Woman Dies of Crash Injuries; Husband Hurt

Stamford, Conn., Feb. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Albert Harding Davis, died in Stamford Hospital here early today shortly after she was admitted with injuries police said she received in an automobile accident on the Merritt Parkway.

Police said Mrs. Davis was a passenger in a car being driven in an easterly direction by her husband, 42. The car went out of control in some unexplained manner and crashed into a tree.

Davis, an executive of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York, was hospitalized with a broken kneecap and a cut mouth.

Dr. Ralph W. Crane, medical examiner, said Mrs. Davis died from a fractured skull.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Davis is survived by her mother and two sisters, all of whom live in New Zealand.

Funeral plans are incomplete.

Local Man Injured In Hurley Mishap

Frederick Joseph Barnes, about 32, of 82 West Union street, was treated at the Benedictine Hospital Thursday night for injuries received in a two-car accident on Route 209 at Riverside Park, Town of Hurley. The sheriff's office report of the accident listed Barnes' injuries as a fractured left forearm and a broken left index finger.

Deputy Sheriffs Arthur Smith and Earl Conro reported following an investigation that Barnes' automobile skidded on the icy pavement, struck another vehicle, then continued up an embankment, striking a maple tree and rolling back down the bank. The vehicle was badly damaged, the deputies reported.

The other vehicle involved in the accident was driven by Ralph Burger, 55, of 173 Hurley avenue, who was not reported injured, the sheriff's men said. The accident occurred about 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Barnes was taken to the hospital by a W. N. Conner ambulance and was released after treatment and X-ray examination.

Government . . .

Jr., issued a statement that said this:

"The urgent need for national unity is not well served through the device of 'crisis by walkout.' The Wage Stabilization Board cannot function if, as the union leaders seem to desire, it exists only to rubber-stamp hunting licenses for a higher, more inflationary, sixth round of wage increases."

Bitter Attack Made

Earlier the United Labor Policy Committee, which represents the A.F.L., C.I.O., and rail brotherhoods, made a long and bitter attack not only on the wage formula as "unfair and unworkable," but on the price control and manpower programs and the personal leadership of Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

Johnston, as he studied the wage formula, had the power to sign or not to sign, or to change the formula and then sign. He was expected to ponder the matter for a few days before action. Meantime, in order to stay on the job, he cancelled a speech he was to have made tonight in Portland, Ore.

Most government officials believe that wage controls will be ineffective, or at least less effective, if labor unions do not take part in running the program. Labor leaders go further and say flatly that the workers will not accept wage controls unless the unions accept them.

Still Have Hope

If necessary, wage controls could be administered by a single administrator or by a board composed wholly of public members, but officials have not given up hope of continuing the labor-management-public arrangement.

How far the government would go in trying to persuade the unions to walk back it was not known. In that connection, a spokesman for Wilson told reporters that Wilson has invited labor three times to send him a labor leader to be one of his assistants.

At first Wilson insisted that the labor leader must rid himself of all union connections, but the spokesman said that on the third invitation Wilson dropped this insistence and now requires only that the man devote full time to the government post.

A week ago, Johnston named George Harrison, president of the A.F.L. railway clerks, as his principal assistant, but Harrison continues to give part of his time to his unit.

The United Labor Policy Committee charged in yesterday's statement that virtually the whole defense mobilization program has been entrusted to the hands of "a few men recruited from big business."

The committee also charged that the 10 per cent wage formula was dictated by Wilson.

A spokesman for Wilson denied this. So did the three industry members of the board.

The three public members of the board, who joined the industry members in approving the wage formula, are Chairman Cyrus S. Ching, Clark Kerr, and John Dunlop.

Americans Attack

trated the line, it was in no sense a breakthrough. Rather the allied forces rolled with the punch.

"The enemy north of Chechon was believed to be the fifth North Korean Corps. It seemed to be trying to slip into the Pyongchang-Yongwol-Tanyang mountain route to the south."

The fighting before Chechon was not as rough as that before Wonju and Chipyong earlier this week.

Red ground casualties in Korea Friday were estimated at 5,417. This brought to 106,746 the total estimate of enemy dead, wounded and taken prisoner since the U. S. Eighth Army opened a drive Jan. 25 aimed primarily at hunting down and killing Reds.

Unfavorable weather cut allied air activities Friday down to about 500 sorties, less than half of the record 1,027 flown Thursday.

Saturday 10 Russian-made MIG-15 jets jumped a U. S. F-80 Shooting Star near Simanju, a Chongchon river town about 40 miles north of Pyongyang, North Korean capital. The F-80 escaped unharmed into an overcast.

Allied naval forces pounded Korean coasts Friday in diversionary bombardments. Carrier-borne planes added their power to the front-line punch of allied artillery.

Petition Requests Ouster of Macy

Riverhead, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A Republican petition was being circulated today to oust former representative W. Kingsland Macy as party leader in Suffolk county.

Macy, county Republican chairman for 24 years, declared his intention of resigning after his election defeat last November by Rep. Ernest Greenwood (D-Lib.)

Informed of the petition, Macy said, "I don't want to stay as county chairman. But, if the situation becomes forced, I might very well decide to stay.

Officially, the petition going the rounds today asked for a special meeting of the Suffolk County Republican Committee to accept Macy's resignation and elect a successor.

It is being circulated by supporters of County Clerk R. Ford Hughes, once a political lieutenant of Macy's but now after his leadership job.

They claimed 250 signatures already on the petition which is expected to be presented to Macy early next week. Under party rules, 50 signatures are necessary to call a special meeting.

will fail and neither ammunition nor food can reach the Korean front line with regularity."

Description Is Given

He gave this description of the impact of war on Red China's home front:

"The war in Korea, though waged on a very limited scale, is already somewhat of a surprise to the Chinese. Casualties are much greater than they anticipated. The hospitals in Manchuria are inequal to the influx. Hospitals in Peiping are heavily denuded of their nursing staffs as they have gone to the front."

The writer intimated Chinese leaders are deeply concerned over the Korean war losses.

"Though Chinese manpower may be inexhaustible, New China's statesmen are not inhumanly indifferent to the sacrifice of their soldiers," Moore wrote.

Moore, one of the oldest British journalists in India, had sailed to Tientsin without Communist approval and obtained permission there to visit Peiping after the Indian ambassador intervened in his behalf. He is one of the few non-Communist reporters to visit Peiping since Chinese troops began fighting in Korea—perhaps the only one.

Moore described Red China's relations with Russia as "consistently cordial." He said the Soviet announcement it was returning the Manchurian railway and dismantled Manchurian factories to China well ahead of requirements under the new Soviet-Chinese treaty "produced an outburst of gratitude to Russia in the Chinese press."

Two Invited . . .

counted by senators, that Russia has demobilized and that a Third World War is not inevitable "at this time."

General Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, told the committees yesterday that the transfer of four additional American divisions to Europe would "immeasurably improve" the chances of the two already in Germany to survive a Russian attack.

Earlier, Acheson said that the source of the security threat to western Europe and the United States "is the powerful military force assembled by the Soviet Union and its satellites, combined with the hostile intentions which the Soviet Union has demonstrated toward the entire non-Soviet world and the willingness it has recently shown to risk general war."

Bradley and Acheson strongly opposed any congressional limitation on the number involved.

24 Rescued From Ship

Yokohama, Japan, Feb. 17 (AP)—Ten passengers and 14 crewmen rescued from the broken Swedish motorship Christer Salen arrived here tonight aboard the American military transport Marine Phoenix. All were in good condition and none had been injured. Capt. Stanley King of Seattle, the Marine Phoenix skipper, said the forward two-thirds of the cruiser Christer Salen broke off and sank in stormy seas Thursday night about 100 miles off Japan. The ship broke apart just forward of the bridge and engine room.

Effects of 'Isms' Are Classed Vital For All Americans

"Americans today must make a greater effort to realize the effects of 'statism' and other 'isms' on our whole way of life, James Q. duPont a great-great-grandson of the founder of the duPont Company, told members of the Industrial Management Club Thursday night.

DuPont is a member of the public relations department of the E. I. duPont de Nemours and Co., Wilmington, Del.

A first step in coping with the urgent problem of preserving the ideals which have made our country great is to understand the forces that are not at work against those ideals, he said.

"It is particularly necessary to consider how and why some well-educated people today are literally 'taken in' by innocent-looking organizations whose activities are in reality against the best interests of our country," duPont pointed out.

Face Similar Problems

Talking on the subject, "Pioneers, Then and Now," the speaker explained that just as the early settlers had all sorts of difficulties with forests and rivers and other formidable obstacles, there are fields for pioneering today.

"These," duPont said, "are in the realm of ideas and are important if we are to maintain a way of life where dignity of the individual is respected, where he is permitted to develop intellectually and materially with freedom and where he may worship as his conscience directs him."

The speaker added "I am convinced that our biggest problem in the United States today is the new battle for men's minds. This is a battle of individual liberty and responsibility against over-centralized control and it involves us all whether we like it or not."

Nominations Are Made

Frank Strobel, chairman of the nominating committee, announced the names of the candidates for office following duPont's speech.

The following will be voted upon at the March 15 meeting.

John H. Haulnbeek, president; Clair S. Sheaffer, first vice-president; Charles E. Raible, second vice-president; William A. Thiel, recording secretary; H. Irvin Etchells, Jr., treasurer; Burton S. Tandy, executive secretary; John Reid, and Ervin C. Alward, directors.

Through the arrangements with the civil defense corps, a film, "How to Beat the A-Bomb," was shown by Warren Russell.

Would Remove Trestle

Red Bank, N. J., Feb. 17 (AP)—North Jersey shore commuters angered by the Pennsylvania Railroad train wreck in Woodbridge called last night for four safety measures, including removal of the Matawan trestle. Questions concerning the safety of the Matawan trestle and anger at the Pennsylvania Railroad for failing to send a representative to the meeting dominated the discussion.

Says Attlee Needs Lie

Stalin charged:

Prime Minister Attlee needs a lie against the Soviet Union, and it is essential to him to depict the peaceful policy of the Soviet Union as an aggressive one and the aggressive policy of the British government as a peaceful one in order to mislead the British people, to impose upon them the lie about the U.S.S.R. and thus to draw them by means of deceit into the new world war being organized by the ruling classes of the United States."

On the Korean war Stalin said: "If Britain and the United States reject finally the proposal made by the People's Government of China, the war in Korea can only end in a defeat of the interventionists."

(The United Nations has labeled the Red Chinese as the interventionists and aggressors in Korea. Red China has demanded that British and American forces get out and that the Peiping administration be seated in the United Nations. It turned down all U.N. efforts to bring about a cease-fire so that negotiations on Far Eastern problems could begin.)

Strike of 70,000

cuts off most textile workers from any increases and limits others to "pennies."

Not All-Out Strike

It was not an all-out strike within the TWUA because a few plants had contracts which had not expired or had been extended.

Also not affected were thousands of AFL employes and other workers who belong to independent unions or are not organized.

Striking workers are demanding in addition to the pay boost:

An annual increase of six cents an hour, quarterly cost-of-living adjustments; minimum company-paid pensions to total $100 with Social Security; eight, instead of six, paid holidays; three weeks vacation, instead of two, for employes with 10 years service.

Bard Students Study Government In Other Colleges

Annandale-on-Hudson, Feb. 17—Five Bard College students are conducting a survey of college community government problems and operations at six other institutions as a preparation for the drafting of a new constitution for their own community.

During January and this month they visited Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, New York; Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio; Mt. Holyoke College, Holyoke, Mass.; and Marlboro College, Marlboro, Vt. In March they will complete their survey with visits to Bennington College, Bennington, Vt., and Goddard College, Plainfield, Vt.

The group elected by the students and faculty includes Richard Muller of Princeton, N. J., and chairman of the Bard Community Council; David Schwab of New York, and moderator of the Bard Convocation; Whitney Bolton of New York; Naomi Bellinson of Douglaston; and Hannah Kauders of Forest Hills. They have been accompanied by Miss Ruth Gillard ,assistant professor of sociology, who is directing the survey.

The program has been made possible by a grant from the William C. Whitney Foundation of New York to cover travel costs.

The organization of social life on college campuses on a community wide basis is relatively uncommon. Under such plans students, faculty, and administrative staff participate together in the formulation of standards and regulations and share responsibility for their enforcement. The colleges visited by the group all have Community Government programs with the exception of Mt. Holyoke which returned recently to a student government plan after experimenting with the other approach.

The group will continue its studies during the Spring semester and is charged with the responsibility of submitting a draft of a new constitution for the Bard Community in May.

Appellate Division To Argue Point About 'Miracle'

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—The issue of whether the Board of Regents has the right to ban "The Miracle" in New York state will be argued next month in the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court.

The Regents' right to revoke licenses for the movie was challenged yesterday by Joseph Burstyn, Inc., American distributor of Roberto Rossellini's Italian film. The Regents said "The Miracle" was "sacrilegious."

A motion by Burstyn to stay enforcement of the ban was denied by Justice Kenneth S. MacOffer.

Samuel A. Aronowitz, counsel for the distributor, contended that the Regents had no authority to countermand the licensing by the State Education Department's motion picture division. The Regents have jurisdiction over the department and division.

Aronowitz and Charles A. Brind, Jr., the Regents' counsel, agreed that the Appellate Division should rule on the case. Both indicated they would like an early settlement of the issue.

The case probably will be brought before the Third Department when it convenes here March 5.

Presumably, the ultimate decision will come from the state's highest tribunal, the Court of Appeals. The decision of he Appellate Division is expected to be appealed.

"The Miracle" has been showing in New York city at the Paris Theatre. It was dropped from the program at 5:30 p. m. (E.S.T.) yesterday, after the Regents announced their ban. The theatre continued to show two other films with which "The Miracle" was grouped. It ran two short subjects, including "Brotherhood of Man," in place of "The Miracle|"

"The Miracle" tells a story of an idiot Italian girl who is seduced by a stranger she believes to be St. Joseph. She considers the birth of her child a miracle.

Tire Recap Service Offered by Concern

The Hudson Valley Tire Company is now offering recapping service at its plant at 37 St. James street, according to David Mendel, proprietor.

Equipment for Hawkinson retreads was installed last October and is now in full operation. Tire sizes from passenger car size (640 x 15) up to a large truck size (1100 x 24) can be handled.

The company is still using crude rubber camelback on large truck tires, and a top quality synthetic rubber on smaller tires, Mendel said.

The fleet operator is offered regular periodic inspection of tires at no cost by the company.

The Hudson Valley Tire Company is distributor for General Tire and Rubber Company new tires and tubes, and also carries an accessory line of seat covers.

Personnel includes Mendel, who has been in both the tire and trucking business over a period of 15 years; Richard Streib, outside contact man; James Rutledge, shop foreman who was specially trained in Chicago; James Decker, who works under Rutledge, and Juanita Euerbach, in charge of the office. All are local persons.

In announcing the addition of the new service, Mendel stressed the importance of proper care for tires during this time of national emergency. He invited motorists to his place of business for a complete checkup of their present tires.

Stresses Care of Tires

The importance of proper care of tires was stressed in a message received by Mendel from William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber Company.

"Even with a big increased demand for military purposes," O'Neil wrote, "there will be tires enough in 1951 to meet the vital domestic transportation needs . . . if the motorists buy only those tires absolutely necessary." He warned that the only factor that could cause a shortage of tires this year is a "sudden hysteria wave."

Woman Dies of Crash Injuries; Husband Hurt

Stamford, Conn., Feb. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Albert Harding Davis, died in Stamford Hospital here early today shortly after she was admitted with injuries police said she received in an automobile accident on the Merritt Parkway.

Police said Mrs. Davis was a passenger in a car being driven in an easterly direction by her husband, 42. The car went out of control in some unexplained manner and crashed into a tree.

Davis, an executive of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York, was hospitalized with a broken kneecap and a cut mouth.

Dr. Ralph W. Crane, medical examiner, said Mrs. Davis died from a fractured skull.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Davis is survived by her mother and two sisters, all of whom live in New Zealand.

Local Man Injured In Hurley Mishap

Frederick Joseph Barnes, about 32, of 82 West Union street, was treated at the Benedictine Hospital Thursday night for injuries received in a two-car accident on Route 209 at Riverside Park, Town of Hurley. The sheriff's office report of the accident listed Barnes' injuries as a fractured left forearm and a broken left index finger.

Deputy Sheriffs Arthur Smith and Earl Conro reported following an investigation that Barnes' automobile skidded on the icy pavement, struck another vehicle, then continued up an embankment, striking a maple tree and rolling back down the bank. The vehicle was badly damaged, the deputies reported.

The other vehicle involved in the accident was driven by Ralph Burger, 55, of 173 Hurley avenue, who was not reported injured, the sheriff's men said. The accident occurred about 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Barnes was taken to the hospital by a W. N. Conner ambulance and was released after treatment and X-ray examination.

Government . . .

Jr., issued a statement that said this:

"The urgent need for national unity is not well served through the device of 'crisis by walkout.' The Wage Stabilization Board cannot function if, as the union leaders seem to desire, it exists only to rubber-stamp hunting licenses for a higher, more inflationary, sixth round of wage increases."

Bitter Attack Made

Earlier the United Labor Policy Committee, which represents the A.F.L., C.I.O., and rail brotherhoods, made a long and bitter attack not only on the wage formula as "unfair and unworkable," but on the price control and manpower programs and the personal leadership of Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

Johnston, as he studied the wage formula, had the power to sign or not to sign, or to change the formula and then sign. He was expected to ponder the matter for a few days before action. Meantime, in order to stay on the job, he cancelled a speech he was to have made tonight in Portland, Ore.

Most government officials believe that wage controls will be ineffective, or at least less effective, if labor unions do not take part in running the program. Labor leaders go further and say flatly that the workers will not accept wage controls unless the unions accept them.

Still Have Hope

If necessary, wage controls could be administered by a single administrator or by a board composed wholly of public members, but officials have not given up hope of continuing the labor-management-public arrangement.

How far the government would go in trying to persuade the unions to walk back it was not known. In that connection, a spokesman for Wilson told reporters that Wilson has invited labor three times to send him a labor leader to be one of his assistants.

At first Wilson insisted that the labor leader must rid himself of all union connections, but the spokesman said that on the third invitation Wilson dropped this insistence and now requires only that the man devote full time to the government post.

A week ago, Johnston named George Harrison, president of the A.F.L. railway clerks, as his principal assistant, but Harrison continues to give part of his time to his unit.

The United Labor Policy Committee charged in yesterday's statement that virtually the whole defense mobilization program has been entrusted to the hands of "a few men recruited from big business."

The committee also charged that the 10 per cent wage formula was dictated by Wilson.

A spokesman for Wilson denied this. So did the three industry members of the board.

The three public members of the board, who joined the industry members in approving the wage formula, are Chairman Cyrus S. Ching, Clark Kerr, and John Dunlop.

Americans Attack

trated the line, it was in no sense a breakthrough. Rather the allied forces rolled with the punch.

"The enemy north of Chechon was believed to be the fifth North Korean Corps. It seemed to be trying to slip into the Pyongchang-Yongwol-Tanyang mountain route to the south."

The fighting before Chechon was not as rough as that before Wonju and Chipyong earlier this week.

Red ground casualties in Korea Friday were estimated at 5,417. This brought to 106,746 the total estimate of enemy dead, wounded and taken prisoner since the U. S. Eighth Army opened a drive Jan. 25 aimed primarily at hunting down and killing Reds.

Unfavorable weather cut allied air activities Friday down to about 500 sorties, less than half of the record 1,027 flown Thursday.

Saturday 10 Russian-made MIG-15 jets jumped a U. S. F-80 Shooting Star near Simanju, a Chongchon river town about 40 miles north of Pyongyang, North Korean capital. The F-80 escaped unharmed into an overcast.

Allied naval forces pounded Korean coasts Friday in diversionary bombardments. Carrier-borne planes added their power to the front-line punch of allied artillery.

Petition Requests Ouster of Macy

Riverhead, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A Republican petition was being circulated today to oust former representative W. Kingsland Macy as party leader in Suffolk county.

Macy, county Republican chairman for 24 years, declared his intention of resigning after his election defeat last November by Rep. Ernest Greenwood (D-Lib.)

Informed of the petition, Macy said, "I don't want to stay as county chairman. But, if the situation becomes forced, I might very well decide to stay.

Officially, the petition going the rounds today asked for a special meeting of the Suffolk County Republican Committee to accept Macy's resignation and elect a successor.

It is being circulated by supporters of County Clerk R. Ford Hughes, once a political lieutenant of Macy's but now after his leadership job.

They claimed 250 signatures already on the petition which is expected to be presented to Macy early next week. Under party rules, 50 signatures are necessary to call a special meeting.

Hindustan Paper

will fail and neither ammunition nor food can reach the Korean front line with regularity."

Description Is Given

He gave this description of the impact of war on Red China's home front:

"The war in Korea, though waged on a very limited scale, is already somewhat of a surprise to the Chinese. Casualties are much greater than they anticipated. The hospitals in Manchuria are inequal to the influx. Hospitals in Peiping are heavily denuded of their nursing staffs as they have gone to the front."

The writer intimated Chinese leaders are deeply concerned over the Korean war losses.

"Though Chinese manpower may be inexhaustible, New China's statesmen are not inhumanly indifferent to the sacrifice of their soldiers," Moore wrote.

Moore, one of the oldest British journalists in India, had sailed to Tientsin without Communist approval and obtained permission there to visit Peiping after the Indian ambassador intervened in his behalf. He is one of the few non-Communist reporters to visit Peiping since Chinese troops began fighting in Korea—perhaps the only one.

Moore described Red China's relations with Russia as "consistently cordial." He said the Soviet announcement it was returning the Manchurian railway and dismantled Manchurian factories to China well ahead of requirements under the new Soviet-Chinese treaty "produced an outburst of gratitude to Russia in the Chinese press."

Two Invited . . .

counted by senators, that Russia has demobilized and that a Third World War is not inevitable "at this time."

General Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, told the committees yesterday that the transfer of four additional American divisions to Europe would "immeasurably improve" the chances of the two already in Germany to survive a Russian attack.

Earlier, Acheson said that the source of the security threat to western Europe and the United States "is the powerful military force assembled by the Soviet Union and its satellites, combined with the hostile intentions which the Soviet Union has demonstrated toward the entire non-Soviet world and the willingness it has recently shown to risk general war."

Bradley and Acheson strongly opposed any congressional limitation on the number involved.

24 Rescued From Ship

Yokohama, Japan, Feb. 17 (AP)—Ten passengers and 14 crewmen rescued from the broken Swedish motorship Christer Salen arrived here tonight aboard the American military transport Marine Phoenix. All were in good condition and none had been injured. Capt. Stanley King of Seattle, the Marine Phoenix skipper, said the forward two-thirds of the cruiser Christer Salen broke off and sank in stormy seas Thursday night about 100 miles off Japan. The ship broke apart just forward of the bridge and engine room.

Effects of 'Isms' Are Classed Vital For All Americans

"Americans today must make a greater effort to realize the effects of 'statism' and other 'isms' on our whole way of life, James Q. duPont a great-great-grandson of the founder of the duPont Company, told members of the Industrial Management Club Thursday night.

DuPont is a member of the public relations department of the E. I. duPont de Nemours and Co., Wilmington, Del.

A first step in coping with the urgent problem of preserving the ideals which have made our country great is to understand the forces that are not at work against those ideals, he said.

"It is particularly necessary to consider how and why some well-educated people today are literally 'taken in' by innocent-looking organizations whose activities are in reality against the best interests of our country," duPont pointed out.

Face Similar Problems

Talking on the subject, "Pioneers, Then and Now," the speaker explained that just as the early settlers had all sorts of difficulties with forests and rivers and other formidable obstacles, there are fields for pioneering today.

"These," duPont said, "are in the realm of ideas and are important if we are to maintain a way of life where dignity of the individual is respected, where he is permitted to develop intellectually and materially with freedom and where he may worship as his conscience directs him."

The speaker added "I am convinced that our biggest problem in the United States today is the new battle for men's minds. This is a battle of individual liberty and responsibility against over-centralized control and it involves us all whether we like it or not."

Nominations Are Made

Frank Strobel, chairman of the nominating committee, announced the names of the candidates for office following duPont's speech.

The following will be voted upon at the March 15 meeting.

John H. Haulnbeek, president; Clair S. Sheaffer, first vice-president; Charles E. Raible, second vice-president; William A. Thiel, recording secretary; H. Irvin Etchells, Jr., treasurer; Burton S. Tandy, executive secretary; John Reid, and Ervin C. Alward, directors.

Through the arrangements with the civil defense corps, a film, "How to Beat the A-Bomb," was shown by Warren Russell.

Would Remove Trestle

Red Bank, N. J., Feb. 17 (AP)—North Jersey shore commuters angered by the Pennsylvania Railroad train wreck in Woodbridge called last night for four safety measures, including removal of the Matawan trestle. Questions concerning the safety of the Matawan trestle and anger at the Pennsylvania Railroad for failing to send a representative to the meeting dominated the discussion.

Stalin Charges . . .

of millions in budget expenditure; continue the policy of systematic price reduction for consumer goods which also demands scores of thousands of millions in budget expenditure; invest hundreds of thousands of millions in the restoration of the national economy destroyed by the German invaders; and together simultaneously with this multiply its armed forces and develop war industry."

Says Attlee Needs Lie

Stalin charged:

Prime Minister Attlee needs a lie against the Soviet Union, and it is essential to him to depict the peaceful policy of the Soviet Union as an aggressive one and the aggressive policy of the British government as a peaceful one in order to mislead the British people, to impose upon them the lie about the U.S.S.R. and thus to draw them by means of deceit into the new world war being organized by the ruling classes of the United States."

On the Korean war Stalin said: "If Britain and the United States reject finally the proposal made by the People's Government of China, the war in Korea can only end in a defeat of the interventionists."

(The United Nations has labeled the Red Chinese as the interventionists and aggressors in Korea. Red China has demanded that British and American forces get out and that the Peiping administration be seated in the United Nations. It turned down all U.N. efforts to bring about a cease-fire so that negotiations on Far Eastern problems could begin.)

Strike of 70,000

cuts off most textile workers from any increases and limits others to "pennies."

Not All-Out Strike

It was not an all-out strike within the TWUA because a few plants had contracts which had not expired or had been extended.

Also not affected were thousands of AFL employes and other workers who belong to independent unions or are not organized.

Striking workers are demanding in addition to the pay boost:

An annual increase of six cents an hour, quarterly cost-of-living adjustments; minimum company-paid pensions to total $100 with Social Security; eight, instead of six, paid holidays; three weeks vacation, instead of two, for employes with 10 years service.
